Southwestern Pennsylvania Holstein Show Opens Fayette Fair

DUNBAR (Fayette Co.) — Though the monster trucks made the headlines in the community daily, it was the Southwestern Pennsylvania Championship Holstein Show that kicked off the Fayette County Fair on July 30.

The cool weather contrasted the hot, sticky environment some have come to expect at the fair. Several people in the barns wore long-sleeved shirts and hooded sweatshirts as they prepared their animals.

Attracting 66 entrants this year, the show grew slightly in number from last year. Some of the increase came from northwestern region entrants. That show was canceled because of concerns related to bovine viral diarrhea (BVD).

Judge for the show, James Burdette of Windy Knoll View Farm, Franklin County, has been active both as a judge and showman in local, state, and national shows.

The well-organized show committee, chaired by Smock dairyman Rick Allen, befitted from improvements made in the arena, especially the public address system.

The crowd cheered as the winner in the first class was

Plan Visit To Ag Progress

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Activity at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center has increased dramatically as preparations are underway for Ag Progress Days Tuesday through Thursday, August 16 to 18. The center is located nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45. This year's theme, "Penn State Ag Sciences...We're More Than You Think!" centers on food safety.

This exposition annually draws about 300 exhibitors and 50,000 people to participate in one of agriculture's premier educational events. Lancaster Farming's issue next week will feature extensive preparatory coverage of the schedule of events, and messages from exhibitors who will be at the show. In addition, to help you plan your visit, see Page D2 this issue for an early review of the daily schedule and a layout of the grounds.

Dupuis Puts Mark In Dairy Promotion

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Elizabeth "Betsy" Dupuis is well known across the state, even if her name may not be.

As communications director of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, she has been a familiar face to those heavily involved with the state's dairy promotion efforts.

She was one of the first-hired to work for PDPP as an independent agency, and under a now 5-year-old dairy promotion partnership between promotional agencies which raised the value of dairy promotion dollars.

In 1991, she stood for hours in the Main Lobby of Farm Show Complex, in front of the famous first butter sculpture of the state Farm Show, and, in tour-guide fashion, talked to crowds of youth and passersby about the dairy industry and the bulter sculpture and its creator.

She has been in the middle of crowded baseball stadiums with celebrity milking contests, helped organize and man events such as the Penn State Tailgate Promotion, wine and cheese events in the Poconos, in the streets of Philadelphia promoting ice cream, in stores, in cities and schools, etc.

She has been interviewed on radio and television and by newspaper media countless times. She has prepared and disseminated

Kirst Takes Home Champion Beef Honors At Lebanon

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — "Fozzy," a 1,250-pound Angus/Simmental cross shown by 18-year-old Roxanne Kirst, was honored as supreme champion at the market steer show on Tuesday afternoon at the Lebanon Fair.

The show was held despite widespread concern about bovine viral diarrhea (BVD), which reduced the size of the steer show to only 15 animals, a third of the size originally planned, according to Ken Winebark, county extension agent.

Roxanne, 18, daughter of Roger and Fern Kirst, Fredericksburg, obtained the calf from her uncle, Richard Kreider, Prescott. The cross, from the heavyweight class, bested the reserve shown by Kyle Fleener, 10, Robesonia. Kyle's steer, "Charles Barkley," a Maine Anjou/Angus/Chianina that won reserve from the heavyweight class, was obtained from Kyle's great-grandfather, Elmer Stehman, Robesonia. Kyle, 10, son of Tim and Sarah Fleener, Robesonia, will attend fifth grade at Ft. Sellers Elementary.

This was the first championships for both exhibitors.

Though she says she prefers Jerseys, Betsy Dupuis squeezes an inflatable Holstein with the milk promotion logo, while behind her is a Jay Bell wall growth chart, and a bronze milk can is next to her. All these promotional items, and many, many more have been imprinted in some way over the past five years by Dupuis, as a promotions specialist and then as communications director for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program. She is now pursuing a law degree that she says she hopes to use to help landowners and agriculturalists fight for their rights.

Eastern PA & NJ Poultry Report

Atlanta, Ga.

Tuesday, August 2, 1994

Prices were unchanged. Trade sentiment was barely steady on larger sizes but usually steadier on lighter weights. Demand was at least fair, although improvement was noted in some locations for first of month business. Supplies were ample to fully adequate on extra large, fully adequate to available on large and generally in balance on mediums.

PRICES TO RETAILERS, SALES TO VOLUME BUYERS, USDA GRADE A AND GRADE A, WHITE EGG IN CARTONS, DELIVERED STORE DOOR, CENTS PER DOZEN RANGE EXTRA LARGE .73-.75, LARGE .70-.73, MEDIUMS .52-.55.

National Egg Market

Atlanta, Georgia

Wednesday, August 3, 1994

Prices were generally trending lower on large and heavier weights in the South Central region but unchanged elsewhere. Trade sentiment was mixed and barely steady, especially on heavier weights. Demand was fair to good, best where features were planned or in progress. Offerings were irregular from area to area. Loose eggs were traded at or below normal relationship to cartoned product. White shell heavy weight eggs were more available than either medium or heavy brown eggs. Breaking stock values were trending lower in some locations as offerings increased. Live hen offerings were adequate for processing needs.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, August 3, 1994

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds varied, but was often noted as no better than moderate and generally below first-of-the-month expectations. Offerings were no more than adequate on under 3 pound sizes; fully adequate on the larger sizes. Live supplies were moderate; weights varied in a full range, but were more readily available on the heavier sizes. Processing schedules were very heavy. Some downtime was projected tomorrow due to light weights. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 52 to 62 cents. Trade sentiment was about steady. Parts were fully adequate with leg quarters noted in best balance.

Take this PRIME Opportunity to GROW With Us!

As a business person, you recognize the importance of providing supplemental protein, vitamins and minerals to your dairy cows on a daily basis. That's why Agway has teamed up with Mol-Mix® Liquid Supplements and can now offer you Free-Choice Prime and Prime with Bovatec® products.

Balance.

Mol-Mix Free-Choice Prime Liquid Supplements are formulated to provide protein (from both natural sources and non-protein nitrogen) plus vitamins and minerals to balance your livestock's rations — especially when pasture quality is down.

Growth.

Mol-Mix Free-Choice Prime Liquid Supplements with Bovatec were the first FDA-approved Bovatec-medicated free-choice liquid supplements. They are used for increased weight gain of dairy and beef replacement heifers by enabling them to utilize energy and protein more efficiently.

Mol-Mix.

These Mol-Mix Liquid Supplements are also guaranteed to give you:

- Safety
- Convenience
- Palatability
- Consistency

Call us at 1-800-GO-AGWAY or contact your local Feed Sales Specialist today for more information.

Dear Friends of the Clinic for Special Children,

We are again asking for your support and donations of saleable items to sell at the 4th Annual Benefit Auction on Sept. 17, 1994, at the Leola Produce Auction site on Brethren Church Rd., Leola, PA.

All proceeds will go to the Clinic for Special Children, a non-profit organization, with Dr Holmes Morton as the attending physician Dr Morton has taken a special interest in several hereditary diseases. By testing all newborn babies of high-risk percent-age, he has been able to prevent irreversible brain damage of many of these young children The same tests that are done at the clinic for $35.00 would cost $350.00 to $400.00 at major medical centers, making these tests too expensive for many parents The costs of owning and operating this laboratory equipment are huge, but with the funds from this annual auction the clinic has been able to offer this service to their clients at a price that is affordable by the average parent.

You may contact any of the following for more information or, if you wish, deliver your donation to any of them. Thank you for your support.*

The Sales Committee

NOTICE! If you wish to donate items that should be listed on our sale bill, such as Winross trucks, special quilts, or any other items, our advertising deadline is Wed., Aug. 9th. Please call or write to one of the following... thanks again for your past and future support!

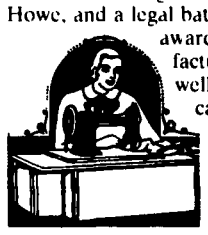
The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

AUGUST 8-14 1994

DOG DAYS END, AUG. 11.

TO SEW A FINE SEAM

On August 12, 1851, Isaac Singer obtained a patent on his rocking-treadle sewing machine. Singer's invention had many improvements over previous, unsuccessful machines it had a straight needle that went up and down, it could sew a straight or curved seam, and it had a foot-operated treadle to run the mechanism Unfortunately, it also had the special lock-stitch that had been previously patented by Elias Howe Singer refused to negotiate an agreement with Howe, and a legal battle ensued. Finally, in 1854, Howe was awarded a royalty on every machine manufactured Howe and Singer both did quite well financially and the public got a practical, affordable sewing machine.



Late resounds what early sounded. — Goethe

TIP OF THE WEEK

The nitrogen-rich tops of potatoes, beets, carrots, and parsnips are good additions to your compost heap.

EARTHWISE

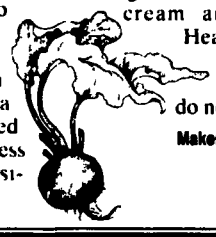
Long before "the environment" became such a hot topic, Buckminster Fuller said, "Pollution is nothing but the resources we are not harvesting We allow them to disperse because we've been ignorant of their value " To successfully conquer the problems of pollution and waste, we need to change not only our habits, but our attitudes as well We can think of recycling as a pain-in-the-neck imposed on us or a savvy business investment in this business of living on earth.

POLISH BEETS AND SOUR CREAM

2 tablespoons butter
4 cups shredded, cooked beets (8 medium)
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sour cream
1 tablespoon vinegar

Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in beets and heat gently. Stir in flour, sugar, and salt. Add sour cream and vinegar. Heat thoroughly, stirring frequently, but do not boil.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Rainy and cool; clearing and very cool; then sunny and warm, some showers.

SOUTHEAST: Hot, showers, thundershowers Florida; partial clearing.

MIDWEST: Clear and hot, cool and rainy north and east.

NORTHWEST: Cool and rainy; then sunny and warming, few showers.

OPINION

Cholesterol Hysteria

People today live longer in our country than they ever have before. But for some reason, more people are afraid for their health. Much of this fear comes from thinking that what they eat may be contaminated by some unknown food ingredient that may give them a heart attack.

Speaking on "Diet and Health" at the recent Reciprocal Meat Conference sponsored by the American Meat Science Association, Dr. David Kritchevsky said there has been a "cholesterol hysteria" sweeping the country. This hysteria has to a large extent ignored the facts related to cholesterol and health.

"We really are healthy, despite what you've been hearing," Kritchevsky said. "Studies conducted to date fail to definitively support many of the cholesterol recommendations being made today."

There are numerous factors that affect blood cholesterol levels, such as laboratory methods, diet, exercise, alcohol, season, time of day and the position of the body when tested. That's right, the position of the body when tested can change the results of the test. All these things interract, and there is very little research on these interractions.

And here is the kicker. Kritchevsky pointed out that the deaths among people with low cholesterol (below 159) were higher than for any other group. They didn't die from heart disease, but deaths from other causes were up significantly.

There's little solace in knowing that you proved the theory but died anyhow.

Now Is The Time

To Be Safe With Slow Moving Vehicles

As summer harvest season starts to increase, make sure you are moving farm tractors and equipment safely.

Have the slow moving vehicle sign installed on all farm equipment and tractors. When moving equipment on highways, have a car or truck follow at a safe distance with four-way flashers on to warn approaching traffic.

Have a crossing guard with flag to aid when moving equipment or livestock from one side of the road to the other side. Be courteous to traffic and pull over and stop periodically to let traffic pass you.

Finally, do not allow riders, especially small children, on tractors. You and your family will have a hard time forgiving you if something happens to a child. The best policy is NO RIDERS.

To Plan Ahead For Expansion

If you are considering expanding your operation, give yourself at least two years of planning time. This may seem like a long time, but it will pay big dividends.

First, visit other operations in other counties and states. Observe how things are done. Talk with the people actually doing the work. Look at the nuts and bolts of the operation. Identify the potential headaches and dirty jobs and see how they are being handled.

Take off the "rose colored" glasses and observe the daily routine and ask yourself, "Is this me?" Then you need to budget and budget and budget some more. If you cannot make it pay, then you cannot afford the investment.

The budget should also look at your limits. Your limit to handle change, limit to number of animal units your farm may carry, limit to how quick you can expand, and your debt-carrying limit.

Know the permit requirements. These could take several years to obtain, depending on the size of the expansion.

To Know Rules For Successful Expansion

Gary Snider, Farm Credit of Western New York, offered several fundamental rules to follow when considering expansion.

First, grow by steps, but grow each year. Second, make sure you have several profitable years under your belt. Third, run facilities at full capacity before, during, and after expansion. Fourth, prove to yourself that you can handle the pressure, the debt, the management, the changes, and the people.

If you are looking at a major expansion, you are also looking at a major change in your job. You will be doing less technical work and more business and managing people assignments.

A business control system will be a very important. This will include a daily production chart, regular per unit costs, capital spending plan, monthly cash flows, and regular business analysis.

Finally, be convinced you want to work with people.

JUBILEE ANYONE?
August 7, 1994

JUBILEE ANYONE?
August 7, 1994

Background Scripture:
Leviticus 25:8-10, 23-28, 39-42
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 3:5-9

The Old Testament Concept of the year of jubilee is one I wish Christians had borrowed, as we borrowed so much else, from Judasim. To the best of my knowledge, I think it is celebrated at times in the Roman Catholic Church, but I confess I know little about that observance.

The year of jubilee was based upon the psychology of human nature. Just as God knew that the people of Israel needed a Sabbath so that human life would not be one long succession of undifferentiated days, so He knew that there must be special seasons in the life of the human soul. Life cannot afford to be all work and no Sabbath and correspondingly, life cannot be all Sabbath and no work. There needs to be a rhythm of lilfe between contrasts — day and night, work and celebration.

One of the essential elements of life is celebration. We need to work hard and diligently and then we need to celebrate. Life in the Old Testament community is a constant cycle of labor and celebration. Today that is still one of the great motivations behind worship — we worship to celebrate the grace of our Lord.

A SPECIAL TIME

The jubilee was also intended to be a time when wrongs were righted. Not that they were not to be righted at all times, but that at the time of jubilee, a special extra intentional effort was to be made. Note that all the things God requires of His people in the year of jubilee were designed to be beneficial to the life of the people. Hebrew slaves were to be released, bondage was to be terminated, liberty proclaimed, and the year was to be sanctified or set apart for special holy works.

Actually, the word "holy" means something set apart. It is true that all of life should be filled with our awareness and response to God, but there is also a need for special times of awareness and response. At Christmas we celebrate God's incarnation in the person of Jesus Christ and most people are moved to be a bit more loving, a bit more generous, a bit more sympathetic to the needs of others. Christmas sermons urge us to extend the Christmas spirit into the other 365 days of the year.

SPIRITUAL SEASONS

Yet, few, if any of us, ever live our lives on a steady, unwavering plane of spirituality. Just as our physical vitality ebbs and flows and our mental acuity has peaks and valleys, so the spirit varies in its intensity, minute by minute, day by day, season by season. So we need special times, jubilees, to call us once again to our highest level of spiritual awareness and resolve. We need to interrupt our work with celebration so that we can return to it with new understanding, resolve and vitality.

The jubilee/Sabbath is also a time of faith. "And if you say, 'What shall we eat in the seventh year, if we may not sow or gather in our crop?' I will command my blessing upon you in the sixth year, so that it will bring forth fruit for three years" (25:20, 21). Just as the people of Israel in the desert had to trust God to provide for them on the Sabbath, so they had to trust in His providence during the Sabbath year and the jubilee. It took an act of faith to refrain from planting and harvesting in that seventh year. All they had from God was a promise — could they live on that? Can we?

Is there provision for Sabbath and jubilee in your life? A time when you turn aside from your daily work and preoccupation to celebrate the goodness of God, to return to your roots, to see and respond to the needs of others, to remember that everything in this world belongs to God and is only temporarily ours?

Jubilee anyone?

Judge Larry Weaver, New Holland, said the heavyweight steer exhibited a "lot of red meat." The reserve, said Weaver, needed another hundred pounds to "finish out nice."

Kirst was also named champion of the 4-H showmanship contest and blocking competition at the fair.

In all, there were a total of 15 market steers. The Farm Show steer was awarded to Jamie Risser. There were 14 exhibitors. Following is a list of show placings.

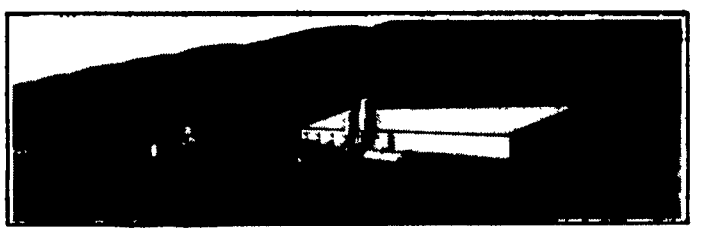
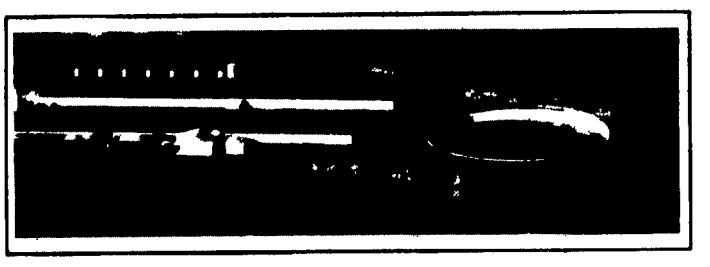
PIG SAVER "DUTCH CRATE"
Developed through testing in our research farms the goal was to develop a crate that nearly eliminates crushing, due to lay ons, unmatched durability and be easy to work around. All this has been achieved by a unique gravity fliprail that forces sows to lie down slowly and using stainless steel for rear doors and legs, proven horizontal and solid steel rod construction. All this at a reasonable cost. Crate also can be installed on an angle.

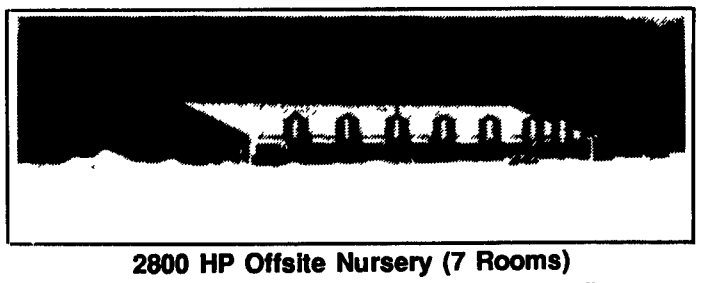


300 Sow Farrow - Feeder Pig Unit

CONFINEMENT STALLS
Developed in our R&D farm. Our goals were convenience, safety and durability. The low back and flat top rails are easy to reach over with no sharp edges. Stainless steel rear legs and front feet along with solid steel horizontal rods through punched uprights provide the strongest, most durable stall ever produced by Tri-County (21"-24" O.C. x86")

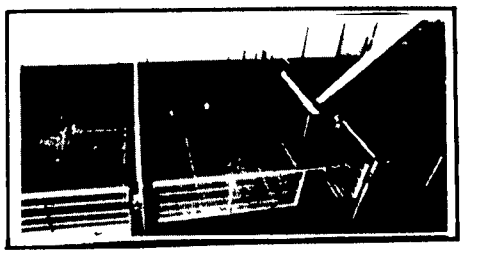


1200 Sow Farrow-Feeder Pig Unit



2800 HP Offsite Nursery (7 Rooms)
(Pull Plug, Preferated Ceiling Ventilated)

NURSERY PENNING
Nursery penning has been improved by the use of an optional solid stainless steel panel on the front gates which keeps walkways clean. Stainless steel feet on penning eliminate corrosion where penning attaches to the floor. Stainless steel drinker pipes & mounting brackets also increase durability.



FINISHING PENNING
Standard stainless steel feet and fasteners offer improved durability over other similar types of penning. Loop and flapper latch arrangement eliminates the use of drop pins. Stainless steel fence line feeders provide excellent durability and a minimum of waste.

Increase your wheat yield by $26.38 an acre, with Hoffman 89

Penn State Small Grain Trials
Three-Year Performance Summary, 1991-1993

Centre County	Grain Yield	Bushel Weight	Test Wt. Loss (per acre)	Yield Loss (per acre)	Total Loss (per acre)
Hoffman 89	83 Bu/A	61.9 lb/Bu	-	-	-
Average	74 Bu/A	60.2 lb/Bu	-	$27.00	$27.00
% Advantage	12%	3%
Lancaster County	Grain Yield	Bushel Weight	Test Wt. Loss (per acre)	Yield Loss (per acre)	Total Loss (per acre)
Hoffman 89	103 Bu/A	59.8 lb/Bu	-	-	-
Average	97 Bu/A	56.6 lb/Bu	$7.76	$18.00	$25.76
% Advantage	6%	6%

A lot of effort and resources go into your growing investment. There's the labor to plant, monitor and harvest your crop. The tremendous investment in land and equipment. And the knowledge and experience you've accumulated over the years.

With all that's riding on your choice, you'll want a wheat variety that will produce for you in the field. And none surpass Hoffman 89.

Superior Test Weights. In three-year trials conducted by Penn State and the University of Maryland, Hoffman 89 registered the top test weight across all locations, in some cases approaching 62 lb/Bu. In Lancaster County trials, its 59.8 lb/Bu performance produced test weight savings of $7.76.

Yield. Superior test weight isn't the only advantage offered by Hoffman 89. In Centre County, it delivered 83 Bu/A—12% above the average. So you'd save $27 per acre using Hoffman 89.

Averaging the results of both trials, you'd earn $26.38 more per acre with Hoffman 89.

Make sure you get the most out of your investment by planting a proven winner — Hoffman 89. Just another way we add value to your seed investment.

Dupuis Puts Professional Mark In Dairy Promotion

hundreds of news releases.

And she has spent many long hours in the office making phone calls, nailing down details, ensuring that the job was done, and that it was done to the best of her ability.

But, the 28-year-old has resigned.

Friday was her last day with the PDPP.

She said she will indeed miss her job, but she resigned to pursue a law degree.

Basically the equivalent of a doctorate, she said she intends to complete an intensive 3-year program and eventually specialize in civil law, especially property and agricultural rights. She is to go to school at the University of Pittsburgh Law School.

"I don't know where I'll end up, especially three years down the road," she said, but she added that the time is right for her to pursue another goal.

"I had pondered going to graduate school. When I graduated (from college with a dairy science degree) I knew I would get a graduate degree.

"Last summer, I took the LSATs (Law Scholastic Aptitude Test) and began the application process. If I would get a law degree, I could come back and help the industry.

"With more and more regulation, nutrient management problems, water problems ... ag has been under the gun and I would want to help out."

It's a risk.

Especially today, with job markets very tight and many people with impressive talents and skills unemployed because of American business's recent penchant for widespread cuts in manpower to increase profit margins and reduce long-term, nonproductive debt associated with labor and retirement costs.

According to Brian Ross, program manager, 132 applications were submitted over four weeks, the majority within the first two weeks, for Betsy's job.

"There are a lot of people out there looking for jobs," she said. "A lot of people, when they looked closer at this job, didn't realize what it entailed. You have to love the dairy industry."

She said for her, it wasn't the same as if she were to be working long hours for another product or commodity.

"You have to have respect for the people you work for," Dupuis said. "I know I do. I think it makes your work better."

Further, she said, "It's essential that you understand where (dairy producers) are coming from and what they expect from you. I helps you set goals to accomplish what you set out to accomplish."

She also said that promoting dairy products has been a toil of love. "What helped is the product, it's wholesomeness. Outside of the dairy industry, you're not likely to be working for something as good and healthy."

But then, at the same time, there are many who know Dupuis who have said that she is one of the first people they would hire to represent them in a legal battle.

"She has the strength and she has a lot of backbone," Ross said of Dupuis. "She can represent me anytime. I heard a lot of people say that. She has the tenacity to be there when needed and never give up.

"They (her supporters) know how dedicated she is, how she attacks a problem," Ross said. "They know that whatever she put her mind to, she will do well."

Starting with the PDPP in January 1989 as a promotions specialist, Dupuis began with coordinating county promotion efforts in the western portion of the state her first year. She took over coordinating statewide promotions the second year.

At that time, there was also another woman who worked at PDPP. During the first year the two shared promotion efforts, but then the two split the responsibilities between them with one doing the communications duties and Dupuis taking over the promotions.

It was a time of rapid change and growth for the PDPP, following the tempo of change in the working relationships between milk marketing agencies.

It was not an easy time.

Prior to some more recent developments, Pennsylvania's dairy promotion problem was that it was an undefined jigsaw puzzle that overlapped in places and couldn't be found in others.

It was not organized, it was not mature. It was alive, but was far from defined.

This was due to the fact that Pennsylvania's dairy industry is unique.

In most states, dairy producers have the option of sending a dime of the mandatory 15-cent-per hundred pounds of milk promotion assessment to the state or the federal promotional program, because that's how those areas of milk production and promotion developed.

Pennsylvania has milk coming and going, multiple federal marketing orders, and a variety of markets which can be served, in addition to a strong degree of competition.

One problem that occured was that competition began to evolve within the dairy promotion side of the dairy industry, with some disturbing effects.

Promotional agencies authorized by the federal and state law to receive assessment money, if they met certain guidelines, began springing up and competing for funds. Farmers can direct where some of their assessment goes. It doesn't have to go to a local agency.

And with promotion agencies had every reason to grow more competitive with each other in order to attract farmer promotion funds, the agencies has little reason to cooperate in promoting the consumption of dairy products.

And at the same time, there was some discomfort within the dairy industry because the original Pennsylvania Milk Promtion and Marketing Program, as formed under former state Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hollowell, was run by the state Department of Agriculture under its Bureau of Market Development.

That changed in 1987 with the amendment of the Commodity Marketing Act. The farmer-run advisory board to the promotion and marketing program suddenly went from being an advisory body to an administrative body.

They hired their own people, sought out expertise and carried on with the efforts to create an independent, effective and efficient PDPP.

Betsy was one of the first they hired.

Over the years, the PDPP program developed more focus and direction, while Dupuis took on wearing a number of different hats. In fact, when the other woman resigned, Dupuis ended up taking over responsibility for the whole program for a year before the PDPP board of directors hired Brian Ross as general manager.

From the left, Betsy Dupuis goes over scheduling and promotions planning with Holly Gerke, of Lancaster, whose was selected to replace Dupuis as communications specialist.

Betsy Dupuis stands on the left with dairy promoters Pa. Dairy Princess Jennifer Grimes; Nadine Houck, promotions specialist; Amelia Saunders, Warren County Dairy Princess; and Marel Raub, Perry County Dairy Princess.

It is generally acknowledged that Dupuis did an outstanding job holding down the fort until help could arrive.

"It's true," Ross said. "A lot of people wouldn't have been able to survive that process. She was here during the maturation process of the program and was instrumental in helping the program as it went through growing pains.

"She had the skills and the background to contribute to the success of the program," he said. "I think we're right now at a point when things have come together very well, and, looking back, Betsy had done a lot for the program."

When she started, she was already well on her way to developing the kind of mature confidence that comes with taking on big jobs and seeing them through.

She grew up on her parents' small farm in Bellefonte where, through raising and showing dairy calves in 4-H, she eventually wound up owning and managing 14 Jersey cattle. She said both her parents were professors at the college, but got her involved in 4-H.

And although she and her father had never intended to start milking cows, when her first show calf, a Jersey named "Rosebud," grew up, she had become so attatched that she couldn't bear to sell her.

Thus began hand milking and two years later buying a Delaval milking unit. Eventually they bought a 210-gallon cooler and sold milk for cheese.

Dupuis had the herd on test and was showing and marketing the animals. Her responsibilities involved milking, feeding, and maintaining health and breeding records on her animals.

"In 1982, I was very luckly to place in the top third in Harrisburg and qualify for Louisville, Kentucky."

The more Dupuis became involved with 4-H and dairy, the more she became involved.

She had been the Centre County dairy princess in 1983-84 and stayed with the program as public relations chair from 1984 through 1986 and again in 1987-88. That's where she prepared press releases and radio commercials and developed a rapport with local media.

Being a dairy princess exposed her to more frequent and more confidence-required public speaking opportunities.

She attended Penn State University, originally set her sights on becoming a large animal veterinarian, but changed that after working for a vet and also doing some dairy promotion work.

"After the combination of promotion and working with vets, I found out that being a large animal practitioner is not what I though it would be, and I wasn't ready for the commitment. And I really like promotion."

She took a basic journalism course and "decided I liked writing that way."

She concentrated on achieving a 4-year-degree in dairy science, but took a number of additional courses work in communications and public relations.

Again, as seems to be a characteric of Betsy, she was involved.

She served as president and vice president of the PSU Agricultural Student Council and was a College of Agriculture Student Senator to the University Faculty Senate.

The she was editor and originator of the PSU College of Agriculture Yearbook, "Pioneer." She also helped sell more than $1,000 in advertising to help cover the costs of publication.

She was also on the Undergraduate Student Government Academic Assembly, the College of Agriculture Course of Study Committee, and the College of Agriculture's Undergraduate Education Task Force.

And, since she has a penchant for Jerseys, she was also involved with the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club, serving as a junior club advisor from 1989 to 1994.

For her, the pursuit of a law degree is natural, at this time.

"In my case, it makes a lot of sense," she said. "I'm not married, and I have no commitments. I don't know how hard it is, but I don't want distractions, and it's not fair to (PDPP) to stay on (and compromise the quality of effort). It made more sense to make a clean break," she said.

"At some point, I would like to come back and apply what I've learned, in the (dairy) industry."

Grand Champion Swine Brings $1,235

MIRIAM WERT
Juniata Co. Correspondent

PORT ROYAL FAIRGROUNDS (Juniata Co.) — Although all events and project displays were important at the 1994 Juniata County Youth (4-H and FFA) Fair from Monday, July 25, through Thursday, July 28, the swine sale on Wednesday night seemed to cause the greatest excitement and interest.

Ray Long of Long's Auction Service donated his time in selling 87 swine by the head rather than the pound. The "packer bid" method was used which means that more people can support the sale without actually taking possession of the animal, thus bringing more income for the youth.

The swine listings show the market value of each hog which is the amount of money that a commercial packer has agreed to pay for the animal, if the highest bidder decides not to take possession of the animal. In that case, the commercial packer would pay to the youth the market value of the animal, and the highest bidder would pay the number of dollars that his bid was over the market value.

The 247-pound grand champion listed a market value of $106.21, but the highest bid was $1,235, made by Rick Berrier of Mifflintown IGA Store. The exhibitor was Gregory Luther Imes, son of Barry and Bonnie Imes of Port Royal.

The 222-pound reserve grand champion listed a market value of $95.46, but the highest bid was $500, also made by Rick Berrier. The exhibitor was Aaron Nearhood, son of Teresa Nearhood of Mifflintown.

The 242-pound champion light heavyweight listed a market value of $104.06, but the highest bid was $310, made by Dressler Brothers Construction. The exhibitor was Ted Miller, son of Taylor Miller of Mifflintown, but the hog was shown by Ted's sister, Ali Miller.

The 234-pound champion mediumweight listed a market value of $100.62, but the highest bid was $300, made by Bryan D. Imes, auctioneer. The exhibitor was Kevin Bryner, son of William Bryner of Port Royal.

The 208-pound champion lightweight listed a market value of $83.20, but the highest bid was $320, made by Dutch Country Meats of Richfield. The exhibitor was Clark R. Simonton, Jr., son of Clark Simonton of Port Royal.

Also evident in every project throughout the Fair was that work can be fun when you are in 4-H or FFA and get to meet all of the other exhibitors who have the same interests that you have.

To those in the grandparents/great-grandparents age, it is amazing to see the number of clubs and projects from which today's 4-H youth can choose. From the garden, sewing and cooking clubs of those generations, the choice of clubs and projects has exploded in number. Who would have thought that there would be a 4-H computer club? But why not? One of the most important tools of today's farm or business is the computer.

Other clubs are dairy, beef, sheep, goats, horses, dogs, seeing-eye puppies, rabbits, rocket launch, shooting sports and archery, food and nutrition, folk art, forestry, quilting, painting, crafts, embryology, cake decorating, embroidery, herbs, indoor and landscape gardening and leadership/careers/self-esteem, etc. And if you have an interest for which a club has not been formed, it is even possible to "design-your-own" and get a leader to start it.

In addition to all of the great individual project books, club exhibits and showing of animals, and everything else that goes with the typical Youth Fair, a unique event was held at the fairgrounds. The Juniata Cultural Arts Committee rents a building where an amazing number of events take place during the fair, as the youth and parents and friends take a break from the fair-related activites. The arts committee has a real desire to promote talent that is so evident in Juniata County, and the ready-made crowd at the fair gets to see the demonstrations of such talent. On Tuesday they presented "The Festival of the Arts" which included all types of singing, instruments, storytelling, gymnastic tumbling exhibition and many more events every half-hour from 10 a.m. through 7:30 p.m. This program is a perfect complement to the fair and was greatly appreciated by all in attendance.

In addition to the usual farm animals, dogs and their owners/handlers were of real interest to the onlookers. They were judged

TROY (Bradford County) — Going once, going twice...sold, was the phrase that rang out over and over at the Bradford County Livestock Sale as 41 hogs, 25 lambs and six steers crossed the auction block.

Bob Shaylor, of Shaylor Auctioneers pounded the gavel for each animal as he and his crew donated their time and talents to the kids.

"I've been doing this since the sale started in Bradford County," he said. Prices topped the scale resulting in above market averages of 81 cents per pound for the steers. $1.45 for the lambs and $1.57 for the hogs.

Grand champion animals consistently commanded the highest prices.

In the steer sale, P&N Packing purchased the grand champion, owned by Neil Gilliland, for $1.125 per pound. The steer tipped the scales at 1,192 pounds. The reserve champion steer was also purhcased by P&N Packing. Rob Gilliland received 90 cents per pound for his 1,206-pound winner.

In the lamb sale. Northeast Farm Credit of Towanda was the bidder, purchasing the 133-pound champion from Kendra Moore for $3 per pound.

Tuscarora Wayne Insurance purchased the reserve champion lamb for $1.60 per pound. Geoff Powell raised the 110-pound reserve champion.

In the hog sale, James Alderson sold his 238-pound champion to C&N Bank of Troy for $2.20 per pound.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — A new produce auction has recently been established to handle the increasing demand for produce in the Cumberland Valley region.

Called the Cumberland Valley Produce Auction, the first sale was held on Koser Road four miles north of Shippensburg on June 2.

The auction facilities, begun in mid-May this year and finished in time for the auction, have been accommodating a growing list of produce growers and buyers. As of presstime, there were 300 growers and about 500 buyers.

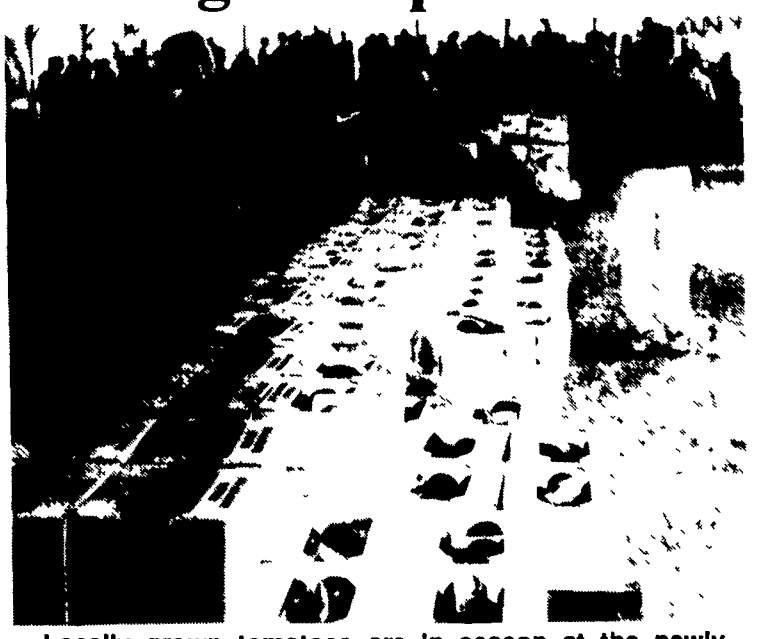
Early season cantaloupes in bulk quantities are ready to sell at Cumberland Valley Produce Auction.

Construction of the facility was finished within 20 days, according to Delmar Martin, manager of the auction. The facility measures nearly 11,000 square feet with an additional 720 feet of office space. The facilities are maintained on about four acres of land.

Many growers volunteered to establish the auction in time for the opening date by donating labor. "This attests to the support of the growers who provide a tremendous amount of assistance for the auction," said Martin.

At mid-season, the auction continues to take in more growers and buyers for the region. Buyers attend from Pennsylvania's south and central regions and from Maryland, Ohio, New York State, Virginia, and West Virginia, said Martin.

The auction was ready in time to begin at the heart of the season, according to Martin. The auction will continue until late November.



Locally grown tomatoes are in season at the newly formed Cumberland Valley Produce Auction. Here, a buyer inspects early season tomatoes packaged in half-bushel boxes.

Plans next year are to begin the auction in mid- to late-March and operate through the Thanksgiving season.

The auction charges a flat rate of 8 percent to growers.

The business was formed as a partnership with 14 members. Some who helped with the development of the auction also worked with the Leola Produce Auction in Lancaster County.

Amos King, secretary of the Cumberland Valley Produce board, said the auction would like to install and operate a small vegetable plot test site much like the one at Leola.

"The purpose of the auction is to allow farmers to market their locally grown product at an auction that serves a broad range of customers (small and large) to include supermarkets, wholesale buyers, and fruit and vegetable stand operations," said Martin. "Locally grown produce is really our speciality." He indicated that growers are not restricted to product type or amount.

Sales are held six days a week, from Monday through Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. For more information, contact Delmar Martin, Cumberland Valley Produce, 47 Mud Level Rd., Shippensburg, PA 17257, (717) 530-5007.

Lancaster Sets First-Ever Conservation Exposition

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — For the first time, the Lancaster Conservation District is sponsoring the Lancaster County Conservation Exposition on Saturday, August 27, from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Dave Becker Farm here on Hereford Road.

The exposition will focus on ways that farmers can make successful use of contours and grass waterways to help control soil erosion. Also, tillage demonstrations of various sorts and equipment displays from dealers will be provided.

This summer has been especially trying to many farms, with the heavy downpours and sudden flooding.

Becker spoke about his nearly 3,000 feet of large waterways that separate various carefully contoured fields of corn and soybeans during a recent interview at his 100-acre farmstead.

"If you come here in a heavy rain, you can definitely see the advantage of contour farming," said Becker. "You don't see, too often, any mud coming out of my fields and onto the highway. After a rain, you have water in the waterways, but it's not real muddy. The waterways filter it out."

Becker said that he maintains about eight feet of grass strip all the way around the farm. While the additional feet is taking land out of production, it is providing a retention for soil near roadways and other erodible sections of land.

Too often, in many parts of the county, that's not the case. The district has had to handle a barrage of phone calls from people complaining about mud on roads all over the county.

Waterways "make a big difference," said Jim Shirk, Lancaster conservation technician. "We're getting a lot of complaints because of the heavy rains."

"It's doing us some good, because we're getting guys talked into more strips and stuff like that (on the farm)," said Shirk.

"We're getting more urban neighbors, with the houses and everything, and you got to keep your act a little cleaner, or you're going to hear about it," said Becker.

Becker farms about 200 acres on the home farm in Elizabethtown, which includes rented ground. He also maintains some ground at the old farmstead in Donegal.

Becker finishes out about 200 head of beef cattle each year for a private contractor. He also manages about 200 head of dairy heifers for a major supplier.

Becker purchased the farm in 1980 and immediately signed up with the district. He purchased the farm on Hereford Road from Thome Farms, an egg wholesaler.

"This was all laid out in contour strips when I came here," said Becker. The work was completed by Thome. Becker said that on the farm in Donegal, he did all the contour work.

Becker has about a half acre in feedlot that is exposed to the weather. A heavy rain works on the manure in the lot, but is funneled through a concrete thruway into a 200,000-gallon capacity cir cular in-ground concrete storage structure. The structure, installed in 1991, is emptied twice a year.

The structure captures runoff to prevent it from going into a large spring, which feeds into a nearby stream.

All the corn acres (175) are contoured in Becker's operation. Also, the 175 acres of soybeans are contoured.

Becker uses a combination of nutrient management techniques to match his requirements. Included is about 100 pounds of liquid nitrogen per acre applied before planting, and for remaining acreage, about 100 pounds per acre of dry starter. He plants the corn on 30-inch rows for a plant density of about 27,000 per acre. He no-tilled about 40 acres of corn.

Becker was able to obtain a 150-170 bushel per acre harvest last year. Half of the corn goes to silage and the other half to high moisture corn.

For the soybean acreage, Becker plants about 50 acres of early beans, and then doublecrops barley beans. He harvests about 60 bushels per acre of early beans and about 25-30 bushels per acre of barley.

Becker also maintains about 20 acres of tobacco, a crop he calls the "mortgage burner."

Farmers will benefit by seeing some slit tillage by the district, according to Shirk. The program promotes soil conservation and helps reduce the effects of compaction, according to Shirk. The slit tillage demonstration will take place at 9 a.m. on August 27 during the exposition. The district, said Shirk, has two different slit till implements for rent at $2.50 per acre.

The demonstrations will run from mulch management equipment to slit tillers. Various equipment dealers were invited to attend.

Also scheduled will be discussions regarding rotational grazing from Ed Rits, a nitrogen quick test demonstration by county agent Bob Anderson, information on lawn care and maintenance by horticultural agent Bruce Hellerick, and a demonstration by Marvin Stoner on septic system management.

Admission is free, and the exposition will be held rain or shine.

For information about the Lancaster County Conservation Exposition, contact the conservation district office at (717) 299-5361.

The Lancaster Conservation District is sponsoring the Lancaster County Conservation Exposition on Saturday, August 27, from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Dave Becker Farm here on Hereford Road. The exposition will focus on some ways farmers can make successful use of contours and grass waterways to help control soil erosion. in obedience, showmanship and grooming, and the handlers did an excellent job in showing these animals.

As featured in a recent story in Lancaster Farming, a seeing eye puppy 4-H club, named "Future Loving Eyes," has been formed in Juniata County. Some of those beautiful dogs from puppies through a year old or more and their host families were present to be seen and to answer questions. More puppies are coming into the Juniata Club regularly.

To refresh the memories of readers who may have belonged to 4-H clubs many years ago, we list here the pledge which has been repeated down through generations of 4-H members and which still has real meaning in today's busy world: "I pledge my head for clearer thinking; my heart to greater loyalty, my hands to larger service; my health for better living - for my club, my community, my country, my world." Note that the last phrase, "my world," was added since the time that it was first learned by 4-H members. The world will be a better place because these youth are dedicating themselves to being industrious workers, learning self-discipline and not being afraid to try new things.

Olde Tyme Days Aug. 25-28

MANCHESTER (York Co.) — South Central Penn Historic Lifestyle and Power Society, a non-profit organization known as Olde Tyme Days, is held one mile north of the square in Manchester on Route 181.

The show allows the people of this generation to learn firsthand the way things used to be in a fun and exciting way. It also allows the people of that generation to relive the past for four days from August 25-28.

This year, the show will feature the state plowing contest, horse pulling and plowing contests, a working steam engine, and a threshing machine. For the younger crowd, there will be children's games and crafts and a petting zoo.

Besides having many varieties of food, drinks, and ice cream, there are three special dinners. On Friday at 5:30 p.m. there will be a chicken pot pie Dinner; on Saturday at noon, a pig roast; and Sunday at 11:30 a.m. a Ham Dinner. There is also entertainment, an early era fashion show, and more. For more information, call *717) 266-7200 the week of the show.

CORRECTION

Several facts given to Lancaster Farming in relation to the Dairy of Distinction program were incorrect. Mike and Betty Glemboski's farm at Springville, unknown to them, was entered in the program by tenants who had come to the farm with their own herd some time ago. These tenants have since taken the herd and left the farm. And Henry and Dorothy Abma's name was misspelled.

The Dairy of Distinction program is run by dedicated volunteers with a very limited budget. This promotion of the dairy industry is exciting because of the grassroots way it is done. Still those involved with the program regret these errors and any inconvenience they may have caused.

Golf Tournament Benefits FFA

STEVENS (Lancaster Co.) — Where can you get lunch, a day of golfing, a steak dinner, and support a great cause — all for just $75?

At the second annual Hoss's Fore FFA Golf Tournament!

This year's tournament will be held on August 29 at Fox Chase Golf Course in Stevens.

It seems appropriate that the tournament, which will benefit more than 7,000 Pennsylvania FFA members, will be held on the site of a former dairy farm. The tournament committee's goal is to bring together 144 golfers for a fun-filled day that will also raise funds to support the activities of the Pennsylvania FFA Foundation.

The mission of the Pennsylvania FFA Foundation is to raise funds to help defray the costs of FFA leadership activities, participation of Pennsylvania teams at regional and national competition, and recognition of outstanding FFA member accomplishments.

According to co-chairmen Sam Sherk and Nancy Campbell, the primary purpose of the tournament is to raise funds. However, it also serves as a "friend raiser." Sponsors and players will be able to interact with the state FFA officers and local ag teachers who will be participating. This interaction helps develop a better understanding of the benefits of the FFA and the positive effects that the FFA has on future agricultural leaders.

The tournament day will begin with lunch served at the golf course at 11:30 a.m., the shotgun scramble start is scheduled for 1 p.m., and the day will wind down with a social hour beginning at 4:30 p.m. followed by a buffet steak dinner, awards presentation, and auction. Prizes will be awarded to 15 teams, and individual awards will also be presented for various skill contests, including a par-three contest sponsored by Uni-Mart.

Non-golfers can participate by attending the dinner auction at $30 per person. The auction that will follow the dinner and awards presentation will feature items such as Flyers, Phillies, and Penn State tickets. Some of the additional auction items that have been donated include rose gardens, a wine gift pack, Hoss's gift certificates, FFA and Heritage Custom Kitchen's Winross trucks, and a football signed by Penn State coach Joe Paterno.

Last year's championship team representing Fickes Silos will return to defend their title. The number of golf entries is limited.

to Hatfield for $1.80 per pound. Lillian Lunde raised the 240-pound winner.

Five lambs and four hogs went through the sale twice, with the money from the second sale going to benefit the 4-H - FFA livestock program. Tuscarora/Wayne Insurance and Shaylor Auctioneers each donated one lamb for resale and Cross Roads Equipment donated three lambs back to the program.

Cross Roads Equipment, Tuscarora Wayne Insurance and Shaylor Acutioneers each donated a hog as well.

Carolina Wholesale Furniture purchased one of the hogs that went through the auction the second time. When it only brought 50 cents per pound, the representative decided to send it through the sale again. when it brought 50 cents per pound again, Carolina Wholesale Furniture was the successful bidder.

"I'm going to take it home this time," the representative said. "The first time it didn't bring enough money."

Wyalusing Sales Cooperative was the big volume buyer, being the top bidder on 10 animals. Next in line was P&N Packing of Terrytown, with seven animals purchased.

Paul Yoachim, president of the Bradford County 4-H Advisory Committee wished to thank all the buyers for their support of the sale.

"It is because of their support that we were able to give two $500 scholarships last year. They help make the livestock program successful in Bradford County," Yoachim said.

Farm Bureau International Young Farmer Study Tour Set

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Eleven young members of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (Farm Bureau) will be traveling through Europe August 16-26 as part of the farm organization's pilot Young Farmer and Rancher (YF&R) International Study Tour. The YF&R group will be visiting farmers, farm organizations, educational institutions and agribusinesses during the tour of four nations starting in Munich, Germany.

Members of the YF&R overseas tour group are: Brian and Fay Dietrich of 8459 Kistler Valley Rd., New Tripoli; Rebekah Gross of 190 Manchester St., Manchester; David and Beth Hartman of RR 3, Bernville, Ralph and Crystal Moyer of 91 Frystown Road, Frystown; Donald and Joanne Stoltzfus of RR 1 Morgantown; and Steve and Bonnie Wenger of 549 Schaeffer Rd., Lebanon.

The purpose of the trip, according to tour coordinator Ralph Moyer, will be to gain "an up-close look at the European approach to agriculture and find out what European farmers think about international trade issues. We will also be asking them about environmental and animal rights issues which they've been dealing with longer than we have in the United States." Moyer is past president of PA Farm Bureau's YF&R committee.

The group will be headed by the current YF&R chairperson, Rebekah "Becky" Gross of York County. "It's not going to be a vacation," she said. "The tour is the capstone of YF&R's leadership training program. We hope to gain a global perspective that will help us as future leaders in Farm Bureau." All eleven tour members have participated in the YF&R state leadership conferences, PA Farm Bureau annual meeting programs and the YF&R Washington Tour.

Every member of the group will be keeping a travel journal to record their observations on production agriculture, marketing, real estate, education, government, farm organizations and farm supply and service businesses in the countries they visit. Upon their return they will help compile a report for Farm Bureau's State Board of Directors. The State Board is supporting the young farmers by helping to underwrite tour expenses. Group members also contacted local sponsors in the agribusiness community for additional support and will be available to them for follow-up reports on the trip. "Raising funds from local supporters is part of the educational process for these young farmers," explained Farm Bureau's Director of Program Development and Training, Fred Kerr. "It gives everybody — Farm Bureau, the local sponsors and the young farmers — a vested interest in the outcome of the tour." The young farmers will also be making a presentation during Farm Bureau's annual meeting in November.

One of the highlights of the tour will be a two-day stay by each couple with host farmers in southern Germany. The tour agenda also includes a visit to the Agricultural University at Frelsing-Wechenstephan and the Bavarian Center of Animal Husbandry. A meeting with the Bavarian Farmer's Association is planned. In Switzerland the group will tour Alpine dairy and livestock operations and meet with representatives of the provisional agriculture department. They will meet with the U.S. Agricultural Attache and Swiss Agricultural Ministry in Bern as well as members of the Swiss Young Farmers. They will visit the Ciba-Geigy Corporation headquarters in Basel, Switzerland and will tour mountain farm operations in Liechtenstein and Austria. Tours of livestock markets and a dairy cooperative are also planned.

"There will be some time for sightseeing but it's a pretty full itinerary," said Mrs. Gross. "The opportunities to learn are unlimited. We hope this will be the first of many international YF&R tours to come."

Pennsylvania Minority Students Get Ag Grand Tour

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Some 39 minority high school students got the chance to dig into the turf at Beaver Stadium, digest the workings of a cow's stomach, make a flower arrangement and a host of other activities as part of a Food and Agricultural Sciences Workshop held Sunday, July 24 through Friday, July 29 on Penn State's University Park campus.

Designed as a recruiting effort to get science-minded minority students to consider the College of Agricultural Sciences' educational opportunities, the workshop featured five days of intensive, hands-on demonstrations by various departments in the college.

The workshop, funded by the university's Equal Opportunity Planning Committee, was targeted toward high school sophomores and juniors who have not yet made a decision on a career path, says Dr. Cathy Bowen, assistant professor of agricultural and extension education. Cathy Bowen and Dr. Blannie Bowen, C. Lee Rumberger, professor of agricultural and extension education, organized and planned the workshop.

The college sent flyers to high school science teachers and counselors across the state who recommended nearly 50 students, many from eastern Pennsylvania.

Activities for the students centered on demonstrations and tours rather than classroom work. "We wanted to make sure the kids were not sitting in a classroom listening to someone talk, because there is no quicker way to turn off their interest," Cathy Bowen said.

Blannie Bowen, who organized the activities for the students, emphasized that most of the demonstrations delved into complicated and scientific issues. "Many of the kids coming in don't have an extensive background in science, so we want to catch them early enough so they can go back and pick up those science courses," he says. "We wanted to make sure they went deeper into the science aspect than a tour of the University Creamery."

Bowen pointed out that the College of Agricultural Sciences loses many talented science students — minority or otherwise — because high school students are simply unaware of the scientific work done within the college. "Those kids go into biology or engineering and we lose out," he explained.

After a Sunday orientation session, the workshop started Monday, July 25, with food science and, yes, a tour of the Creamery. Demonstrations in food chemistry and sensory analyssis followed. Monday afternon was dedicated to delving into plant pathology.

On Tuesday, July 26, horticulture was the focus as the students toured university greenhouses and took in demonstrations of landscaping, fruit production, floral design and biotechnology.

Wednesday, July 27, found the kids experiencing animal science, including sessions in dairy, animal and poultry science. Visitors looked inside the four chambers of a cow's stomach, and worked with ultrasound technology as well as horse handling. Wednesday after focused on agronomy as the students headed to Beaver Stadium to analyze turfgrass. The day ended with a look at forest products.

Thursday, July 28, opened with a session on urban forestry and then the group headed out to a nearby state park for an entomology field trip, where the kids captured, preserved and classified insects. A visit to the university's mushroom research facility ended the day.

Friday, July 29, concluded the week with a discussion group, an awards lunch and a talk on agricultural literacy by Eddie Moore, a professor of agricultural and extension education at Michigan State University.

Blannie Bowen summed up the aim of the workshop: "When kids think of science they usually see the space shuttle or chemistry. With this workshop, we just want to say 'Hey, take a look at this."

State Sponsors Pesticide Container Recycling In Adams Co.

ASPERS (Adams Co.) — State Agriculture Secretary Boyd W. Wolff visited a plastic pesticide container recycling site in Adams County today to observe a new program that helps farmers properly dispose of pesticide containers.

"Growers in Pennsylvania are some of the most responsible users of pesticides in our society," Wolff said. "Through this new program we have already collected and chipped more than 2,400 pounds of empty pesticide containers."

The state's pesticide container recycling program began earlier this year and container drop-off points have been designated in Adams, Franklin, and Lancaster counties in the first phase. Some drop-off sites began operation in May, and will continue until November.

Secretary Wolff visited the pesticide 'container recycling site at the Adams County Nursery in Aspers, Adams County. The nursery is also the location of a recycling site taking place on August 19 and October 11.

All sites will be open from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. on the scheduled days. All plastic pesticide containers must be triple rinsed or pressure rinsed and clean both inside and outside in order to be accepted for recycling. There is no charge to producers for the recycling program.

For more information about the plastic pesticide container recycling program, contact the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Plant INdustry at (717) 787-4843.

Penn State, Turfgrass Council To Dedicate Turfgrass Museum

LEMONT (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania State University and the Pennsylvania Turfgrass Council have jointly announced plans for the dedication of a turfgrass science museum, the "Mascaro/ Steiniger Turfgrass Museum," on the college campus during the Penn State Turfgrass Field Days, scheduled for August 10-11 at University Park.

According to a news release from the Pa. Turfgrass Council, which is headquartered in Lemont, a town near University Park, the 40,000-square-foot museum is being constructed on the campus and is to display a number of turfgrass inventions, including those developed by Thomas Mascaro, and also the collection of equipment of Eberhard Steiniger, a well-known golf course superintendent.

The actual dedication ceremony is to be held 11:30 a.m., August 11.

The need for a museum was conceived by Dr. Joseph Duich, retired Penn State professor, who worked hard to accumulate the collection of equipment and tools from the past.

Of the museum namesakes, Mascaro was instrumental in the development of modern tools for use by golf course superintendents. He was president of West-Point Products for 55 years. In 1986, he and his son John formed Turf-Tec International, in Oakland Park, Florida, a company that designs diagnostic turfgrass instruments for golf course superintendents.

The instruments allow superintendents to do a better job in monitoring soil, moisture and nutrient conditions. The job of a superintendent includes raising a variety of grasses and landscaping plants and trees and, in doing so, creating a landscaped, recreational facility. They also normally manage a work crew.

Penn State University offers a highly competitive and well respected turfgrass management course whose graduates are almost all placed as superintendents or assistant superintendents on golf courses around the world.

The other man to whom the museum is being dedicated, Steiniger was a golf course superintendent at Pine Valley Golf Club, in Clementon, N.J., for 57 years.

Steiniger is well known for converting a sand-waste layout with only scrub pine, into the number one golf course in the world. He collaborated with Mascaro on all of the more than 20 inventions developed. Steiniger would test and evaluate the performance of the equipment.

He also had accumulated an impressive private collection of equipment which also is to be on display at the museum.

For more information, call or write to the Pennsylvania Turfgrass Council, P.O. Box 1078, Lemont, Pa., 16851-1078, (814) 863-3475.

Walker To Address Tobacco Growers

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Pennsylvania Tobacco Growers will hold an educational meeting on August 22 at 7 p.m. The meeting will be held at Penn State's Southeast Field Lab near Landisville.

Keynote speaker for the evening will be the Honorable Robert Walker, U.S. congressional representative from the area.

Congressman Walker will discuss issues of importance to area tobacco farmers, including the proposed tax increase on tobacco products to fund a National Health Program.

In addition, there will be a demonstration of a new soil fumigant to be used in the preparation of tobacco beds. Pesticide credits will be available.

Other speakers from the tobacco industry will be discussing the tobacco marketing perspective for 1995. All tobacco growers and other interested persons are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

The Southeast Field Lab is located on Auction Road north of Route 283 just west of Lancaster.

For more information, contact Larry Weaver, President, Tobacco Growers at (717) 354-7477 or Bob Anderson, Penn State Cooperative Extension (717) 394-6851.

Boar Sale Set Aug. 17

UNIVERSITIY PARK (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania's Meat Animal Evaluation Center is finalizing plans for the 19th Performance-tested Boar Sale, scheduled for 6 p.m. on August 17 at Penn State's Ag Arena. The sale has been scheduled during Ag Progress Days, held at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center in Rock Springs, approximately nine miles from the Ag Arena.

Many of Pennsylvania's more progressive swine breeders have consigned pens of four boars, each from one sire and one to two litters. Of the group of 51 boars tested, 33 truly outstanding boars will be offered at this year's sale, including Yorkshire, Duroc, Hampshire, Berkshire, and Spotted breeds.

Weighing between 40 and 65 pounds on delivery, boars going on test are given a one- to two-week adjustment period, weighed every two weeks, and taken off test when the pen weight averages 230 pounds. Test measurements used to determine index values include average daily gain, pen feed efficiency, and backfat thickness and loin-eye area, as determined by ultrasonic scan. The boars are also evaluated for structural and breeding soundness by a committee of swine breeders and University specialists. The animals must meet minimum requirements for soundness and underline.

This year's group of performance-tested boars recorded a new high average for daily gain. This very lean set of boars gained 2.16 pounds per day and had an average backfat thickness of .65. Many of the boars (adjusted to 230 pounds) had loineye measurements of 6 to 7 square inches.

The top-indexing boar was bred by Charles and Mark Hall of Julian. He is a son of the top-indexing boar the Halls purchased in last year's performance-tested boar sale for $1,175. This boar attained a gain of 2.70 pounds per day on test, had an adjusted backfat thickness of .49 inches, adjusted loineye of 6.23 square inches, and days to 230 of 131 days. The pen had the best feed efficiency of 2.20 pounds of feed per poung of gain.

For more information on the Performance-tested Boar Sale or to request a catalog, contact Glenn Eberly, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803 (814) 238-2527.

Export Coordinator Named

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has named Dr. Malcolm Commer, Jr., an agricultural economist at the University of Maryland, to be the coordinator for the global marketing of U.S. Thoroughbreds.

Maryland, along with other southern states, is working to interest foreign buyers in its Thoroughbreds through a U.S. Department of Agriculture Market Promotion Program grant. The grant is administered through the Southern United States Trade Association (SUSTA), which promotes agricultural products in 15 southern states from Maryland to Texas and includes Puerto Rico in the international marketplace.

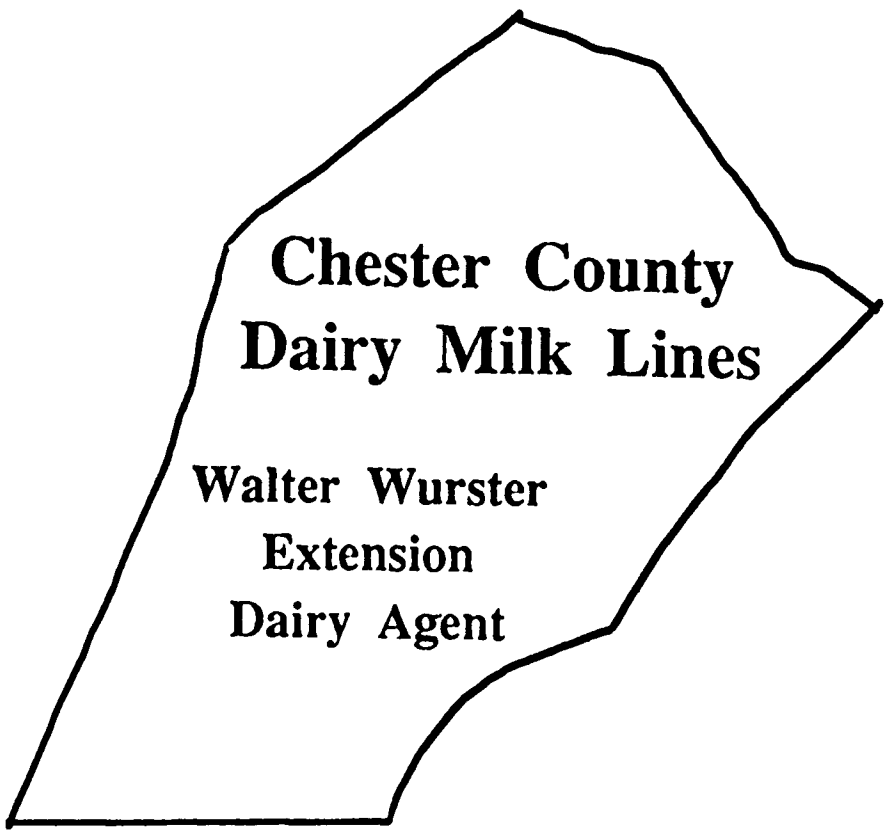
"We are pleased to have someone with Dr. Commer's credentials to head the effort to increase the exports of U.S. Thoroughbreds. This project will benefit our state's well developoed thoroughbred industry. I know Dr. Commer will do an outstanding job of targeting foreign markets," Riley said.

An expert in livestock marketing, Commer has his doctorate degree in agricultural economics from Mississippi State University. In addition, he and his wife have their own horse breeding operation based in Howard County, Md.

"I am gratified that the University of Maryland and the Maryland Department of Agriculture will be working on this project together. Our initial marketing effort will be directed toward Japan. As a matter of fact, we are planning a trade mission there in November. Beyond that we intend to target other countries in all parts of the world which have the highest potential for expanded U.S. exports of Thoroughbreds," said Commer.

The SUSTA region produces one third of all U.S. agricultural exports, including three fourths of all poultry and livestock and substantially more than 75 percent of Thoroughbreds.

For more information on the U.S. Thoroughbred Export Project, contact Dr. Malcolm Commer, Jr., Agricultural Marketing Center, University of Maryland, Box 169, Queenstown, MD 21658, (410) 827-5378.



Chester County Dairy Milk Lines
for Lancaster Farming issue August 6, 1994

Your Pasture -- Green Profits Under Your Feet

Dairy farmers over the years, myself included, have turned their cows into large, lush pastures each spring and watched their milk production increase for a short period of time. After a few weeks, however, the good pasture is all eaten or trampled down and production returns to the former level. The cows have made hogs out of themselves, they won't eat their normal grain ration, and they waste a lot of good feed. This column will address how to use your present pasture more wisely. A complete intensive grazing program for a farm is another topic and will not be covered here.

Here are some steps to consider:

1. Make a sketch of your present pasture, preferably from an aerial photo, and include present fencelines, cow lanes, water sources, and shaded areas.

2. Using this map, sketch new lanes for cows to get to different areas of your pasture. The lanes should avoid very wet areas to prevent future mud holes.

3. Decide how water will be made available to the cows. It may require installing a surface water line along the lane with watering facilities at the paddocks. If you are planning to use a stream, the cows should be fenced out of the stream and certain stoned access points should be created where the cows can drink without destroying the stream bank.

4. Divide your pasture into paddocks. The size will depend on the number of animals being pastured, bu ideally they should be able to graze a paddock in one to two days. If possible, each paddock should have a direct access to the lane. However, a long, narrow series of paddocks can have one access with the cows grazing the nearest one first, and then walking through that one to get to the second and third paddocks. When they have pastured the series, they are removed so that the grass can recover.

5. Can you provide shade for the animals? A grove of trees, trees inside the fenceline along a stream, or a roofed sun shade is needed if cows are going to use the pasture during the day.

6. You may have too much pasture in the spring, so some paddocks can be mowed for hay or silage.

7. You need to constantly monitor and manage the pasture. To get the most benefit from the pasture, walk through the fields daily and determine the best time to open a paddock to the herd and when to change paddocks to avoid overgrazing.

8. Lime, fertilize and clip your pastures. Many times doing these three things will regenerate a pasture and avoid a major reseeding effort.

This approach to using your present pasture wisely does not do away with stored feed use. What it does do is decrease the amount of stored feed that is consumed during the pasture season and allows the dairy farmer to sell extra feed or buy less forage than normal.

Cows were created to eat grass and turn it into milk. The dairy farmer's job is to make it available to the cow as economically as possible.

MOYER & SON CELEBRATES 125-YEARS OF QUALITY PRODUCTS AND PERSONAL SERVICE

When Christian, Jonas and Enos Moyer first started tending shop in their small feed store in Souderton in 1869, it's unlikely they could have envisioned how their then modest operation would eventually evolve. But continued growth became the norm for the Moyer Brothers who were to gradually acquire larger facilities in order to accommodate their ever-increasing product and service lines. Today, that same family business is Moyer & Son, now in its fifth generation, with 180 employees--many of whose families have been with the company for generations themselves. Moyer & Son still provides the highest degree of quality agricultural services and products to the company's farming, residential, and commercial customers.

Over the years, Moyer & Son has carefully measured each stage of its growth to eventually concentrate on three major areas of operations: fertilizer, feed, and fuel. In 1987, the company purchased the Honey Brook Farm Center in Honey Brook, PA which enabled it to increase its agricultural capabilities while maintaining a balance of proper nutrient management, field mapping, and other field services for its customers.

This year, Moyer & Son, is paying tribute to the thousands upon thousands of loyal customers it has served over the years. Since our beginnings in 1869, Moyer & Son has recognized that doing business is a two-way street, which is why we set out to make our service personal. It's a philosophy that has served us well from generation to generation, as we've continued to provide our customers with the quality products and personalized attention they deserve.

As Moyer & Son commemorates its 125th anniversary, we dedicate 1994 to the many loyal friends and customers that have made Moyer & Son the industry and community leader it is today.

Moyer & Son is proud of its company history--and looks forward to another 125-years of "Making Service Personal".

Annual District Meeting Set

KINGSTON (Westmoreland Co.) — All dairy farmers in the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council's District 19 marketing area, are invited to attend a dinner meeting at the Mifflinburg Community Park on Wednesday, August 31.

Dairy farmers can reserve two free dinners per farm by calling one of the following district committeepeople by August 23: John Walter at (717) 523-6315, Robert Pardoe at (717) 524-7625, Lee Shaffer at (717) 743-8296, or Fred Lovell at (717) 398-3924. Reservations are required.

This important meeting is held to inform dairy producers how their promotion investment benefits the sale of milk. In addition, the new national advertising campaign for milk will be featured. Producers will also have the opportunity to share their views on dairy promotion and elect new officers for their local district.

Fruit Growers Introduce Apple Video

BIGLERVILLE (Adams Co.) — Are you searching for more information about the history of Pennsylvania's apple industry but don't know where to look?

The Adams County Fruit Growers Association has recently released "The All American Apple" video, available from the association, which chronicles the history of apples grown in Adams County and looks at the present and future of apple production.

The story, narrated by local television celebrity Wendell Woodbury, presents the "apple story" in an easy-to-understand format suitable for use in the classroom from grades 4-12 and for general viewing, according to the association.

Written and produced by Bill Kleiner, Penn State fruit extension agent, the video provides a detailed history of the apple industry in the county, which blossomed more than 100 years ago on Noah Sheely's farm between Arendtsville and Cashtown.

In 1878, Sheely first planted apple trees on the farm, known for its famous Round Barn. In order to process the fruit of the fledgling industry, C.H. and Emma Musselman purchased a bankrupt canning business in Biglerville in 1907. The Musselman's endeavor became not only the first successful canning business in Adams County, but also the largest successful apple processing company in the country. (Today, Musselman's is a division of Knouse Foods Cooperative, Inc.)

What was first a flint mill and then a canning factory became Adams Apple Products Corporation when the Mann brothers bought the Aspers plant. This plant, now known as Mott's USA, has had three owners since 1950: Duffy-Mott Company, Inc.; American Brands, Inc., who purchased Duffy-Mott in 1968; and Cadbury Schweppes, who acquired the plant in 1982.

Approximately 75 Adams County growers produce fruit on 20,000 acres, annually harvesting more than five million bushels of apples.

The video, which costs $19.95 plus $2.50 shipping and handling, is available from the Adams County Fruit Growers Association, 33 Musselman Avenue, P.O. Box 515, Biglerville, PA 17307.

Farm Field Day Set

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — On August 18, from 10:30 a.m. to noon, the Walter Nuding Dairy in Montgomery County will be host of a pasture tour to explain the progress and problems of his 2-year-old grazing system.

Milk production for this 20-cow dairy in 1993 averaged 56 pounds per day with an 80,000 somatic cell count. In 1994 the herd is up to 62 pounds per day and still is maintaining less than a 100,000 somatic cell count primarily on grass pasture.

Nuding will explain how he has reduced pasture acreage and herd health problems while increasing cuttings and tonnage of hay. He has also started composting dairy cattle manure and will have a newly started pile, a 2-month-old pile and a finished example to view and discuss.

Nuding's land-locked dairy farm is surrounded by a large mall, 500-unit townhouses and two single family home developments. Walt will give his unique perspective on how living in an urban area can be a positive experience for the whole neighborhood.

The Nuding Field Day is sponsored by Regional Infrastructure for Sustaining Agriculture (RISA) project. Managing project partners include Penn State Cooperative Extension, Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA), and Rodale Institute.

The Walter Nuding farm entrance is off Route 202 south of Route 309 intersection in Montgomeryville. For more information, contact Tim Fritz, Montgomery County Cooperative Extension (610) 489-4315.

Milk Production Slows, Hot Weather May Help Prices

BOB CROPP
Dairy Marketing and Policy Specialist
University of Wisconsin-
Madison
Cooperative Extension

MADISON, Wis. — As of July 16, June milk production data for 21 reporting states show that compared to a year ago milk cow numbers were down 1.1 percent and milk per cow was up just 1.7 percent for an increase in total milk production of .6 percent.

The increase in milk per cow is below the normal increase of over 2 percent.

However, very hot June weather for many parts of the U.S. adversely affected milk per cow.

In comparing milk production data to year ago levels, one needs to recognize that a year ago at this time milk production slowed down and began decreasing from the previous year's levels in July and remained below for the remainder of the year.

Compared to the previous year, milk per cow was increasing less than 1 percent from August on and milk cow numbers were declining from 1.6 percent to 2.3 percent from June on.

Total milk production for the first half of the year was up just .8 percent from a year ago.

Milk production continues to suffer in both Wisconsin and Minnesota. Compared to June last year, Wisconsin and Minnesota produced 4.3 percent and 3.5 percent less milk respectively. Both had, respectively, 4.5 percent and 3.8 percent fewer milk cows and milk per cow was up just .4 percent for both states.

Despite the availability of better quality forages, the hot and humid June weather took a toll on milk per cow.

Wisconsin has shown an increase in milk cow numbers for the past two months.

June milk cow numbers are up 9,000 head or .6 percent from April.

With a much improved feed supply, milk cow numbers may stabilize some in Wisconsin for the remainder of the year.

Cows are milking very well in California. June production per cow was 5.4 percent more than a year ago.

With milk cow numbers up 3.3 percent California produced 8.9 percent more milk in June than a year earlier.

(Editor's note: As of deadline, California has been experiencing a fairly severe drought. National media reports are that human drinking water supplies are tight.)

Milk production in the Northeast, however, has not increased.

Compared to June last year, milk production was the same for New York and down 1.0 percent and 4.6 percent respectively for Pennsylvania and Ohio, but up 3.9 percent for Michigan.

Milk per cow was rather poor for New York, up just 1.1 percent, and Pennsylvania and Ohio down, respectively, 1.5 percent and 3.5 percent.

Milk production expansion is big in Idaho. Compared to last June, Idaho had 7.8 percent more milk cows that produced 7.6 percent more milk, giving an increase in total milk production of 15.9 percent.

Although Washington had just .8 percent more milk cows, the 3.7 percent more milk per cow resulted in 4.3 percent more total milk.

Texas had 3.4 percent more cows, but the hot weather reduced the increase in milk per cow to just 1.6 percent but still resulting in 4.9 percent more total milk.

Some other Midwest states reported milk production down from a year ago in June.

Production was down 1.3 percent in Illinois, 5.6 percent in Indiana and 1.8 percent in Iowa.

With milk production slowing for the U.S. as a whole, farm milk prices have bottomed out and will once again begin to increase.

The Minnesota-Wisconsin price (M-W), after peaking at $12.99 per hundredweight for April, fell $1.74 per hundredweight to $11.25 for June. The cause of this decline was a drop in cheese prices from mid-April to early May of 20.75 cents per pound for cheddar barrel cheese and 13.75 cents per pound for cheddar blocks.

But for six consecutive weeks, cheese prices have strengthened. As of July 15, on the National Cheese Exchange, cheddar barrels have increased 9.25 cents per pound and cheddar blocks 7.75 cents per pound.

Although cheese inventories overall are adequate, good sales and the slow down in milk production has caused cheese buyers to be more aggressive in buying.

Other factors for stronger cheese prices include good sales, lower butterfat and protein tests reducing cheese yields and the Class III-A pricing which has channeled more milk into the production of nonfat dry milk and away from cheese making.

However, with the low value for butter, considerably more of this nonfat dry milk is being used by cheese makers to increase soilds-not-fat in raw milk to capture more of the milkfat in cheese and increase the cheese yield.

The M-W will increase for July. With the increases in cheese prices that have occurred, the M-W would increase a minimum of 25 to 30 cents per hundredweight.

If cheese prices show further strength, and this is likely, we can expect the July M-W to increase even more than this.

However, remember that the $11.25 per hundredweight M-W for June did not fully reflect all of the decline in cheese prices that had occurred earlier.

Holstein Club Meets

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Rotational grazing represents one of the few new technologies or systems that does not require a large investment outlay per cow. This statement from the May/June 1994 edition of Penn State's Farm Economic newsletter was supported by visiting dairy farmers Melvin and Barbara Marks of Airville, York County, when they addressed a twilight meeting of the Adams County Holstein Club recently.

The event was held at the Lagging Stream Farm, a partnership operated by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clowney and their sons Robert and John at 361 Barlow Road, Gettysburg. The Clowneys maintain a herd of 130 registered Holsteins, providing corn and alfalfa for the herd on the 300 acres which they farm. President Marvin Brown presided at the meeting.

Maintaining a herd of 55 Holsteins on their 80-acre Bridgeton Farm, Melvin and Barbara Marks with the help of three young daughters let the cows do most of the harvesting. They described how they have sub-divided their alfalfa/orchardgrass sod into 1.5-acre paddock and how a clean-up group of dry cows and lower producers helps realize full potential from the forage crop.

They cited among the benefits, a higher conception rate and fewer feet and leg problems in the herd. They surprised their audience with statements about the durability of the forage stand under thei particular style of management. Experience with pasturing calves and heifers indicated a $1,000 return from 1.5 acres of timothy.

With three years experience, the Marks family has plenty of enthusiasm for the system and announced that they are already working toward a seasonal milk production program with planned time off from milking.

Supporting the positive experience with grazing, Jeffrey Roche, 245 Forest Drive, New Oxford, told how his 85-cow Holstein herd is managed for three times per day milking and rotated daily among 1.5-acre pasture lots.

Opening speaker Dr. Donald Yorlets, veterinarian from New Oxford, reviewed the incidence of a new, acute form of Bovine Viral Diarrhea (BVD) in the commonwealth and the hazard this poses for livestock producers. He described the symptoms of the disease, told how it is spread, and urged all dairy and beef producers to consult their veterinarians about vaccinations to prevent animals from becoming infected. Once infected, there is little that can be done to help the animal recover. Of special concern are those animals destined for showing, a booster vaccination at least 10 days and not more than 60 days prior to the show is advised.

County Agent Thomas E. Piper introduced the speakers and alerted the dairy farmers to these coming events: the 4-H Fair scheduled for Saturday, August 6 at South Mountain Fairgrounds, Arendtsville; Ag Progress Days, August 16-18 at the Penn State Ag Research Center, Rock Springs, and the South Mountain Fair now accepting entries for August 31-September 4 at the fairgrounds near Arendtsville.

Shropshire Association Elects President

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — The Pennsylvania-Maryland Shropshire Breeders Association recently elected Steven M. Spayd as their new president.

As chief executive officer of the association, Spayd will preside at all meetings as well as direct all committees. His term will end in June 1996. The Penn-Mar Shropshire Association is the fourth largest association of the breed in the nation.

Steve and his wife, Brenda have 20 head of sheep. Steve is employed full time by Georgia-Pacific Corp., Lancaster and is an active member of the Lancaster County Sheep and Wool Growers Association and the Pennsylvania Livestock Association. He was also actively involved in 4-H and FFA on the local and county level.

The Penn-Mar Shropshire Association will hold its next meeting on October 8 at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition in Harrisburg. New members are welcome. Anyone wishing to acquire more information about the association may contact Steve at (717) 653-6860.

Walker Wins York 4-H Supreme Honors

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Senior 4-H'er Brad Walker was named supreme champion winner at the York County 4-H Dairy Roundup, held July 22 at the York Fairgrounds. Judge for the event was Stacey VanSant of Maryland.

The New Freedom veteran 4-H exhibitor took the overall honors with his 4-year-old senior and grand champion Holstein bread winner warns Sexy Lady.

Placing in the reserve senior and grand Holstein breed honors was the senior 3-year-old Gentle-Touch S. Wind Rebecca, exhibited by Amy Trimmer, East Berlin.

Junior honors in the Holstein breed show were shared by Daphne Doll, Glen Rock, with the intermediate yearling Dar-Dale Algonquin Stacy. Reserve champion heifer was the senior calf Stewartridge Astre Jazzie, exhibited by Jacob Hushon, Delta.

Ayrshire top awards went to brothers Jesse and Jason Stambaugh, Spring Grove.

Jesse took the cow class honors with his aged cow Ray-Knoll Liberators Angie, and reserve with his senior 2-year-old, Goodie's Ann Corben Alice.

The brothers split heifer champion honors, with Jason exhibiting his winter yearling Triple J Linbacker Brenda to the top spot, over Jesse's senior calf Don-Sher Astro Annie as reserve.

Grand champion in the Guernsey, Jersey, and Milking Shorthorn breeds were the junior champions.

Guernsey honors went to the senior calf exhibited by William Jenkins, Cedar Fringed Monlite. Reserve junior and grand was Todd Morris of Fawn Grove, with his junior calf Moracre Perfecto Idabelle.

In the Jersey class, the lone entry and champion was FHF Princess, a summer yearling exhibited by Kathleen Jenkins, Fawn Grove.

Olver Is National Advisor Of Year

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dale Olver, Penn State instructor in Dairy and Animal Science, was named Advisor of the Year at the annual meeting of the American Dairy Science Association-Student Affiliate Division in mid-July in Minneapolis.

The award recognizes Olver's work as co-advisor of the Penn State Dairy Science Club, which was named second Most Outstanding Chapter at the same meeting. About 80 members strong, the club has placed third or higher each of the last 13 years in the Outstanding Chapter Contest, and is four-time national champion in that same period.

First organized in 1925, the Penn State Dairy Science Club's purpose is to develop leadership and help advance the general welfare of the dairy industry. Over the years, the club has been a springboard for future leaders in the dairy industry both statewide and nationally. It has also been an integral part of the educational experience for thousands of Penn State students with an interest in the dairy industry.

Olver was an active member of the Dairy Science Club during his undergraduate days at Penn State, having served as its president. After receiving a B.S. in Dairy Production in 1979, Olver worked as program analyst at Atlantic Breeders Cooperative in Lancaster. During this tenure there, the club presented him with its first Outstanding Young Dairyman Award. He also was the 1989 Penn State Dairy Exposition Dedicatee.

Returning to Penn State in 1989 as an instructor in dairy science, Olver turned his attention to teaching and advising. In addition to teaching and his work with the Dairy Science Club, Olver advises the Pennsylvania 4-H Dairy Program, manages the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show, and coaches the Penn State Dairy Judging Team, which consistently has been among the top ten teams nationwide during his five-year tenure as coach. Olver spends much of his time recruiting and mentoring new and current Penn State students. He also has coached two national champion Dairy Bowl teams.

Some of the Dairy Science Club's major annual events include the Nittany Lion Fall Classic (student-organized cattle sale), an annual holiday cheesebox sale, Dairy Exposition, Spring Judging Contest, and a spring trip. Last spring the Club visited four Western-style farms and a major bottling plant in Arizona, and took side trips to Grand Canyon, Painted Desert, and Petrified Forest.

Club members work hard all year, but also have plenty of fun along the way. They say that Olver "motivates them to work hard and strive for success," and that his "positive attitude and sense of humor serves as encouragement."

Larry Muller, professor of dairy science, is co-advisor of the club. "Dale is most deserving of this national award," says Muller. "His dedication and many contributions to the club's programs have led to the club's success at both regional and national levels."

For more information on the Penn State Dairy Science Club and its activities, call the Department of Dairy and Animal Science Student Services Office (814-863-3664).

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — Cheese prices rebounded on July 15 to score a 4-cent increase that hasn't been matched since last August.

After falling 20 cents in the eight weeks from April to June, including a 10-cent drop on Friday, May 13, barrel prices have recovered more than 9 cents in just the last five weeks.

The 4-cent jump on Friday followed weekly increases of one-half to nearly 3-cents per week, before the big increase that brought the prices of blocks and barrels up to $1.26.

That's unusual to have blocks and barrels at the same price, so you can expect more changes.

This increase puts cheese prices now about 5 cents higher than last July, but, at that time, prices were on a slide that continued nearly to August.

This year, we're on a roll that hopefully will carry through the summer and into the fall market for the seasonal demand for holiday sales.

Predictions, however, are getting harder to make, even on a short term.

The crash of May 13 was expected sometime, but came more suddenly and had a shorter life than anticipated. Butter and powder prices were helping to bolster cheese prices and there were cancellations of sales to Commodity Credit Corporation as a result.

On the other hand, subsidized export sales of dairy products have only been half of what they were a year ago, and, during the last two months, milk production has moved up over last year.

Bottoming Out

That 20-cent drop in cheese prices from April to June, along with a 1-percent increase in milk production over last year, was expected to translate into a $2 drop in the Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series.

It came with a bang, when the M-W fell $1.48 from $12.99 to $11.51 in May, and everyone was bracing for the next cut in June.

With increasing production and decreasing cheese prices, another 50-cent drop was expected, but it fell less that half of that, or 26 cents, down to $11.25 for June.

With improvement in cheese, powder and butter markets, this may well be as far down as it goes.

That's still 78 cents less than last year, but a lot better than the $11 or even $10.50 that was expected two months ago.

Much of the answer still lies in the milk production patterns across the county.

While total production was up 1 percent in June. Minnesota and Wisconsin were both still down 5 percent and hot, humid weather in many states kept increases to a minimum.

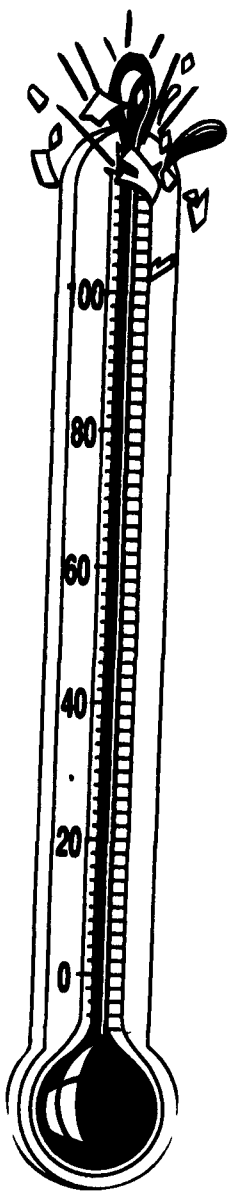
Even other Midwestern states like Indiana, Illinois and Iowa were down 3 percent. Here in the Northeast, only New York showed a 1-percent increase. Vermont, Virginia, Maryland were all down 2 to 5 percent, and Pennsylvania was unchanged.

What Next?

One way or another, the weatherman is delaying milk production increases in critical areas, but increases are still expected.

With a little bit of luck, cheese prices will continue to increase, but are unlikely to match the $1.40 you had in April.

It would be hard to imagine prices in the next six months equal to the last six months, so profits will have to come from sharper management and hopefully, with the help of a good crop of quality forage and grain.



WHEN IT'S HOT...

your layers will still be comfortable if you have the Big Dutchman Slot-Aire Layer Cage System.

Extremely hot temperatures during the week of June 13 caused many layer flocks to have high mortality and less eggs.

The superior design of the Big Dutchman Slot-Aire System kept this flock well ahead of the "Breeder Standard" - even during hot weather.
ONLY Big Dutchman has Slot-Aire.

At 42 weeks, this Dekalb Delta flock of 45,581 birds produced more eggs with less feed than average flocks. This adds up to more profits over the life of the flock.

Top Total Milk DHIA Herd In Queen Anne's County, Maryland For 1993

Milk production, butterfat test and protein, have all increased on the Master Mix ProTek program.

"The main reason for coming back to Master Mix was our low butterfat test. Since coming back, our production has increased along with our butterfat, which is now almost 4.0% from our milk cooperative. Feed and pellet quality are also very good."

AminoTek Gets A 17 Pound Milk Increase In Just Three Months

Ray Grubb and his herdsman, Wendell Guyer, were excited to see the herd respond so well to AminoTek TMR Base. The Grubbs and Wendell are pictured with a cow milking 129 pounds per day, and she hadn't yet peaked.

Ray and Wendell say that "Master Mix AminoTek feed in our ration has given us a great economical answer to some problems we were having. We have seen a terrific response in milk production, along with improved breeding and overall herd health.

We also appreciate the thorough service we get from the Master Mix District Sales Manager. He works very close with us and we're really pleased."

Pigeon Breeding — An International Market

JOYCE BUPP
York County Correspondent

NEW FREEDOM (York Co.) — Cradling a small, plump bird in his hands, Marvin Angle chuckles that he has heard every pigeon joke there is.

The New Freedom pigeon breeder makes that observation with a good-natured laugh, while showing obvious pride in his loft filled with cooing, nesting prizewinners.

Angle, a third-generation pigeon breeder, specializes in exhibition birds. His bloodlines, breeding, and show knowledge have won him national acclaim and continuing judging invitations across the U.S. and in Canada. In recent years, he has exported numerous prize-winning birds to buyers in Kuwait and Malaysia.

Birds that Angle and nearly 900 other members of the National Pigeon Association breed, show, and sell are a far cry from those in flocks of wild pigeons common to farms across the country. Like any prized breeding species, these exhibition pigeons are carefully mated for enhancement of desirable characteristics, identification tagged, have recorded pedigrees, and are health-certified for show and sale.

"There are 238 color combinations in the breed, from solid white to reds, yellows, bronzes," said Angle, pointing out desirable colors and type conformation traits on his prize-winning Gazzi pigeons. When several colors combine in a mottled, multicolor blend, their coloration is called "grizzles."

A favorite pigeon of Marvin Angle's is this Bronze Gazzi, which has won best of show honors.

Gazzis are a type of Modena pigeons, a species of round, plump-breasted bird more resembling a small chicken than the familiar shape of a wild pigeon. Angle breeds five species of pigeons, including the heavier Hunarian types. He also breeds and raises homing pigeons, not for racing competition but because of their excellent parenting skills and ability to raise chicks of other pigeons. Some of the offspring of the racers he donates to inner-city youngsters getting started in the hobby of pigeon breeding and racing.

"My grandfather was a 'squab man' who raised and dressed young pigeons for restaurants in Chicago and New York," Angle said. His own father, who later became a poultry producer, began saving some of the best of the lines and became interested in exhibiting them.

When Angle was six, he contracted polio. After he temporarily lost his eyesight and use of his legs from the disease, his father got him pigeons as pets, which he could hear during his recuperation.

Angle won his first trophy at age 8, for a Hungarian silver cock. It was the start of this lifelong hobby, which his own son, Kevin, Now also enjoys as a fourth-generation pigeon breeder. Father and son exhibit their pigeons as near to home as the York Fair and as far away as national shows on the West Coast.

The Angle lofts house between 300 and 400 pigeons at various ages, from thumb-size, day-old hatchlings to full-grown, two-pound adults of the larger breeds. While a pair of pigeons will mate for life, Angle prefers to cross various bloodlines. Selective inbreeding is also used in matings to enhance desirable show and type characteristics.

Pigeons reach breeding maturity at about six months. Both hen and cock care for the two eggs, which she will lay during a 48-hour period, taking turns at 12-hour nesting shifts. The chicks hatch 19 days after the first egg is laid.

For the first week of their lives, the young birds are fed "pigeon milk," a nutritious liquid produced by the pigeons for their tiny, featherless infants. Then, they progress to being fed by their parents the same feed that the adults consume, reprocessing in their digestive systems for the babies.

When a pigeon chick is about one week old, the small, metal identification tag is slipped over one foot and will remain there for the bird's lifetime. Different colors are used for different years, and tiny number codes identify the individual birds and its owner. Angle's coding includes the letter "A."

Pigeon shows are highly competitive, often with thousands of entries from across the country. The birds are judged on a point system based on selective traits such as tail lift, straightness of head, position of legs, and richness of feather coloration. Judges handle each bird, spreading the wings to examine their coloring, checking the body condition of the bird, and examining the keel, or breastbone.

"I try to work with and handle the birds several house each day," Angle said of accustoming his pigeons to the hands-on judging. "The more you handle them, the better they are about it."

Even the toenails of a pigeon are examined in judging, since each breed should have certain coloration on the feet and toenails. The Gazzi breed, one of the most competitive in numbers, should have black toenails.

"That's why you'll always see Gazzi breeders carrying a black marker pen around at shows," said this veteran show judge. Often accompanying Angle to shows is his brother, Gerald, a Maryland resident, who is also an official for the NPA shows.

Angle's show expertise has put him in demand for "trimming" seminars for pigeon show enthu-

(Turn to Page B3)

Top awards at National Pigeon Association shows are often in the form of beautifully handcarved breed reproductions such as the one held by Marvin Angle. A display case behind him holds many more of his awards accumulated over the years.

Marvin Angle's loft is designed so that individual pigeons and pairs have their own nesting or perching areas.

siasts. Trimming is the pigeon breeders' equivalent of fitting cattle for show, and entails delicate grooming and removal of undesirable colors and locations of feathers. A tiny manicure scissors is the primary tool used in trimming pigeons.

York Fair is a major show for the Angle family, with Marvin and Kevin exhibiting as many as 150 pigeons between them. Angle shows annually at the NPA national show, which rotates around the country. Two years ago, the southcentral Pennsylvania area hosted nationals at the Lancaster Host Inn, drawing 5600 pigeon entries for their show.

Pigeon auctions are also usually held during show events, with top breeding birds commending prices up to $150. Birds from outstanding bloodlines are in continuing demand, both at public and private sales. As competition for birds has grown, pigeon breeders are being increasingly careful of their flocks. Angle's loft has twice been broken into by thieves over the past several years, who selectively stole some of his most highly-prized show birds.

Following the Middle East war a few years ago, demand skyrocketed for pigeons from top show bloodlines. Buyers were primarily from Kuwait, where pigeon competition is keen, and war devastation and hunger had nearly wiped out all the flocks of the country's hobbyists. Angle relates that one shipment of 60 pigeons sold by an acquaintance of his carried a $30,000 selling price.

Brokers for foreign buyers often arrive at lofts with video cameras and forward vodeotapes of pigeons to potential customers. Some also arrive at public and private sale with specific orders for pigeons of particular species and coloration.

Specialized handling techniques have evolved through shipping pigeons for show and sale purposes. "Microbarriers" and "skykennels" are containers designed for handling pigeon shipments by postal service and by air freight. Microbarriers, used for shipping birds via domestic postal service, have a filter lining inside the breathing holes in the cardboard to prevent potential disease and bacterial contamination.

(Turn to Page B4)

Consuming Thoughts

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

If you want to grow up big and strong, you need to eat your fruits and vegetables! Most of us heard our mothers give this advice and as usual — Mom was right!

It turns out that it is more than just a mother's good idea, because now there is solid scientific evidence that a diet rich in fruit and vegetables, and the nutrients they provide, leads to a lower risk of a number of major diseases.

Fruits and vegetables are rich in vitamin C and carotene — but they are also important sources of vitamin E, folate, and fiber.

So, if these foods are so healthy then why aren't we eating more of them? Recent studies have shown that only 20 percent of Americans eat even one fruit or vegetable rich in vitamin C or carotene on any given day. And only nine percent eat the recommended two fruits and three vegetables. With intakes that low, a great many people are not getting the optimal levels of vitamin C, E, and carotene.

To change your diet so that you include more fruits and vegetables (5-9 servings daily) try some of these ideas.

• For lunch or dinner, make a low-cost easy to prepare salad or dessert out of fruit. Don't just serve it for breakfast.

• Bake apples the night before and store in the refrigerator for an easy dessert the next night.

• For vitamin A include dark green and deep yellow vegetables such as spinach and carrots or serve cantaloupes, yellow peaches, and apricots.

• Pep your morning — and your scrambled eggs with bits of fresh bean sprouts, sliced water chestnuts and a little chopped onion and green pepper. Add a dash of soy sauce, if you like. Vegetables can be fun for breakfast!

• Want a nutritious economical sandwich to perk up lunch time? Mix chunky peanut butter (1 cup), chopped raisins (1 cup), and shredded carrot (½ cup) for six snappy sandwiches.

• Enjoy dark-green leafy vegetables, raisins, or prunes and get an extra bonus of iron.

• Add fresh or dried herbs to vegetables during the cooking period. Lima beans with marjoram or sage, snap beans with basil or dill, broccoli with tarragon, or cabbage with caraway seeds are all good combinations.

• Watching your weight? Sprinkle lemon juice or herb vinegar on boiled vegetables for seasoning, instead of butter or margarine.

• Baking acorn squash halves? Add a sprinkling of cinnamon for new zest.

• Get vitamin C from oranges, grapefruit, strawberries, cantaloupe, broccoli, cabbage, spinach, peppers, white and sweet potatoes, and tomatoes.

• Turn an ordinary meal into a party by serving attractive raw vegetable relishes with a yogurt or light sour cream dip, instead of salad.

• For supper, try hearty vegetable soup, along with a fruit salad and hot rolls.

Virginia Championship Apple Butter Contest

WINCHESTER, Va. - The Virginia Championship Apple Butter Making Contest will be held on Saturday, September 17, in the Winchester Recreation Park. The annual event is held in conjunction with the Rotary Club's Apple Harvest Festival and affords the participants an opportunity to win more than $700 in prize money.

The contest is sponsored by the Frederick County Extension Office and the Winchester/ Frederick County Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with area apple producers and support businesses. The apple butter must be made in the park on the day of the contest and can be sold on both Saturday and Sunday during the Festival.

If you are interested in trying to unseat the 1993 Virginia Apple Butter Making Champion - Mt. Olive United Methodist Church - contact the Frederick County Extension Service by writing to: Second Floor, Frederick County Courthouse, 20 North Loudoun Street, Winchester, VA 22601; or phoning (703) 665-5699 for rules and an entry form.

Skykennels are wooden, stackable boxes divided into small side-by-side sections — literally, pigeonholes. Current flight rules allow two skykennels per customer and freight reservations must be made ahead of time for the feathered fliers.

Pigeons are sensitive to temperature changes in their environment and are stressed by extreme heat and cold. Angle has lost birds after moving them from California to southern York County during cold weather. It may take as long as a year for pigeons to adjust to extremes of a new climate, during which time they often will not breed.

"Southern states do better at raising babies earlier in the year," Angle said, "But quality of pigeons are good all over the country, not any one particular location."

The Avian flu poultry epidemic a few years ago was devastating to pigeon breeders, according to Angle, even though pigeons do not get the disease.

"It just about destroyed us," he said, explaining that shows were simply shut down completely for a period of time. Exhibitors self-certify their birds health conditions for show purposes, but all pigeons are checked at shows. "We can't 'freeze' a flock, put it in quarantine, if there's a problem.

For his breeding expertise, judging and leadership among the pigeon industry, Angle has been named a Hall of Fame winner by both the National Pigeon Association, the youngest ever to be so honored and the National Modena Association. He spent three years helping redo the "bible" of the industry, the "Encyclopedia of Pigeon Standards," with resource information on 174 different breeds. He is an office holder in five separate local and regional pigeon organizations.

Following in his father's footsteps, Kevin likewise has been honored for pigeon breeding and showing accomplishments. At 15, he became the youngest person in the National Modena Club to win a certified champion award, which recognizes a lengthy series of top showe accomplishments. His dad has three of the awards to his credit.

Both Marvin and Kevin are now gearing up to help host an all-breed show to be held July 31 at the York Fairgrounds. As show secretary, Marvin is helping organize the entries for the 40 to 50 breeds expected to be represented at the event. For additional information on the show, Angle may be contacted at Miller Road, R1, New Freedom, PA 17349.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Just another day at the "zoo"...

"Is it full moon?" I ask The Farmer. In every corner of the maternity pens, there seems to be a newborn calf.

One stands near its first-time-calved mother, seeming to debate if it wants to nurse a bit for supper. Another snoozes, curled up on the soft haylage in the concrete feed trough.

Three are lounging on the pen's sawdust bedding around Ada, a recently-calved older cow. With this sudden rash of calvings in a few-hour period, we haven't yet moved all the calves into their individual pens in the calf nursery.

Ada has stretched out in the pen to rest and chew her cud after being milked earlier. Almost under her head and against the barn wall lies the bull calf belonging to Splendor, who had also calved recently. A hefty, chunky little fellow, he is so motionless, stretched on his side with his legs sprawled on the bedding, that he appears to be sick.

To be sure he is getting enough to eat, we've been offering him a supplemental bottle of his mother's warm milk. I crawl around Ada's big head to get in the right position to pry open the calf's mouth. He tentatively sucks a bit, tasting the contents of the two-quart "baby" bottle.

Ada swings her broad, heavy head around and props it on my back while I crouch there. Suddenly the calf's appetite overcomes his sound sleep; he hops to his feet to bump and bang at the bottle. Wedged between the sudden actions of the two, I nearly fall on my face on the pen floor.

Just another day at the zoo...

Outside the barn, the multi-hued flock of half-grown chickens are vigorously uprooting geraniums out of the flower border while scratching for bugs and worms. Calm has finally settled over them, after several days of fussing for reunification with their mother hen.

She had abandoned them to take up with the two biggest roosters, one on each side of her, jealously guarding, while they noisily worked their way around the yard. A younger pair of roosters trailed after, also interested in the little brown hen, but no match for the older, tougher birds.

For a day or so, the squawking, squabbling, and screeching from the amorous roosters and the pleadings of the youngsters trying to reunite with their mother got so intense and loud I plotted to relocate the old birds to another barn — or the freezer. But they roosted that night in a spot just out of my easy reach and won a temporary stay of execution.

Just another day at the zoo....

Bits of what looks like giant bread crumbs litter the patio and I wonder what the mess might be. Then the "light bulb" goes on and I know - the squirrels have chewed up another lawn chair cushion.

This is the second one partially shredded, with bits of the foam stuffing strewn all over the place. What can a squirrel possibly be interested in to munch through a synthetic-fabric cushion cover and root in the foam stuffing? Nesting materials?

"Probably the same thing they're hunting when they chew up the tractor seats in the shop," wryly observes The Farmer, veteran of several tractor seat shreddings by our fluffy-tailed friends.

Solomon scratches at the front door, plotting to sneak a day-long doggy nap on the cool concrete of the basement. Monk, the cat, rushes to the screen, jumps up and hisses at the dog. He backs off, instead stretching out in front of the door so we trip over him every time we pass through.

Just another day at the zoo....

Maryland Farm Queen To Be Selected From 23 Contestants

TIMONIUM, Md. — The reigning Maryland Farm Queen, Kristin Archer of Harford County, will crown her successor, the 1994 Maryland Farm Queen, who will be selected at the Maryland Farm Queen Contest, Sunday, August 28, 7 p.m., in the State Fair Cow Palace.

"I consider it an honor to have served as the 1993 Maryland Farm Queen and as spokesperson for the Maryland Farm Bureau," said Archer. "It was a privilege to represent the many hard-working people who make up Maryland's agricultural community. I will never forget the wonderful people with whom I met the many exciting experiences during my reign."

Young women, between the ages of 16 and 19, who have earned their place in the 1994 Maryland Farm Queen Contest by winning county Farm Bureau-sponsored contests, will compete for this renowned title, tiaras supplied by Littman Jewelers in Cranberry Mall, and scholarship and cash awards in the amount of $4,000. The 23 Maryland county farm queens, will be critiqued, during a two-day competition, primarily on their agricultural knowledge and experience and their civic involvement. Each must spontaneously respond to a "fish bowl" question either related to career opportunities or specific farming issues. Poise, appearance, personality, communication skills, and civic involvement are secondary requirements.

The 1994 Maryland Farm Queen will be present throughout the 10-day State Fair to award prizes, and mingle with fairgoers, dignitaries, and media representatives. Her responsibilities will continue throughout the year as she will participate in a number of activities representing Maryland agriculture. The runners-up will assist the Farm Queen with award presentations and serve as hostesses for dignitaries.

The 113th Maryland State Fair, which will offer a variety of livestock and horse shows, arts and crafts and home arts exhibts, runs from Saturday, August 27, through Monday, September 5.

The Fairgrounds open at 8 a.m. for livestock and horse shows, demonstration halls open at 10 a.m., and the Midway opens at 12 noon on weekdays, and 11 a.m. on weekends. Admission is $4 for adults, children under 12 are admitted free. Admittance to the race track is included in the admission price of the Fair. Parking is available at the Fairgrounds with handicapped parking at the North Gate entrance to the 4-H Home Arts Building. Free parking is available on a first-come, first-serve basis at the Park and Ride location on Deereco Road. The Fairgrounds encourage use of the Light Rail with an easily assessible Light Rail stop at the Fairgrounds Cow Palace Gate. For general information call (410) 252-0200, ext. 226.

Pot Luck Ideas

Looking for a dish to take along to a potluck dinner?

Summertime is filled with family reunions, picnics, and gatherings. Some people always like to take the same dish, but others like to be adventurous and try something novel.

Here are several ideas from our readers.

SUCCOTASH CHOWDER

1 large onion, diced
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup fresh or canned corn
1 cup fresh or canned lima beans
2 cups diced potatoes
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 cups milk
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
¼ cup water
Chopped parsley for garnish

Saute onion in pressure cooker until translucent, add corn, beans, potatoes, water, salt and pepper. Cover with cooker lid and set the control. When control jiggles, cook 2 minutes then lower the pressure immediately. Remove lid and add milk, bring to a boil. Mix together the 2 tablespoons flour and ¼ cup water and gradually add to the vegetable mixture, stirring constantly until liquids thicken. Remove from heat. Serve. Garnish with parsley. Serve 6 or 8.

COCONUT SUPREME SHOO FLY PIE

Combine:
1 cup sifted flour
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
1 rounded tablespoon shortening
1 cup coconut

Beat:
1 egg
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 cup hot water
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon vinegar

Mix together flour, sugar, shortening, and coconut. Reserve ½ cup mixture for crumb top. Dissolve the baking soda in vinegar in ¼ cup hot water and mix in egg, syrup, and remaining water with the flour mixture. Pour in one 9-inch pastry-lined pan or two small pans. Bake at 375 degrees for 35 to 45 minutes.

CHICKEN POT PIE

3 quarts chicken broth
4 medium potatoes, diced
1 onion, cut fine
5 medium carrots, diced
1 cup finely chopped celery
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
2½ -pound cooked chicken, cut up

Bring broth and onion to a boil in medium deep kettle. Add alternatley a layer of potatoes and carrot and follow tih a layer of dough squares until all are added. Cover kettle and cook 5 minutes. Stir and cook slowly until done, about 15 minutes or more. Serves 8.

Pot Pie Dough:
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup milk
3 cups flour

Beat eggs, add milk and salt, add flour to make dough. Roll dough into thin sheets and cut into 3-inch squares.

HOMEMADE MEAT RAVIOLA

Filling:
1 pound ground pork, veal, or chopped meat
1 beaten egg
1 cup bread crumbs
⅛ cup chopped onion

Dough:
3 cups flour
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon shortening
Dash salt

Fry meat with onion, break up while cooking. When all meat is cooked, drain off fat and let cool in a mixing bowl. After cooling, add beaten egg and bread crumbs. Mix well. Set aside.

Mix dough ingredients until hard in consistency (you may need to add a little water). Break off a piece the size of a golf ball and place the remainder under a cloth. Roll out dough to the thickness of a heavy edge of a knife blade. Roll out another piece the same. On one rolled out piece of dough, place a tablespoon or so of the meat that has been rolled into a ball. Place balls of meat approximately 4 inches apart. Cover with the second sheet of dough. Using a 2-inch round glass or cookie cutter, cut out ravioli. Seal edges.

To cook, drop ravioli into boiling water. Allow to boil for 15 to 20 mintues. Drain and serve as desired.

DRIED BEEF CASSEROLE

6 medium potatoes
¼ pound dried beef
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1 pound grated cheese
¼ pound Velveeta cheese
2 tablespoons bread crumbs
1 tablespoon shortening, melted

Cook potatoes with skins until tender. Shred dried beef in flour and gradually add milk. Stir constantly until the mixture thickens.

Put in cheese, stir over low heat until cheese melts. Stir in potatoes and place carefully in buttered casserole. Alternately layer with dried beef mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Toss bread crumbs with shortening. Sprinkle over top. Bake 5 minutes more. Serve immediately.

MANICOTTI

1 package manicotti
1½ pounds chopped beef
1 egg
½ pound mozzarella cheese, diced
3 slices bread, diced
1 tablespoon butter or olive oil
½ tablespoon chopped parsley
Salt and pepper to taste
32-ounce jar spaghetti sauce

Mix together chopped meat, eggs, mozzarella, milk, bread, parsley, salt and pepper. Blend well. Place 4 manicotti at a time in 4-quarts boiling salted water. Parboil 6 mintues.

Remove from water with strainer, spoon and stuff immediately with mixture (use butter knife or teaspoon). Repeat this procedure until all manicotti have been parboiled and filled. Cover bottom of baking dish with spaghetti sauce. Arrange filled manicotti side by side in a single layer making sure manicotti fills dish. If this is not possible, use two smaller dishes.

Cover with sauce and bake in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Sprinkle with ronzoni grated cheese. Serve piping hot.

Society Of Farm Women Award Five Scholarships

STRASBURG (Lancaster Co.) —Five students of home economics and agriculture related courses, received $1000 scholarships from the Flora Black Memorial Scholarship Fund presented by the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania. The 1994 winners are Richard Bupp, David Creamer, Amy Fyock, Kristin Groff, and Christine Habecker.

The Flora Black Memorial Scholarship Fund, named for the founder of the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania, was established in 1960 to help educate girls studying home economics. This was changed this year to include daughters and sons of mothers or grandmothers who are society members, studying home economics or agriculture related courses, subjects. The Fund is supported by sales of a state cookbook.

RICHARD BUPP: Twenty-two-year-old Richard Bupp, son of Leroy and Joyce Bupp, of Seven Valleys, is a senior at Penn State. He has been actively involved in 4-H for 10 years, both in dairy and tractor safety. He plans to utilize new technonlgy with production methods to maximize farm profits and minimize environmental impact. Richard's grandmother was a past state president.

DAVID CREAMER: Son of Mark and Denise Creamer of Berlin, is 17 and will also attend Penn State University. He has been involved with FFA as a reporter and in various competitions on the local and state level. He plans to enter the form of agriculture known as national resources, which lies in the conservation of soils, forests, and water. David is from Somerset County where his mother is a society member.

AMY FYOCK: Amy Fyock, daughter of Dave and Mary Alice Fyock, Lititz, is a senior at the University of Delaware. She is a fourth-time recipient of the award. She has been involved with 4-H for eight years with projects in sewing, foods, crocheting and basetry. Her interests will take her to design custom clothing and teach sewing at the college level. Her grandmother is a member of Society #1 and her great-grandmother Barbara Moore began Farm Women in Lancaster County.

KRISTIN GROFF: Seventeen-year-old Kristin is the daughter of Carlton and Carol Groff of Kirkwood. She plans to attend Carleton College and study biology with emphasis on agricultural genetics this fall. She was a member of marching, concert, and jazz bands in high school. She was also part of the choir at her church and high school. Her mother belongs to Society #31 of Lancaster County. Kristin was Miss Solanco in 1994.

CHRISTINE HABECKER: She is a daughter of Mark and Darlene Habecker, this is her second time to receive the award. Christine lives on a dairy farm at R. D. #3 Palmyra. She is a sophomore at Penn state University. She has been in 4-H clubs for eight years, where she was president and teen council member. Her mother belongs to Lebanon County Society #14. Christine is a food science major where she plans to obtain a career in either product development or quality assurance.

June 1, 1995 is the deadline for receipt of applications for next year's scholarship. Any son or daughter of a farm women may apply every year for the awards which are based on academic achievement, all around rural interest and need. Persons interested in applying for the 1995 scholarships may do so through local society presidents or by contacting Joyce Slaymaker at 912 Old Rd., Strasburg, Pa. 17579.

Other committee members are: Naomi Bupp, York County; Darlene Schmeltz, Dauphin County; Fern Phillipy, Berks County; Eleanor Rothenberger, Chester County; and Dottie Stricker, state president.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Nancy Kring, Johnstown, would like a recipe for Oriental muffins, a spicy muffin with a brown sugar bottom. If we do not receive an answer to this request within two weeks, we will assume our readers do not know the answer and drop the request.

QUESTION — Ann Lincoln, Genesee, lost her Insterella Mozzarella Cheese recipe that she made from her sweet Jersey milk. Does anyone have the recipe?

QUESTION — A York County reader would like a recipe for poultry stuffing made from crackers instead of bread.

QUESTION — A Lancaster County reader would like a recipe for pepper jelly made with Karo or white corn syrup.

QUESTION — E. Weaver, Mohnton, would like a recipe for bread sticks like those served by Pizza Hut or someone's favorite recipe.

QUESTION — Deb Williams, Liverpool, would like a recipe for old-fashioned clear toy candy.

QUESTION — A Lititz reader would like recipes using oat bran.

QUESTION — Linda Funk of Mercersburg would like a recipe for unleavened bread to serve for Communion.

ANSWER — John Oleyar, Bradenville, wanted a recipe to make old-time cheese that uses junket tablets. His mom made it. She put the ingredients through a cheesecloth with a weight on it. It was a semi-hard cheese that tasted great. Thanks to Anna Nolt for a recipe that we kept in our files.

Easy Method Cheese

2 gallons skim milk
2 gallons whole milk

Heat to 91 degrees. Add 1 teaspoon liquid rennet or cheese rennet tablets sufficent to thicken 4 gallons milk. Let milk set undisturbed until it breaks away from sides of pot. Heat to 99 degrees while stirring and breaking the curds into rice-sized kernels with hands. Remove from heat and let set 15 minutes. Pour off whey. Cut curd in pieces that are easily handled and put in press and press overnight. Remove and place in 45- to 50-degree temperature. The next two mornings, rub salt on each side. Let set at least one week to cure. The longer it cures the stronger-flavored it becomes. If mold forms on outside, wash with lightly salted water.

Homemade Muenster Cheese

2½ gallons sour milk

Let set until milk looks like junket pudding. Scald until it is too hot to hold your hand in, then pour into cheesecloth. Let hang until curds are dry (overnight or about 12 hours). Crumble curds and mix 2 heaping teaspoons baking soda and ½ cup butter into them. Let set for 2 hours. Put in double boiler. Add 1 cup sour cream and melt. When melted, add another cup of sour cream and 1 tablespoon salt. Mix well. Pour into buttered mold. Let set until completely cold and slice.

ANSWER — For the reader who requested a recipe for vinegar pie, here is one from Mildred Vorndran, Webster, N.Y. She received it from daughter-in-law who lives in Georgia, where the pie is popular. Mildred said the pie is delicious.

Vinegar Pie

1½ cups sugar
¼ cup melted butter
3 eggs
2 tablespoons white vinegar
1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1 teaspoon lemon flavoring

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Blend butter and sugar. Add eggs, vinegar, vanilla, and lemon. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes or until golden brown.

MAMMA School Milk Promotion Receives Commendation

PHILADELPHIA — The School District of Philadelphia Board of Directors honored the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association with a commendation for MAMMA's 1994 School Milk Promotion conducted throughout the 183 elementary schools in the Philadelphia district.

Rotan E. Lee, Philadelphia's school board president, made the presentation to MAMMA General Manager Dick Norton in appreciation for MAMMA's extensive efforts to increase the number of students participating in the school breakfast program. The school breakfast program is the federally-subsidized program that assures a nutritious breakfast is available to all students regardless of ability to pay. A half-pint of milk is a USDA requirement of all breakfasts served in the elementary schools. Increasing the number of school breakfasts served among the nearly 112,000 students in the Philadelphia school district can significantly increase school milk sales.

Beginning in February of this year MAMMA conducted the "Milk Is Phantastic" promotion which involved in-school appearances by the Phillie mascot, The Phillie Phanatic, who is MAMMA's milk spokesperson in the Philadelphia area. The promotion also included distribution of numerous materials to educate children about the nutrition, the importance of eating a healthy breakfast and drinking milk every day.

As a result of MAMMA's "Milk Is Phantastic" campaign, the number of school breakfasts served increased by nearly nine percent throughout the school district. This increase could result in as much as an additional 1.6 million pounds of milk being served during the school year.

The commendation from the Philadelphia school board credited MAMMA for the "significant gains in breakfast program participation" and for encouraging the Philadelphia school children to take advantage of the program through MAMMA's incentive programs which included the "I Love Milk at Breakfast" contest that rewarded regular participants with Phillies baseball tickets or Darren Daulton/Phillie Phanatic Growth Posters.

The Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association is the only qualified regional program that includes advertising, promotion, nutrition education, retail merchandising, school food service, communications and public relations for the entire Middle-Atlantic milk marketing area. More than 5,000 dairy farm families support the MAMMA program.

ANSWER — Hazel Spamer, Perry Hall, wanted a chow chow recipe that has chopped cabbage, onions, and red pepper with a sweet pickle base, possibly with turmeric as it had a yellow color. Thanks to Mrs. Stanley Owens, Beech Creek, and to Mary Gayman, Orrstown, for sending recipes.

Chow Chow

½ gallon green tomatoes, chopped

Drain overnight. In the morning, add the following:

1 gallon cabbage chopped
½ dozen peppers, chopped
¼ dozen small onions, chopped
1 bunch celery, chopped
1 tablespoon celery seed
1 tablespoon mustard seed
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon black pepper
⅛ tablespoon cloves
4 cups sugar
Vinegar to cover

Boil together ingredients until tender. Add:

1 teaspoon turmeric.

Put in hot jars and seal in boiling water bath.

Mrs. Stanley Owens

Chow Chow

Slice 1 gallon green tomatoes and salt as you slice them. Let stand overnight. In the morning, place the tomatoes to drain. Slaw 1 gallon cabbage. Slice 1 quart onions. Place the following in large kettle:

3 pints vinegar
2 pints sugar
½ box mixed pickling spice

Boil a few minutes. Add the cabbage and onions. Let cook about 15 minutes, add tomatoes. Stir often, cook until liquid is clear about 75 minutes. Makes 5 quarts or more.

This is an old recipe. It was my mother's and I am 70 years old writes Mary Gayman.

ANSWER — Phyllis Stauffer, Seven Valleys, was looking for a recipe for onion loaf, which can be sliced but is not a bread. Thanks to Linda Howell, South Canaan, for sending a recipe.

Savory Onion Bread

1½ cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cold butter
½ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
½ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese

Combine flour, baking powder, and salt in a large bowl. Cut in butter until crumbly. Stir in cheese. Make a well in center.

Fry onion in butter slowly until clear and golden. Set aside.

Beat egg in small bowl. Stir in milk. Add onion. Pour into well. Stir to moisten and form soft dough. Pat into greased 8-inch round or square pan.

Sprinkle cheese over top. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Serve hot.

ANSWER — Ruth Minor, Arnold, Md., wanted a recipe for German Apple Cake. Thanks to Phyllis Mirakorits, Bath; N. Maneval, Cocolamus; and Sarah Zook, New Holland; for sending recipes, which had appeared in this paper previously. The only difference I could see between them is that in one recipe, the flour was 2½ cups instead of 2¼ cups. You may want to experiment with the different amounts. Several agreed that this is truely the best apple cake they ever tasted.

German Apple Cake

½ cup butter
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
2¼ cups flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 cups raw apples, diced or grated

Cream butter, sugar, and eggs until light and fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, mixing until smooth. Add apples. Pour into oblong cake pan.

Crumb topping:

½ cup brown sugar
¼ cup granulated sugar
½ cup chopped nuts
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Combine topping ingredients. Sprinkle on top of batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes.

MARINATED VEGETABLE SALAD

1 cup broccoli florets, blanched
1 cup cauliflower florets, blanched
1 cup celery, sliced
1 cup carrots, sliced
½ cup chopped green bell peppers
½ cup thinly sliced red onion
4-ounces drained cooked kidney beans
4-ounces drained cooked chick peas
10 small green olives, pitted and sliced
10 small black olives, pitted and sliced
¾ cup reduced-calorie Italian salad dressing

In large bowl, combine all ingredients, tossing well. Refrigerate at least three hours or overnight to develop flavor.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Some years we have a very dry summer but this year it has been quite wet in our area. This is fine for growing flowers and vegetables. But, you should see the fine specimens of weeds in our garden. The red root is so sturdy that it is difficult to pull and grass grew up through my one strawberry row. Oh boy, did I sweat to clean that 100-foot row.

Talking of strawberries, even in August we are picking some from a row of everbearing ones. It is a nice change from peaches and blueberries. We've eaten our own watermelon, but this year, I think there will be more cantaloupes than we can handle.

My husband planted about six different kinds of sweet corn and so the season will be stretched out over a two-month period. The red raspberries are finished bearing for now but they will have a second crop this fall.

Some lilies that I planted in May have only now come up. In fact, I almost forgot where I put them along our rail fence. However, there were two kinds that I left in the ground over winter. One was an Easter lily that just bloomed now and another is called "Stargazer" and it has a very large, fragrant bright pink blossom.

This year my vegetable garden has several rows of flowers that are blooming just now. The cosmos are the tallest, next comes the big zinnias and the shortest are the asters and nasturtiums. The row of basil has such large plants that I've been able to share with several neighbors. In fact, when folks take their daily walk past our house, I'll often ask if they can use a head of cabbage. You see, when I planted seed, it all came up and the transplanted cabbage is all ready for use at the same time. Most of our neighbors do not have gardens.

Auction Benefits Clinic For Special Children

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Donations of saleable items are again requested for the benefit auction for the Clinic for Special Children. The auction will be Sept. 17 at the Leola Produce Auction site on Brethren Church Road, Leola. All proceeds will go to the clinic, a non-profit organization with Dr. Holmes Morton as the attending physician.

Dr. Morton has taken a special interest in several hereditary diseases, and by testing all newborn babies of high-risk parentage, he has been able to prevent irreversible brain damage of many of these young children. The same tests that are at the clinic for $35.00 would cost $350.00 to $400.00 at major medical centers, making these tests too expensive for many parents. The costs of owning and operating this laboratory equipment are huge. But with the funds from this annual auction, the clinic has been able to offer this service to their clients at a price that is affordable to the average parent.

Donations can be made to the committee persons. If you have items that should be on the sale bill, you need to make contact by Wednesday, Aug. 12. For more information contact Leonard Hurst, Lititz. Phone: (717) 626-4863.

Pair Win Leadline For 'Wooly' Fashions

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — For Janine Winebark and Nathan Tice, sheep raising entails a lot more than feeding, blocking, and exercising sheep. It means showing how stylish wool is both on and off the sheep.

One of the ways Janine and Nathan demonstrate the look of fashionable wool is to participate in the Lebanon Fair Leadline. In it, they dress up in wool clothing, and lead a top quality ewe around the show ring. Contestants are judged both on their and their sheep's appearance and their ability to keep control of the sheep in the show ring.

Ten-year-old Janine took the first-place trophy and 9-year-old Nathan was named reserve champion.

For the event, Janine wore a purple wool jacket with coordinating purple and green plaid walking shorts. Her mother, Janet, made the outfit out of lightweight wool.

Janine's father is Ken Winebark, Lebanon County Extension agent. The family lives on a Myerstown farm, where Janine raises sheep and pigs for 4-H projects.

Janine lead Peaches, a Southdown ewe.

"Peaches makes a lot of noise. I borrowed her because I didn't have a suitable one," Janine said.

Before Janine competed in the lead line competition, she picked up the supreme champion trophy in the swine show. The lead line was held on Tuesday night. As of press time for this section, the sheep show had not yet been held, but Janine was looking forward to showing two sheep in competition.

A fifth grader at Myerstown Elementary School, Janine most enjoys showing sheep and pigs, she said.

Nathan wore a 100 percent wool sweater with a intricated knitted design of a foxhound hunt. His gray flannel shorts were made by his grandmother. Gray wool socks and hiking boots completed his outfit.

He borrowed Bob, a Corriedale sheep, to lead in the competition.

Nathan lives with his parents, Debbie and Tom Tice on a Mt. Zion farm, where they raise 20-head of Suffolk and Dorset sheep and have 600-head of veal calves.

This was Nathan's third year in competition. He is in the fourth grade at Fredericksburg Elementary School. He is a member of the 4-H sheep club and the judging team. He is also a Cub Scout and enjoys hanging out with his dog Buddy.

Judges for leadline competition were Rosanne Bolles, who has been active in 4-H for 30 years; Karen Gardner, who raises Polypay sheep; and Elvin Yeagley, a 4-H sheep leader in Lancaster County.

In the sheep lead line, Janine Winebark and Peaches take champion honors and Nathan Tice and Bob take reserve honors for looking their "wooly" best.

Grandma Janet takes Dominic Pavone, 3, to the Lebanon Fair. He prefers the tractors to the rides. He is the son of Andrew and Linda of Palmyra.

Five-year-old Kerstin Miller picks her favorite spot at the Lebanon County Fair. She is the daughter of Jeff and Gail Miller of Elizabethtown.

Brenda and Ron Copenhaver, farmers from Anneville, make the Lebanon Fair a family fun event with their children Monika, 4; Korina, 3; and Jacolia, 1. During Farmer's Night, Ron participated in bale throwing and Brenda in roller pin throwing.

Vitamin C For A Healthy You

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Fresh fruits and vegetables of all kinds are on the grocers' shelves and appearing at local farmers' markets. "There are so many to choose from that it's hard to believe that many folks still aren't eating enough of these healthy and delicious foods," says Debra Bryant, Wayne County Extension Director.

Have I had my "Five-A-Day" is the question each of us should be asking ourselves? Two servings of fruit and three of vegetables is the minimum we need each day to stay healthy. A U.S. Department of Agriculture study found that the average American eats only 2 and ½ servings of fruits and vegetables a day.

Why all the fuss over fruits and vegetables? Bryant says, "One reason is that these foods are excellent sources of vitamin C." Folks who get plenty of vitamin C reduce their risk of certain diseases, like cancer, heart disease and high blood pressure.

Over 90 large-scale population studies have been conducted on the relationship between vitamin C or foods high in vitamin C and cancer. In about three-fourths of these studies, high vitamin C intake significantly reduced the risk of cancer.

Evidence of this safeguarding effect was especially strong for cancers of the oral cavity, esophagus, stomach and pancreas. Substantial evidence also exists that vitamin C can protect against cervical, rectal, breast and lung cancer.

Vitamin C seems to act as an antioxidant in the blood stream, countering particles called free radicals that are formed by the body. Free radicals can damage cells. This damage is thought to be one of the first steps in the development of cancer.

Not getting enough vitamin C also has been linked to three major heart disease risks — low density lipoproteins (LDL) cholesterol, high density lipoproteins (HDL) and high blood pressure. Recent research found that people who got the most vitamin C had more HDL (good cholesterol) and less LDL (bad cholesterol) than individuals with low vitamin C intakes. They also were much less likely to have high blood pressure.

One theory on heart disease is that it begins when LDL, the major carrier of cholesterol in the blood, is oxidized in the blood by free radicals. Researchers have reason to believe oxidized LDL starts the formation of blood vessel-clogging plaque that leads to atherosclerosis, hardening of the arteries.

Although it may be tempting to take vitamin supplements, it's better to get needed nutrients from foods, simply because foods contain many other nutrients.

The recommended daily allowance of vitmin C for healthy adults is 60 mg. Some fruits rich in vitamin C are berries (blueberries, raspberries and strawberries), citrus (grapefruit, oranges, tangerines), kiwi, melons (cantaloupe, honeydew, watermelon), papaya and pineapple.

CHORE-TIME Ultraflo® feeders

More Than 260 Ultraflo® Systems Have Been Sold In The Northeast Since 1985 - That's Over 20 Million Birds!

Over 80% of the nation's top egg producers have already switched to Chore-Time cages with ULTRAFLO® Feeders!*

Here are the facts why ULTRAFLO® outperforms chain feeders

FEED SAVINGS. Customers report ½ to 2 lbs. per 100 birds/day—over $10,000 per year saved on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year!

TROUGH DESIGN. High tensile steel for strength. No feed buildup or waste like chain trough.

NO HI-GRADING of feed, due to our design. Chain lets birds pick over feed while feeder runs.

REMIXES FEED. Our auger slowly revolves, keeping old and new feed blended. Chain doesn't, so feed can get stale.

REPAIR & MAINTENANCE. Ours needs the least of all feeders. Easy splicing with auger connector, and no troublesome corners or chain guides to replace. Saves money and time year after year.

SIMPLE OPERATION. "Push-Pull" Power Units with low HP motor are located along the feeder line as needed. Have hardened steel gears for trouble-free life. Microprocessor control lets you program feeding time to the second.

EASY AUGER CONNECTOR. Allows fast and simple installation, also quick and easy repair of auger if ever necessary. Auger and trough are both warranted 5 full years. Chain feeders are not.

Egg producers have been putting up with obsolete chain feeders far too long. Now there's a better way: Chore-Time's proven ULTRAFLO Cage Feeding System. Since introduction, more than 80% of the top 54 egg producers* have gone to ULTRAFLO. A lot of smaller ones have too.

They've all looked at the advantages and chosen ULTRAFLO. That's because it makes them more profitable. Total egg production and egg size—these are the best benefits of our complete feeding system.

Why not check out the facts for yourself? Contact us now—or ask any producer who owns ULTRAFLO.

Because the only negative comments about our feeding system come from our competition—not from our customers.

Spinners Peggy Schott, Pat Thalhauser, and Trudy Dissinger transform raw wool into fine yarn.

From Sheep To Shawl — Sheared Wool Becomes Wearable Fashion

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Nimble fingers spun fine wool, the shuttle of the weaving loom sped between the warp, and the shearer hand clipped the wool from a docile sheep as the Lebanon Valley Wooleys Club demonstrated the art of weaving a fine quality shawl.

The demonstration at the Lebanon Fair on Tuesday night showed fairgoers how wool shorn from a sheep can quickly be transformed into a wearable garment.

Quickly — that is — if you have the expertise of spinners Peggy Schott of Lebanon, Pat Thalhauser of Lebanon, Trudy Dissinger of Schaefferstown, weaver Barbara Hehnley of Myerstown, and shearer Joe Schott of Lebanon.

The club meets regularly and has participated in sheep to shawl demonstrations for many years.

Joe Schott of Lebanon demonstrates hand shearing the wool from sheep. In a timed competition, Joe would use electric shears.

Lebanon County Fair Queen Kristy Wright is shown with her parents Larry and Gail and sisters, Jenny, 9, and Janie, 14. The family breeds and raises Golden Retrievers. Kristy is a member of the 4-H Puppy Pals Dog Club for seven years. She trains the dogs and takes them to AKC and 4-H shows. A senior at Northern Lebanon High School, Kristy is active in marching and concert band, choir, school musicals, varsity cheerleading, and tumbling club. She is also a grand diamond WCTU medalist for a speech contest.

How Do Winebarks Spell Hog Championship? Try D, As In 'Danielle'

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — Janine Winebark took along the two "D's" to the fair — her two hogs, a light heavyweight Hampshire/Berkshire gilt named Danielle and a purebred Duroc barrow named David — hoping for the best.

"Best" was spelled with a "D," indeed, as 255-pound Danielle won supreme market hog on Monday at the Lebanon Fair Swine Show.

(And David did well too, earning first place in his class in the breed show.)

Janine, 10, daughter of Ken and Janet Winebark, Myerstown, obtained the gilt out of a boar from the herd of Gary Winebark, Rossiter, Indiana County. Another offspring of the same boar won champion and reserve at the Jefferson County Fair several weeks ago, according to Ken Winebark.

Janine, who will attend fifth grade at Jackson Elementary in the fall, won champion Duroc last year at the fair. She also won supreme champion junior market hog at the state Farm Show in January.

Janine's father said that the only connection with the Farm Show champion is that they're both black and white.

This is Janine's second year of showing and first Lebanon Fair champion.

Janet Winebark said that her kids decided to name the hogs with names beginning with "D" in honor of David Holloway, from which the family obtained David, the Duroc. "The kids like doing dumb things like that," said Janet.

For the Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE) competition, of which the Winebarks plan to show in October, the hogs are named in honor of Biblical Easter characters, such as "Bartholomew" and "Peter," said Janet. (Though it was hard for Janine to recall "Bartholomew," according to Janet.)

The Winebarks will be showing hogs at the Southeast Market Hog Derby at the fairgrounds this month and at the Maryland State Fair in September, in addition to KILE and the state Farm Show.

Judge Henry Holloway, a Yorkshire breeder from Darlington, Md., said the competition contained the "highest quality set of hogs I've seen at a show" and expressed his difficulty in deciding between Janine's belted black and white hog and the red Duroc shown by Jenny Arnold. In the end, while the Duroc was the finest "long-bodied, sound, correct, and lean hog" in his view, the black hog showed the "heavy muscling and extreme leanness" required by the industry.

Kevin Sellers, 16, son of Ken and Karen Sellers, Lebanon, showed the reserve market hog, Hank, at the swine show on Monday. Kevin, a sophomore at Annville Cleona, a Little Dutchmen FFA member, purchased Hank at a sale by Leon Arnold in April. Kevin said that he simply picked the hog from the sale, indicating he didn't know for sure if the hog could be competitive. This is his only show this year, the second year he has shown at the fair.

Jenny Arnold won the championship of the Duroc class. Yorkshire champion was Jamie Risser, and Trisha Berger took the Landrace show. Hampshire show champion was Billie Jo Atkins.

Showmanship champions at the Lebanon Fair included FFA champion John Risser and reserve, Jamie Risser. 4-H champion was Jamie Risser, and reserve was Justin Lehman.

In all, there were a total of 105 hogs shown by 55 exhibitors. Following is a list of show placings.

Goschenhoppen Folk Festival

EAST GREENVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — One potato, two potato, three potato, four. A lot of potatoes? Not if you were a good Pennsylvania Dutchman in the 19th century. He just might have eaten four potatoes in a day; served four different ways. He may have eaten them fried, in soup, in bread or in pot pie.

The role of the potato is an important stapel in the life of the Dutchman will be the focus of the 28th Annual Goschenhoppen Folk Festival. The Festival will be held Friday, August 12th, from noon to 8 p.m., and Saturday, the 13th, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. It is located in the village of East Greenville, northern Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, on Third Street, just off Route 29. Look for the banner above the street. With a donation of $6 for adults (children 12 and under are free) and a donation for parking, everyone can gain entrance to the amply shaded New Goschenhoppen Church picnic grove.

At the Festival, many different crafts and home skills are featured, representing and distinguishing 18th and 19th century practice. You may sample many foods originating as a potato, such as potato soup, potato filling, fried potatoes, potatoes with yellow stockings or pot pie. You can even try potato candy that has potatoes in it, although it is hard to tell. The tradesmen will be hard at work, as well, relating their contributions to the potato culture. They may be building storage bins for potatoes, making barrels to store potatoes in down in the root cellar or preparing to plant potatoes in the field.

Many other activities go on as well. See a hog or steer butchered. Watch a typical simple wedding from early Victorian times. Talk with one of our numerous itinerant "characters." Listen to a band concert, either out under a tree or in under the bandshell. Watch as children play with corn cobs and feathers or take a hay ride. Try your hand at stitching a quilt or maybe learn how to do counted cross-stitch embroidery. Or even take in a scholarly lecture on any of a wide range of subjects, given by respected local authorities.

At the Goschenhoppen Folk Festival you can learn how to knit stockings like those worn in the 18th century. The Festival will be held August 12, from noon to 8 p.m. and August 13, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. It is located in the village of East Greenville, northern Montgomery County on Third Street, just off Route 29. Adult admission is $6, children under 12 free.

Beaver-Lawrence Dairy Princess Chosen

Farin Rae Weltner, 17-year-old daughter of Albert and Crole Weltner of Green Valley Dairy, Georgetown, was crowned Beaver-Lawrence Dairy Princess on June 25. Jennifer Brown, 16, of Volant, is the alternate dairy princess. Four contestants vied for the title at the pageant held at Westfield Grange in Mt. Jackson. Farin is the fourth generation on the family farm. She is a 4-H member for nine years. She plans to attend Ohio State Agricultural Technical Institute in 1995 to major in dairy production and management.

New York, New Jersey Train Royalty For Promotional Duties

MORRISVILLE, N.Y. — Informative workshops, new friends, and fun were all a part of the three-day Dairy Promotion Training Seminar held July 6-8 at Morrisville College. The seminar prepared 170 participants from throughout New York State and New Jersey for an upcoming year of representing the dairy industry and promoting its products.

Effective communication skills are a valuable tool for dairy promoters as they interact with the public. In order to sharpen these skills, dairy princesses, maids, and ambassadors attended workshops on effective speaking, radio public service announcements, news articles, and media training.

Brenda Beltram, ADADC communications director, conducted the workshop dealing with controversial media questions.

"It's important for county promoters to be able to respond to tough questions from the media, consumers, and especially animal rights activists," she says. "By reviewing questions and professionalizing responses on video, the workshop provided the training necessary to handle on-the-spot questions with confidence."

Information presented by nutrition experts serve to further educate the dairy representatives with information they will pass on to consumers. Supermarket promotion demonstrations train promoters to execute professional dairy sampling programs and answer consumer questions in retail stores.

School presentations, speeches, and the "do's" and "don't's" of fashion were demonstrated by state and former dairy princesses to provide tips to the newer promoters on how to present themselves effectively to a variety of audiences.

While meeting new friends from all over the Empire State and New Jersey, the seminar participants gained the skills and the enthusiasm to spread the word about dairy products in their home counties.

Stephanie Meyers, ADADC producer communications specialist and coordinator of the seminar, is impressed with the enthusiasm reflected by the new spokesmen for the dairy industry. "the dairy industry has a great group of promoters this year. Their enthusiasm, coupled with the skills they gained at seminar, is sure to sell lots of dairy products," she says.

Barbara Hehnly weavers the wool into a lovely pattern during the four-hour demonstration.

"We are growing gray together," Hehnly said of the team's camaraderie in sharing their love for fine wool.

In 1976, Hehnly became interested in weaving through occupational therapy nursing. About 10 years ago, Hehnly decided to use her weaving expertise in sheep to shawl competition.

She thinks the most important part of these competitions is to produce a fine-quality product — not merely complete a project in record-breaking time. In many competitions, she believes speed wins over skill, a fact she laments shows in the final quality of a project.

Hehnley does not sacrifice quality in her efforts to complete a project in three to four hours. And, she proudly proclaims that every project is one of a kind. She never repeats the same pattern with the same colors of wool.

For the Lebanon fair, Hehnley selected a plain weave with "huch" spots.

Hehnly prefers the wool of Border Leister sheep, for the length of the staple, its ease in spinning, and the soft wool shawl it produces.

When it was completed, the shawl was presented, as dictated by tradition, to Lebanon Fair Queen Kristy Wright of Jonestown.

Foundation Changes Name

AIRVILLE (York Co.) — The Pennsylvania Foundation for Better Living, sponsor of the state's Ag in the Classroom program, is sporting a new name to better reflect its commitment to agricultural awareness.

The Foundation's board of directors in June voted to change the organization's name to the Agriculture Awareness Foundation of Pennsylvania. The new name was officially announced on July 21 during the Foundation's annual teacher's workshop at Penn State University.

According to Pat Sueck, executive director, the Foundation's mission and purpose remain the same." "We will continue to promote agriculture and its impact on the state's economy," she said. "Agriculture is Pennsylvania's number one industry."

For more information about the Agriculture Awareness Foundation of Pennsylvania, contact Pat Sueck, Executive Director, R.D. 1, Box 43, Airville, PA 17302; the phone number is (717) 862-3486.

Discover AMERICA'S Alfalfa AGGRESSOR

The extra cut variety

Aggressor withstands aggressive cutting, which is exactly what alfalfa growers pushing their varieties to the limit require for more yield and quality. A research study started in 1989 measured variety persistence under aggressive cutting schedules. Each variety was cut five times per year in this North Central study.

Aggressor came out on top!

AGGRESSOR	60%
FUNKS 2841	48%
PIONEER BRAND 5364	35%
VERNAL	35%
FORTRESS 15%

Frequent cutting requires high disease and insect resistance — Aggressor delivers:

- HR Phytophthora
- HR Bacterial wilt
- R Verticillium wilt
- HR Fusarium wilt
- HR Anthracnose
- R Leafhopper yellowing

Plus — Aggressor fights Aphanomcyes — found where Phytophthora root rot and Pythium 'damping off' occur.

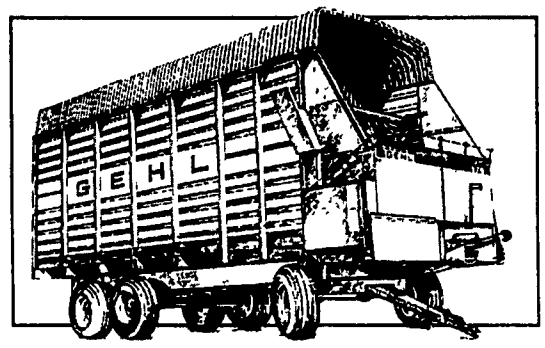
GEHL

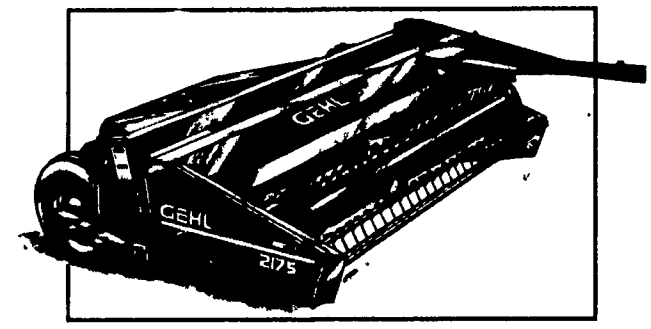
NORTH AMERICA'S #1 FORAGE BOX



Gehl makes the best selling forage box in North America Here's why

- Five sizes deliver the capacity to match your forage harvesting operation
- 10-Year Warranty against rust through on sides, endgate, stakes and roof
- Wide 23-1/2 inch cross conveyor extends nine inches beyond the box side, for easy positioning to the blower
- Even Feed third beater has extended tines to break up clumps for smooth crop delivery to the cross conveyor
- Four-speed drive system features #50 roller chain for added durability
- Heavy-duty Gehl running gears match the capacity of Gehl forage boxes

COMMON SENSE MOWER CONDITIONERS



Gehl mower conditioners are "common sense" machines because they're packed with sensible features.

- Full-width intermeshing conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs deliver thorough, uniform conditioning.
- Simple sickle drive with pivot-arm design provides more cutting force.
- Fewer moving parts than competitive models for worry-free performance.
- Three-point flotation support protects the cutterbar from rocks and uneven terrain.
- 9'3"cutting width.

Heidi Hauser Crowned

Heidi Hauser reigns as the new Maryland State Dairy Princess. Heidi lives on her family's 99-acre dairy and helps with the herd of Holstein, Jersey, Guernsey, and Ayreshire cows.

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

Frederick, Md. -- They may have started out their day in the barn milking cows or feeding calves, but by the time evening came, the group of young ladies had donned their prettiest gowns and were anxiously awaiting the commencement of festivities at the 33rd Maryland Dairy Princess Coronation. The ceremony was held recently at the Holiday Inn in Frederick.

Allegany-Garrett Area Dairy Princess Heidi Hauser was crowned as the new Maryland Dairy Princess for 1994-95; she accepted the sparkling tiara from outgoing Princess Dawn Downey. Shannon Krista Harrison, Dairy Princess from Frederick County, will serve as her Alternate.

Heidi, daughter of Tom and Alice Hauser of Oakland, helps on her family's 99-acre dairy with milking, raising calves, and keeping breeding records. The milking herd includes Holstein, Jersey, Guernsey, and Ayrshire cows. She has also been quiet successful at raising veal calves. Heidi's sponsor in the pageant was Mrs. Nancy Savage.

Heidi will be a senior at Southern Garrett High School this fall, and looks forward to a career in dairy or equine medicine in the future. She is active in FFA, where she has held the offices of vice-president, secretary, and reporter, and has attended the State and National Conventions, and 4-H where she has held all offices. Currently, she is vice-president of both her FFA chapter and 4-H club. Active in dairy, horsemanship, fashion revue, and public speaking, Heidi's other accolades include dairy judging at the State fair, and participation in a crop judging team that won first place at the State level recently. Heidi also finds time to teach bible school and participate in the youth group choir at her church.

Shannon Harrison, first runner up in the pageant, is a sophomore at Frederick Community College, majoring in agriculture business. While in high school Shannon was active in FFA with dairy judging and agriculture day. She is a 10-year 4-H member, and was on the second place national dairy judging team last year. She is president of the Maryland Junior Holstein Club, and has served as a Farm Queen and Alternate Dairy Princess. Shannon, the daughter of Paul and Susan Harrison, assists in her family's 215-acre registered Holstein operation with calf and heifer care, bedding, and feeding responsibilities. She was sponsored by Mrs. Mary Louise Wilcom.

Outgoing State Princess Dawn Downey thanked her supporters for the wonderful year she had enjoyed. It was noted that she had been a tireless and enthusiastic representative, and had done an outstanding job during her reign.

Highlights of the evening included the contestants' "Creative Presentations": animated skits representative of the outreach programs the girls present to children's groups to promote milk, and a question and answer period.

Master of Ceremonies Jeff Myers posed the question, "If you were a featured speaker at a senior citizens group, how would you represent the dairy industry to the audience?"

It was clear from the answers that each and every one of the contestants possesses the charm and aptitude necessary to effectively represent the dairy industry to the general public.

Those given the difficult task of selecting this year's royal court included Mrs. Mim Kauffman, of Elizabethtown, PA; Ms. Janice Keene, of Wayne, NJ; and Mr. Jerry Myers, of York, PA.

You Ask ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? You Answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for the answers.

"You Ask — You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask — You Answer, Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — Romaine B. Answell, Sumerdale, would like to know who manufactured the Webalco electric skillet.

QUESTION — Charles E. Wright, Duncannon, purchased a 13-inch parlor stove made of iron with the following marks: On the front spark inside is written Gray Iron Casting Co., Mt. Joy, Pa. On the inside top door 75-11; on the poker 7517. The doors, drafts, etc., would look a full-sized stove. Is this company still in business?

QUESTION — A reader would like to know if someone has a grain scale that can be bought to weigh saffron or gunpowder.

QUESTION — Mary Sasscer, Upper Mailboro, Md., would like to know where to purchase a used treadle scroll saw for use in demonstrating at craft shows.

QUESTION — D. Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y., would like to know where to find kegs for Saint Bernards to wear around their necks. He needs real kegs, which live Saint Bernards wear, not miniature knickknacks.

QUESTION — D. Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y., would like to buy an Aladdin Lamp that is either electric or oil or kerosene, but not the Aladdin mantel type. He wants the shape, the kind rubbed for a wish in the story of the Magic Lamp.

QUESTION — D.Newsom, R. 2, Box 530 Cooperstown, N.Y. 13326-9606, would like to purchase soft fake fur or plush large pieces in 6 to 8 yard lengths. Can be new or used. Send source and price.

QUESTION — Nancy Cummings, Bolivar, would like to know why celery plants go to seed. She has grown celery all her life and the last two years, some of the plants go to seed instead of developing a nice stalk.

QUESTION — M. Carver writes: What a surprise in our garden when we discovered the local nursery supplied us with cabbage plants instead of brussels sprouts. We would like to know how they are handled while fresh.

JOHN DEERE POWR-MIZER™ FORAGE HARVESTER

Consistent cut, consistent savings

A John Deere Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester provides more than a uniform length-of-cut, it delivers savings that are every bit as regular. So you harvest more of your crop efficiently – without squandering horsepower.

The exclusive Dura-Drum™ cutterhead is fully-enclosed. It can't fill with silage like cage-type designs. That means cut crop doesn't get recut, so all of your horsepower remains productive.

You'll also like the way the short, segmented knives save you money and time. When damaged, a John Deere replacement knife costs $13.03* compared to $77.32* for a full-width knife found on a competitor's cutterhead. Here's another bonus – it's easy to replace a John Deere knife. Simply loosen three bolts, slide out the old knife, slide in the replacement, then retighten the bolts.

To start saving power, money, and quality forage, check out a Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester at your John Deere dealer today.

Maryland Dairy Princess

Additional special presentations went to Tanya Stambaugh, Carroll County Dairy Princess, for "Best Skit," and to outgoing State Dairy Princess Dawn Downey for "Scrapbook." Heidi Hauser was also awarded "Miss Congeniality," the "Frances Duvall Memorial Award," and the "Francis Kepler Memorial Scholarship," representing the sum of $200 to be used for advanced education.

Other contestants included Julie Lynn Myers, Eastern Shore Dairy Princess, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Kenneth and Elma Myers of Worton; and South Central Dairy Princess Cheryl Leishear, daughter of Donald and Mary Leisher of Damascus. Cheryl was unavailable for the coronation because she was in Nicaragua doing mission work.

A new program this year was the Dairy Maid pageant. These 13 to 16-year-olds will serve as Ladies in Waiting for the Princess, and will hopefully be a group from which future royalty emerges. 1994-95 Dairy Maids will be Nicole Patrick, of Howard County; Cindy Miller of Harford County; Amy Iager of Howard County; Adriane Eader of Howard County; Amanda Holland of Carroll County; Rebecca Patrick of Howard County; Jessica Fritz of Carroll County, Brandy Bussard of Frederick County; Jami Savage of Frederick County; Julie Delp of Harford County; Crystal Stambaugh of Carroll County; Emily Burch of Harford County; Kelly Myers of Carroll County; Erin Feullet of Montgomery County; Holly Burall of Carroll County; and Karina Guyton of Frederick County.

Intermediate past area princesses were honored with $100 awards for the time they had invested as ambassadors for the dairy industry. They included Mary Ellen Seraydian from Carroll County, Christy Geary from Montgomery County, who served as the South Central Princess, and Frederick County's Abigail Sowers.

Committee members of the Maryland Dairy Princess Association, Inc. are chairperson Mrs. Susan G. Summers; vice-chairperson and pageant chairperson; Mrs. Brenda Nowell; secretary, Mrs. Cindy Warner; treasurers Mrs. Sylvia Keller and Jeff Myers; assistant secretary Mrs. Gail Krus; Pageant vice-chairperson Mrs. Louise Wilcom, as well as Mrs. Linda Holland, Mrs. Carolyn Downey, Mrs. Nancy Savage, Mrs. Peggy Johnson, Mrs. Sheila Miller, Mr. Robbie Shaw, Mrs. Bonnie Remsburg, Mrs. Betty Cole, Ms. Cindy Starner, Mr. Jessie Burall, Mrs. Cindee Savage, Mrs. Karen Arrington, Mrs. Debbie Hoff, and Ms. Rebecca Long.

These 13- to 16-year-old dairy maids will assist the dairy princess in promotional duties.

QUESTION — Betsy Dehn, Spencerville, Md., writes that when she was young, there was a story that went something like this: It was nearing the Christmas holidays and the apple tree was feeling sad and forlorn. His branches were bare and plain whereas the pine tree was decorated with tinsel and glitter. The apple tree complained to God and God said to the apple tree that he would give the tree a special gift. Betsy doesn't remember the remainder of the story, but God ended up putting a Christmas star in the heart of each apple. If you cut an apple crosswise, you will find a perfectly shaped five-point star in the heart of the apple. Betsy would like to have the complete story of how the star came to appear in the center of the apple.

QUESTION — Dennis Williams, Liverpool, wants to know how to remove kerosene soot from interior painted drywall.

QUESTION — Sarah Clark, Breezewood, would like to know if there is a way to break a dog of being afraid of thunder and lightning. The Clarks have tried letting the dog outside during the storm, but it hasn't helped.

ANSWER — Walter Hertzog, King of Prussia, asked how to get rid of bamboo in his yard that is running shoots everywhere. He also asks where to purchase clump bamboo that doesn't run. Thanks to Laura Wood, York, who answered this question. She writes that it sounds as if Hertzog has monopodial bamboo, which can be controlled by constructing an underground cement wall surrounding the area in which he wants it. The wall should be ¾ -inch wide and 18-inches deep with wire screen inside the form to keep it from cracking later.

He may also contact a landscape supplier and sell the plants to them. They would also know where to get the sympodial type of bamboo that forms clumps. Laura has a 1980 Organic Gardening book that has an informative article about bamboo. Hertzog may call her for more information at (717) 764-6871 or write to 3755 Bear Rd., York, PA 17402. Please allow the phone to ring at least 10 times, for she is usually working in her garden.

ANSWER — A subscriber from Lehighton wanted to know where to purchase plastic lids for soft plastic quart containers for freezing produce. Thanks to Ruth Nester, Kempton, who writes that lids may be purchased at Agway stores and at Weaver's Hardware in Fleetwood.

Sires Represented: Elton, Cleitus, Belltone, Berlin, Blackstar, Dazzler and Leadman

Sales Manager's Note: Due to personal health reasons, the Monro's have decided to disperse this outstanding group of cattle. This is a really good, young herd with many 1st and 2nd calf hfrs selling. In going through the records, two things become obvious - the calving intervals are very consistent time after time after time and if they didn't produce - they didn't stay! This will be one of the better herds of cattle to sell this year!!

COMMON CAUSES OF GASTROINTESTINAL DISORDERS OF POULTRY

PATTY DUNN DVM
Animal Diagnostic Lab
Dept. of Vet. Sci., PSU

Proper function of the gastrointestinal (GI) tract is one of the most critical factors in poultry health and productivity.

Optimal growth rate, feed conversion, egg production and livability are all dependent on a normal alimentary tract, from mouth to vent.

The cost of feed represents the highest of all costs involved in producing chickens and turkeys. Therefore, maintaining the integrity and function of the organ system responsible for digesting and absorbing the nutrients in the feed so that the bird can optimally benefit from those nutrients becomes a very important economic consideration.

Improperly functioning GI tracts "waste" the valuable nutrients in the feed. The nutrients thus become a liability in the manure rather than a benefit in bird or egg tissue.

Many factors or events can contribute to abnormal or diseased GI tracts.

Most commonly, infectious disease agents and nutritional factors, including dietary toxins, are thought to be involved; but degenerative conditions, metabolic abnormalities and traumatic factors can not be overlooked.

In fact, many GI diseases are "multifactorial" in nature, meaning that a combination of insults are involved in causing a particular problem. A closer look at a few of the more common and well-documented infectious agents (parasites, bacteria and viruses) and nutritional toxins known to cause gastroenteropathy is warranted.

PARASITES

•Coccidia are microscopic protozoal parasites that can cause major problems in chickens, turkeys, and game birds. They can be found in the manure, litter, and soil wherever poultry are raised.

Poultry veterinarians and diagnosticians consider coccidia to be the single most common of all the known causes of enteritis in domestic poultry. Coccidia parasitize the lining of various parts of the intestinal tract and cause inflammation and sometimes bleeding in the affected areas.

The resulting clinical disease caused by a moderate or severe infestation is called coccidiosis. Affected birds may appear ill and unthrifty and pass mucoid or bloody feces. Mortality can result from severe infections of the moderate and highly pathogenic types of coccidia.

Even low level infections can cause pale birds with sub-optimal growth and/or feed conversion.

Healthy birds raised on litter should be able to mount an immune response to coccidia and live in balance with the parasite after the initial phases of infection.

A constant low level reinfection with the parasite is necessary to maintain this immunity. Also the immunity is specific to the particular species of coccidia infecting the bird. In the chicken, for example, exposure to all eight types of chicken coccidia is necessary to protect against all possible coccidia-induced disease.

Birds housed on wire will not develop or maintain immunity to coccidia and thus are susceptible to infection if the parasite is introduced or the birds are moved to the floor where they can ingest litter and feces.

Birds with compromised immune systems (Infectious bursal disease, Marek's disease, management stresses, etc.) may be unable to fight off coccidial infections. These birds experience repeated bouts of coccidiosis that respond to therapy but quickly relapse when treatment is removed.

A variety of anticoccidial drugs are available for use in prevention and treatment of coccidiosis. Management aimed at keeping litter clean and dry is a very important part of control. Vaccines containing multiple coccidia species are used successfully in longer lived birds.

•Metazoan Parasites or "worms" can infect the GI tracts of poultry and cause enteritis or blockages. Chickens reared in intensive management situations rarely have significant problems with roundworms or tapeworms.

Turkeys, however, are experiencing increasing problems associated with roundworm infestation. The roundworm larvae can cause extensive inflammation of the intestine. In addition, there is increasing evidence that some larvae migrate to the liver where they cause tiny liver spots which are noted at processing time, resulting in liver condemnations.

BACTERIA

One of the most dramatic examples of bacteria-induced enteritis is "necrotic enteritis" caused by an overgrowth of a large, anaerobic bacteria known as Clostridium Perfringens (CP).

This organism produces a potent toxin that causes extensive destruction of the intestinal lining resulting in rapid death of the bird. This condition is most common in broiler chickens and relatively uncommon in other types of poultry. CP can be found in low numbers in normal birds, but dietary factors and/or previous parasitism by coccidia or other intestinal injury can cause changes that enhance the growth of CP and allow it to damage the intestine.

Antibiotics, particularly bacitracin, are used to treat necrotic enteritis.

The association between these organisms and intestinal pathology is much less clear in poultry. Many types of E. Coli are found in normal chicken and turkey intestines.

Poultry, like mammals, can be non-symptomatic carriers of Salmonella as well. These bacteria (E. Coli and Salmonella) tend to cause illness only when the birds are very young or when the intestinal tract is damaged by some other cause, thereby allowing passage of the bacteria into the blood stream.

An overwhelming bacterial septicemia can result in sickness and death.

Other bacteria such as spirochetes and "long segmented filamentous bacteria" have been associated with cecal and small intestinal pathology, respectively. However, clear-cut cause and effect relationships have not been established.

VIRUSES

Hemorrhagic enteritis (HE) is a well-documented disease of turkeys directly caused by adenovirus infection. In the classic form of HE, blood is found in the upper part of the small intestine due to destruction of the tips of the villi, the microscopic, finger-like projections of the intestinal lining.

Most HE infections today are subclinical, with very little, if any, bleeding. Death attributable directly to the HE virus infection is rare in this sub-clinical form.

However, inflammatory changes are present in the intestine, and the infection results in a transient immunosuppression that may allow an increased incidence of E. Coli septicemia.

Most breeder and commercial turkeys are vaccinated with an attenuated live form of HE virus to prevent field infection.

A potentially fatal condition of domestic and wild ducks called duck virus enteritis (DVE) has been diagnosed in our state several times in recent years.

This disease is caused by a herpes virus that induces necrosis and hemorrhage in the large intestinal and cecal lining, as well as in lymphoid tissue.

Infected, recovered birds may become carriers of the virus and shed virus unpredictably during periods of stress to other susceptible ducks. A vaccine has been used in commercial Pekin ducks on a limited basis. Vaccination is not commonly practiced as eradication is the preferred method of control.

VIRUSES SUSPECTED

Many different viruses have been suspected of playing a role in the development of enteritis, so-called "malabsorption syndrome," "pale bird syndrome," and "runting/stunting syndrome."

Reoviruses, rotaviruses, coronaviruses, parvoviruses, entero-like viruses, calicivirus, and adenoviruses (to name a few) have all been detected in intestinal tracts or feces from birds exhibiting clinical symptoms of maldigestion or malassimilation.

Unfortunately, there are few, if any, studies in which purified virus preparations have reproduced the clinical syndrome as it is seen in the field.

SYNDROMES

Again, it is likely that multiple factors, of which virus is only one, are necessary to cause these disease "syndromes."

Much research effort has been directed in this area.

high early mortality in Pennsylvania guinea fowl.

Control of these viral enteritis-suspect conditions is at present limited to attempts to drastically reduce the numbers of viral particles in the birds' environment.

Stringent cleaning and disinfection procedures, increasing "down time" of facilities between flocks, single-age flocks, and in some cases, raising birds on wire have all been tried to break the cycle of infection.

Feed factors implicated in altered structure or function of the GI tract are many.

In this condition, proventriculi are enlarged, flaccid, and tend to rupture easily during processing.

Erosions on the gizzard lining are also present. Other factors such as infectious agents (viruses) and genetic predisposition are also being researched as components of this syndrome.

Compounds known as biogenic amines can be found in poultry feed ingredients such as fishmeal, soybean meal, corn screenings, fat and vitamin mixes.

Experimentally, these histamine and histamine-like compounds can cause damage to the gizzard lining with erosions and hemorrhage, as well as proventricular enlargement.

Mycotoxins such as trichothecenes and cyclopiazonic acid can cause similar changes.

Other mycotoxins can directly or indirectly cause symptoms of malnutrition. Aflatoxin has many systemic effects on the chicken that result in decreased ability to digest nutrients and increased elimination of nutrients.

For example, the synthesis of several pancreatic digestive enzymes are repressed by aflatoxin leading to a dramatically decreased digestive ability compared to that of a normal bird.

Fewer vitamins, proteins and fats are available to the bird, and decreased growth, poor skin pigmentation, and suboptimal feathering result.

In this limited space we have described but a few of the possible causes of GI dysfunction in poultry.

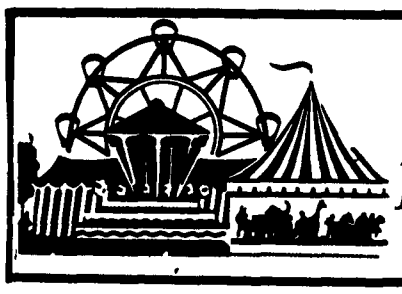
On a practical level, any and all practices aimed at using high quality feed ingredients and preserving that quality through processing and storage of feed will impact on what finally reaches the bird's GI tract.

Consistency of the feeding program, especially as it relates to avoiding abrupt changes of feed or feeding schedules, is also important.

Clinical signs of suspected GI disease in the flock should be investigated promptly.

Many GI tract symptoms are non-specific and confusing. A thorough diagnostic laboratory work-up of affected birds is essential to find the cause or causes of the problem. A longer term investigation of multiple flocks may be necessary to sort out confounding factors that may be present in the field.

Remember, an accurate diagnosis is essential to take the guesswork out of pro-active control of GI problems in future flocks.



Fair Happenings

Venango County Fair

The 1994 Venango County Fair Premium List and Program is available at the agricultural extension office located on the Fairgrounds near Franklin.

Requirements, deadlines, and fees for entry in all departments including animals, agriculture, domestics, and fine arts are listed. Whether you have the county's grand champion steer, largest tomato, or blue-ribbon apple pie, the booklet contains information and entry forms for the August 15-20 fair.

Once again the fair will hold the Greatest Cocoa Cookie Contest for youth and a Greatest Cocoa Cake Contest for adults, both sponsored by Hershey Food Corporation and the McKinley Funerla Home in Clintonville. A $35 first prize will be given to the winner in the cake contest and the cake will be eligible to be entered in the 1995 Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg in January. The winner of this contest will receive a weekend for four at the Hershey Hotel in Hershey.

Back for the sixth year will be the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie Contest. The winner of the Blue Ribbon Apple Pie will receive $25 and will be eligible to also enter the pie at the 1995 Farm Show.

These are just two of the more than 1,300 categories which you can consider entering at the 1994 Fair. This number does not include the many entries which only 4-H'ers can enter.

By getting a premium list early, you can plan your entries and preregister so that you do not have to wait in line on the opening day of the fair. This not only saves you time but it also gives the fair volunteers an idea of space requirements for specific categories.

To receive your copy of the fair premium list, call (814) 437-7607 or write to Venango County Fair, Box 468, Franklin, PA 16373.

What's New At The Fair

New entertainment and facilities highlight the 1994 Schuylkill County Fair on August 7-13.

Nonstop entertainment from 6 to 10 p.m. leads the new activities list. Plus, Yiengst Magic Circus, livestock shows, and kids activities fill every moment of the fair.

Unlimited rides for one price highlight Kid's Day on Tuesday, from 1-6 p.m. During Senior Citizens Day on Wednesday, all rides are 50 cents from noon to 4 p.m. Thursday, Merchants Day coupons are redeemable for unlimited rides from noon to 4 p.m.

A new livestock building will house 4-H and FFA lambs, goats, hogs, and beef cattle. An extension on the milk house will allow visitors to develop a greater understanding of a dairy farm operation.

A new admission system, including a fence surrounding the fairgrounds main complex, will help alleviate traffic delays. A $2 per person fee (6 years and under) will be charged. A $6 per person week long pass is also available through Sunday, August 7 during preview day. A new exhibit registration procedure and phone system will also help the fair run more smoothly.

Admission includes 700+ livestock displays, arts and crafts, home and dairy, fruits and vegetables and other exhibits, all stage and Yiengst Magic Circus entertainment, commercial displays, kids games, and more. For only $24, a family of four (7 years and older) can enjoy the fair all week, plus no parking fees will be charged.

In addition on Sunday, August 7, Preview Day, admission is free. Activities include a goat show at 9 a.m., a horse show at 10 a.m., entertainment by "Variety" at 2 and 4 p.m., Pam Rankin, Gospel, at 3 and 5 p.m., outhouse race at 4 p.m. and a vesper service conducted by Bishop Richard Kohl of the E.C. Church at 7 p.m. All exhibit buildings will be closed to the public on Sunday for judging and set up.

White Tractor Sets Nebraska Test Record

ATLANTA, Ga. — Breaking the previous record, a power-front-axle equipped White Model 6125 tractor, rated at 125 PTO horsepower, recently set a new standard by pulling close to 106 percent of its own weight at the Nebraska Tractor Test Laboratory.

As tested, the Model 6125, which is powered by a 5.9 liter (359 cubic inch), 6-cylinder Cummins liquid-cooled diesel engine, had a weight of 18,824 pounds. However, during the drawbar pull test, the tractor recorded a maximum pull of 19,996 pounds, for 105.69 percent of its own weight — a record for all tractors ever tested at the facility.

In addition to the optional power-front-axle, the tested model was equipped with dual rear wheels and 18.4R-42 radial tires. No other ballast was added.

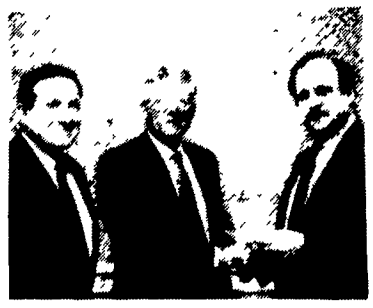
"Despite the fact the tests take place on a closed-circuit concrete track, the record says a great deal for the weight distribution and balance built into the White Workhorse tractors," said Harlan Schwertfeger, sales engineer for White tractors. "Every 6100 Series model features a rugged 1,400-pound cast-iron mainframe that has become a trademark of White Workhorse tractors. In addition to the outstanding weight distribution it provides the tractor, the heavy mainframe also protects the entire drivetrain against torsional stress for a longer service life."

Farm Credit Supports Holstein Convention

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — The four Farm Credit Associations of Pennsylvania which include Keystone Farm Credit, ACA; Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA; PennWest Farm Credit, ACA and York Farm Credit, ACA, and the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore are contributing $10,000 to assist the Pennsylvania Holstein Association host the 1995 National Holstein Convention in Pittsburgh, June 25 to 28, 1995.

The first of two contributions was presented to Thomas Kelly, National Holstein Convention treasurer, by William J. Hoffman, president of PennWest Farm Credit, ACA. Also present at the presentation was Holstein breeder and PennWest Farm Credit board member Samuel Minor.

According to Kelly, the Holstein Association will use the funds for the buyers' buffet prior to the National Holstein Convention sale, the highlight of the convention.



Sam Minor looks on as Tom Kelly, treasurer of the 1995 National Holstein Convention, receives support for the national meeting from Bill Hoffman, president, PennWest Farm Credit.

Farms Are Best-Kept Economic Secret

ONTARIO COUNTY, N.Y. — To most New Yorkers, a dairy farm is something you pass while out for a Sunday drive or on vacation. The cows may look nice or the barns and meadows picturesque, but most non-farmers' thoughts about farming end there.

People are flabbergasted to learn that New York dairy farmers produce more than a billion gallons of milk annually and that New York is the third leading dairy state in the nation.

From an economic standpoint, New York milk producers pump about $1.5 billion into the state's economy.

To bring the economic impact of New York's dairy industry closer to home, let's look at how a single dairy farm touches a local community.

New York Farm Bureau Vice President John Lincoln owns and operates a 400-acre dairy farm just a short drive from Rochester. Along with his wife, Anne, and their daughter, Julie, John milks 90 cows and raises 85 head of younger animals. He also gets some family help from his son, Mike, when he's home from college.

In 1993, the Lincoln's farm expenses topped $190,000. The money that the Lincolns spent went to a variety of local businesses, including those that sell: livestock feed, crop protectants, fertilizer, diesel fuel, gasoline, lubricating oil, insurance, equipment repairs, equipment parts, seeds, electricity, telephone calls, veterinary medical services, artificial breeding services, and milking supplies. They also paid financial institutions for money borrowed, as well as paying both a full and part-time employee. On top of all these things, the Lincolns did their part to fund the local government and elementary/secondary educational system by paying thousands of dollars in property and school taxes.

Think about all the local businesses that are helped and the jobs that are created because of the dollars spent by the Lincolns' dairy farm. And how about the jobs created by those who handle the milk — the truckers, lab technicians, bottlers, and retail store clerks.

Like their counterparts across the country, the Lincolns take great pride in the top care they give their livestock and their exceptional stewardship of the land. However, their biggest source of satisfaction comes from the high quality milk they produce that feeds so many people, and the many thousands of dollars they put into the local economy.

June is Dairy Month — the time to salute the state's 9,000 dairy farm families.

Bush Hog's Cutters Built For Heavy Operations

SELMA, Ala. — Experience cutting thousands of acres across North America and design innovations that can increase farmers' productivity are built into Bush Hog's new 3200 Series cutter line.

"Our focus on support line products means our engineers are constantly working to provide new products that deliver increased productivity and reduce maintenance," said Robert O. Moore, Bush Hog vice president, sales. "The new 3200 series rotary cutters do exactly that with more rigid strongbacks, deeper band depth, metal shields over the top of the drive lines, A-frames that are designed and built for heavy operations, heavy-duty gearboxes and rounded sidebands for a modern appearance."

Experience cutting thousands of acres across North America and design innovations that can increase farmers' productivity are built into Bush Hog's new 3200 Series cutter line.

The cutters are available in 9-foot, 10-1/2-foot, and 14-foot widths, Moore said. They are part of the 17 new products Bush Hog introduced within 24 months.

Ag Journal Begins Publication

ST. JOSEPH, Mich. — ASAE announces the launch of a new quarterly publication, the Journal of Agricultural Safety and Health (JASH), under the editorship of Dennis J. Murphy, CSP, extension safety specialist, Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa.

The Journal of Agricultural Safety and Health is the first new scientific journal published by ASAE since 1985. It is being launched in response to a growing awareness of the unique needs and concerns of safety and health as they relate to agriculture.

The Journal of Agricultural Safety and Health is designed to foster identification and discussion of the issure related to agricultural safety and health worldwide. Emphasizing a strong, interdisciplinary focus from such disciplines as engineering, occupational safety, social psychology, public policy, education, industrial hygiene, and public health, this journal provides a solid base to bridge the issues and concerns related to agricultural safety and health.

Areas of interest will include identification, reporting, treatment, and prevention of agricultural and rural trauma and illness; engineering design and the application of human factors engineering; safety and health intervention strategies and program effectiveness; the role, impact, and development of agricultural safety and health standards, legislation, and regulation; and professional development issues concerning agricultural safety and health.

In addition to scholarly, peer-reviewed articles, issues will contain abstracts of relevant articles from other journals; a listing of ASAE and NIFS safety and health technical papers; and a "What's Going On" section listing upcoming safety and health conferences, meetings, government agency activities, and announcements.

JASH welcomes original research projects, evaluations of current intervention and demonstration projects, literature reviews, the application of new or modified theories and models to agricultural safety and health problems, critical commentaries, and editorials on current issues.

Stephanie Bush Interns At PennWest

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — PennWest Farm Credit, ACA, (Agricultural Credit Association) encourages college students through a summer internship program each year. The program offers an opportunity for students to experience the real world of agri business with a special emphasis on the farm credit system.

This year's intern, Stephanie Bush, Penn State student, has enjoyed the opportunities that she has already had. Besides working side by side with the staff of the PennWest, Stephanie has participated in an intern-training program with the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore. The intern program provides a wide variety of experiences to help interns better understand the skills that are needed in the workplace.

Stephanie is the daughter of Terry and Linda Bush, who operate a dairy farm in the Wattsburg area of Erie County. She is a dairy and animal science student taking a business option. While attending school at University Park she has worked with the Dairy Profitability Project, in the Department of Agriculture and Extension Education, and will work in the Ruminant Nutrition Laboratory in the fall.

19,682 Acres Enrolled In Programs

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Berks County producers enrolled 19,682 base acres of feed grains and wheat in the 1994 farm programs, according to Richard Troutman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

Based on a USDA report, the total crop base acreage includes 3,261 wheat acres and 16,425 feed grain acres.

The 1994 farm program participants signed agreements of intentions to idle 1,277 acres under the 0,50/85-92 program provisions, Troutman said.

Under the 1994 programs, farmers have the option of planting permitted crops, other than the program crop, on up to 25 percent of the crop acreage base. According to Troutman, Berks County producers intend to plant 1,068 flex acres to soybeans and 1,500 acres to other crops.

Participating producers will be eligible for price support loans and deficiency payments.

Nationally, farmers enrolled 175.2 million acres of program crops and intend to idle 12.1 million acres under the 1994 price support and production adjustment programs.

Megalac Available From Farmland

PRINCETON, N.J. — Farmland Industries, Inc. recently announced an agreement with Church & Dwight Co., Inc. making Megalac® rumen bypass fat available to its dairy producers.

Dairy producers in the member-owned cooperative can purchase Megalac as an individual product, or it can be custom-mixed with other dairy feed ingredients to provide a complete feed ration.

Megalac rumen bypass fat is a patented formula of calcium salts of long chain fatty acids, bypass fat with a measured net energy value for lactation. (2.96Mcal/lb.) When fed at the recommended rate, it can supply the last essential portion of the dairy energy equation.

Farmland producers interested in Megalac rumen bypass fat should contact their local cooperative or call Farmland's Kansas City office at (800) 459-5440 or the Sioux City office at (800) 459-5440.

Penn State Turfgrass Field Days August 10-11

LEMONT (Centre Co.) — The 1994 Penn State Turfgrass Field Days is scheduled to be held Wednesday August 10 through August 11 at Penn State University's Joseph Valentine Turfgrass Research Center and the Landscape Management Research Center at University Park.

The location of the two research centers is on the northeast end of University Park, near the Rt. 322 bypass and near Beaver Stadium.

Registration fee for the field days is $20 per person and no advance registration is needed.

Although the deadline is past for tickets to a 6 p.m. barbecue scheduled for Wednesday by the Pennsylvania Turfgrass Council, a number of plot tours and research tours are scheduled both days. Also, on Thursday at 11:30 a.m. is to be the dedication of a new museum at Penn State, the "Mascaro/Steiniger Turfgrass Museum," which is to display a history of turfgrass and of collection of early tools and equipment.

The schedule of events for Wednesday starts with registration frunning from 11 a.m. through 1 p.m., followed by a series of tours. The tentative list of tours includes a review of biostimulants trials; disease control studies; fertilizer trial results; compost evaluation; insect control studies; variety evaluations; putting green management; weed control trials; and rolling studies.

Thursday's registration runs from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m., followed by another series of a tours, divided by an 11:30 a.m. break for the dedication of the Mascaro/Steiniger Turfgrass Museum.

The tentative list of Thursday tour topics includes broadleaf weed control; disease control studies; fertilizer evaluation results; low maintenance lawn turf results; minimum maintenance grass evaluations; PGR results; post-emergence crabgrass control results; pre-emergence weed control results; runnoff and leachate research; and ornamental grasses.

The Penn State turf faculty include, Mr. George Hamilton, instructor; Dr. Paul Heller, turfgrass entomology; Dr. David Huff, turfgrass science; Mr. Andrew McNitt, extension associate; Ms. Patricia Sanders, plant pathology; and Dr. Thomas Watschke, turfgrass science.

Fro more information, call Hamilton at (814) 865-3007; Landschoot in the PSU Department of Agronomy at (814) 863-1017; Watschke, Dept. of Agronomy, at (814) 863-7644; or the Pa. Turfgrass Council, at (814) 863-3475.

A number of hotels, motels and other accomodations are available in the area, and a listing is available through the turfgrass council.

Farmers' Market Going High Tech

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The Maryland Departments of Agriculture and Human Resources have teamed up to bring the electronic benefit transfer system, already in use in grocery stores, to the Baltimore City Farmers Market under the Jones Falls Expressway.

"We are excited that food stamp recipients who use their independence card in super markets will now be able to do the same thing at the farmers' market. It will simplify the process tremendously, eliminate the need for paper food stamps, and allow people to purchase fantastic, fresh Maryland fruits and vegetables," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley.

By taking advantage of cellular telephone technology with a portable battery pack, vendors will be able to use electronic transfer even at locations where electricity and telephone lines are unavailable.

"The Department of Human Resources is committed to making all services available to every client. I am happy that the mobile merchant program will increase food stamp program availability and cost-effectiveness," said Secretary of Human Resources Carolyn Colvin.

Some 20 farmers at the Baltimore City Farmers' Market will use the new technoloty through the end of September as part of this pilot project. The project is being funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture as part of their effort to increase participation of farmers' market vendors in the food stamp program.

In the battle of the powershifts, only one is Simply Brilliant

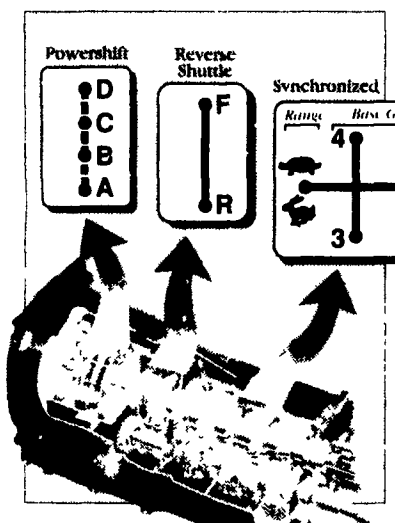
In a world that's growing more and more complex, the best solutions are often the simplest. They're functional, efficient and reliable. And the competition all wish they had thought of it.

Massey Ferguson's Dynashift transmission is just such a solution. Compared to other powershift transmissions, there's no comparison. The Dynashift is simply the smartest choice you can make. Test drive one today on 86-170 hp* MF tractors.



An 8 speed synchro shuttle transmission is combined with a smooth 4-speed powershift to give you quick shifts from any gear to any gear forward and reverse plus smooth under load powershifts up AND down from your working speed

Wayne County 4-H Demonstration

Ten Wayne County 4-H'ers participated in the 4-H demonstration event which was held recently in the Wayne County Extension Office.

Each 4-Her demonstrated something that they had learned from their project and were judged by Karen Jaggers and Steven Burlein.

Those participating were Brien Clark from Beech Grove Community 4-H Club; Lacey Longo, Bethany 4-H Club; Kurt, Janelle and Mallary Curtis from Bethany 4-H Club; Jessica and Jimmie Ann Chyle from Cold Springs-Rileyville 4-H Club; Heather and Jennifer Krisovitch from 4-H Munchkins; and Curtis Tyler from Laurella Community 4-H Club.

These 4-H'ers will go on to compete along with other 4-H'ers from Lackawanna, Luzerne, and Wyoming counties at the multi-county 4-H demonstration.

York County 4-H Rabbit Bowl

On Monday, June 20, nine members from the York County 4-H Rabbit and Small Animal Club participated in the regional Rabbit and Cavy Knowledge Bowl in Dauphin County.

One senior team and two junior teams joined in the competition with teams from Dauphin, Bucks, Berks, Lancaster, and Montgomery counties.

York County Junior Team #1, consisting of Karen Keyser, Wrightsville, Missy Stough, Glen Rock, and Rijelle Kraft, Manchester, won the junior competition. York's Jr. Team #2 placed fifth. That team included Doralisa Cruz, York, Angie Gomez, York, and Tony Page, York.

The senior team, with members Lillian Eddinger, New Freedom, Kristy Brown, York, and Lucas Kraft, Manchester, finished second after a hard fought match with Dauphin County. Junior Team #1 was undefeated throughout the entire competition and no team came within 50 points of their scores.

The senior team will be competing at 4-H State Days Achievement Days.

Berks County Dog Show Winner

Congratulations to Mindy Donnan, York, a member of the York County 4-H Rabbit and Small Animal Club, who recently participated in The Berks County 4-H Dog Show with her dog, Jassie. Mindy and Jessie won a blue ribbon in the Most Patriotic Pup Contest.

National Citizenship Program

Three Adams County 4-H teens recently attended the 4-H Citizenship Washington Focus (CWF) at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase, Md.

The 4-H teens were Matt Brown, McKnightstown; Samantha Lane, Biglerville; and April Weigand, East Berlin.

The theme for this year's CWF Conference was "A People's Power". The teems gathered in Gettysburg to develop interpersonal skills and visited the Battlefield area.

Adams County 4-H teens and 33 other teens from Pennsylvania joined members from five other states in our nation's capitol. Meetings with representatives and senators, along with visits to federal agencies, historical buildings, and cultural centers, allowed the 4-H teens to participate as they learned.

Between visits to Washington, the 4-H teens attended discussion and lecture workshops on what they experienced., They also explored ways to make use of the concepts for themselves and for their communities at home. After a week of CWF, these 4-H teens have a better understanding of government "by the people and for the people."

4-H Capons Profitable

The Capon Exhibit at The Pennsylvania State Farm Show, January 1994, has grown as large as the dressed Turkey Exhibit.

A self-employed 10-year-old stays at home all summer tending a 4-H capon project. Come fall, after all the ready to cook chickens are sold, the 4-H member banks $500 to $700 net income to labor and management from 100 capons. If everything goes well and the 4-H member does what he is supposed to do, the net income is 5 to 7 dollars per bird for 1.5 to 3 hours labor per bird.

Each year more than 100 youngsters in Pennsylvania 4-H capon projects enjoy eating range-grown tender, flavorful meat during the fall holidays and sell dressed oven-ready capons for $1.80 to $2.50 a pound.

Adult buyers ages 18 to 84 years old buy many birds at the dressed capon roundup banquet at auction. Champion oven-ready capon at auction typically sells for $3-$50 a pound.

Many youngsters in 4-H capon projects learn production, processing and marketing skills to employ themselves later as adult farmers.

Several thousand dollars is banked by many 4-H capon club members age 8 through 18 years of age selling capons by call-in order for the holidays. The risk is present, so that only able managers make high net income.

This 4-H capon project usually requires much skill to grow, slaughter, package, and market 100 or more capons each year.

For more information on 4-H capon projects, call your county agricultural or cooperative extension office listed in the county office phone directory.

4-H Roundup Will Include Barn Tours, Animal Shows, Livestock Sale

The annual Mercer County 4-H Roundup, scheduled for August 10-13, will include several animal shows and the Junior Livestock Sale. It will take place at the 4-H Park, Route 19, a mile and a half north of Mercer. Events are totally free, and open to the public.

Animal shows begin Wednesday, August 10 with a Beef Show at 6:30 p.m. They continue on Thursday, August 11 with a Market Hog Show at 8:30 a.m. a market goat show at 3:15 p.m. and a sheep show at 3:30 p.m. The dairy show will take place starting at 9:00 a.m. Friday, August 12. All of these animal shows will take place in e Show Arena at the back of the 4-H Park The 4-H livestock sale is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Friday evening in the Show Arena.

A horse show is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, August 13, in the Horse Ring, and a breeding goat show is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. in the Show Arena. Between all shows, cititzens can bring their family members to the 4-H Park to view the animals up close, as Guided Barn Tours will be conducted Thursday at 2:30 p.m. and Friday at 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Interested people should meet at the north bleachers.

No farm animal shows that are included at roundup are a rabbit show and a poultry show at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, a dog show focusing on grooming and showmanship at 6 p.m. Friday, open pet judging at 6 p.m. Friday, and a pet parade and show at 7 p.m. Friday.

The rabbit show will take place in the picnic pavilion behind the exhibit building. The dog show will take place on the south side of the Exhibit Building at the front of the park, and the pet parade will take place on the north side of the Exhibit Building. The Pet Parade and Show is open to public participation, and citizens are invited to bring their pets (no farm animals, please).

4-H Roundup is sponsored by the Mercer County Cooperative Extension office of the Pennsylvania State University. For more information, contact Barry Nelson, (412) 662-3141 or (412) 962-5711, ext. 343.

4-H And Roundup In Mercer County

Summer can be a boring time for some kids, but not for the 1,700+ Mercer County youth and 132 leaders involved in the 4-H program. These youngsters have had a summer filled with excitement and challenge, as they have made new friends, learned and practiced project skills, traveled, and developed personal abilities.

The 4-H program has its busiest season in the summer months. The 55 clubs across the county have been meeting throughout the summer, focusing on project work, which is the basic tool for youth development in 4-H.

Developing skills and making decisions are important parts of 4-H projects. The more than 135 available projects help to develop life skills such as decision-making and cooperating with others. Four-H projects help members learn by doing, and encompass a wide range of areas such as photography, carpentry, pet care, computers, rocketry, archery, decorating, electricity, bicycle safety, orienteering, and cooking.

Club, county, regional, state and even national events and activities provide even more opportunities for improving leadership skills, speaking abilities, and many other skills that will e used throughout the 4-H members' lives.

The efforts of 4-H members, leaders and families will be pulled together for the largest event of the summer 4-H Roundup. The event will be held August 10, 11, 12 and 13 at the Mercer County 4-H Park, Route 19, a mile and a half north of Mercer.

The entire event is open to the public, free of charge. For more information, or to obtain a free schedule of events, contact the Mercer County Cooperative Extension office, (412) 662-3141 or (412) 962-5711, ext. 343.

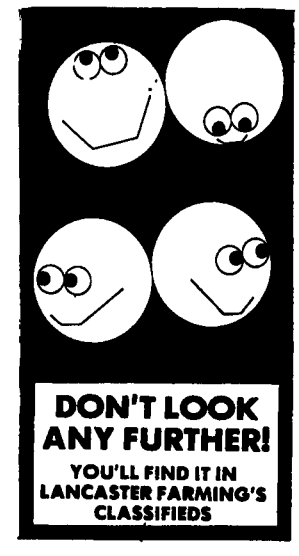
Countywide Dairy Club

The July 11 meeting of the Cumberland Countywide 4-H Dairy Club was kicked off by an informative and interesting demonstration by John Leib on picking the right bull to breed to.

Craig and Betsy Walton then talked on proper hoof care, an essential part to a successful dairy herd.

The Hersheypark idea that had been brought up at the last meeting was passed and it was decided that we would meet at the MJ Mall in Carlisle at 9:30 a.m. on August 21. The recent Dairy Bowl contest held in Carlisle was discussed and we found out that the Cumberland County Junior team was first and third in the junior division.

Matthew Day gave a report on the recent southcentral judging school held in Franklin County. It was reported that Becky and Aaron Cornman attended as did Mark and Julie Fulton and Matthew Day.



Fair Happenings

63rd New Holland Farmers Fair

The 63rd New Holland Farmers Fair will be held from Wednesday, Sept. 28 through Saturday, Oct. 1.

Exhibits will be received from 2-8 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 27. Exhibitor numbers can be obtained at the Ford New Holland building on Franklin Street for crafts, baked and canned goods, fruit, nuts, jellies and handcrafts. (Use the dispensary entrance.)

Exhibitor numbers can also be obtained at the New Holland Elementary School for 4-H and youth needlecraft, adult needlecraft, and art and photography. These categories will be displayed at the school.

Floral exhibits will be received at the Boy Scout home on South Roberts Avenue from 2-8 p.m. Models will be received at the Sportsman's Shop on Main Street.

Hay, tobacco, corn and small grains will be received in the 4-H tent (Sales Stable Lot on Fulton Street) from 2-8 p.m.

The fair will feature four fun-packed days and nights starting with the bake sale on Wednesday at noon in front of the Ford New Holland Building. The Spectacle of Bands Parade will begin at 7 p.m. that night.

Preliminary and elimination competition for the Fireman's Tug Of War will begin Thursday night at 8 p.m. in front of the judges stand on Franklin Street, with the semifinals on Friday night and the finals on Saturday night at the same time and place.

Friday is Kids Day, featuring a puppet show from 4-5 p.m. at the judges stand on Franklin Street followed by the drawing for prizes at 5 p.m. This year the pedal power tractor pull for children ages 3-10 has been added to the list of events. Kids 3-6 will compete Friday, at 5:30 p.m., at the judges stand on Franklin Street and kids 7-10 will have their competition on Saturday evening at 5:30 p.m., same place.

Sheep and swine will be on exhibit all week at the Sales Stables on Fulton Street until 6:30 p.m. Friday, when the sale will take place.

The fair closes Saturday with a full day of entertainment. Beginning at 7 a.m., at the New Holland Community Park, the horseshoe pitching contest will commence.

Main Street will come alive Saturday afternoon as pets and babies will parade before the crowds. The pet parade is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. and the baby parade will begin at 4 p.m. A grand prize and runner-up will be awarded as well as prizes in 12 other categories.

Exhibits will be open daily at the Ford New Holland Building, New Holland Elementary School, Boy Scout Home, and Sportsman's Shop.

As in the past years, the midway will be open daily featuring rides, games, and food booths of every kind.

CONSIDER THE MANY CONCRETE ADVANTAGES!

"A GOOD JULY RAIN GROWS A LOT OF GRAIN!"

With The Prospect Of A Good Corn Crop, It's Time For Many Producers To Make Decisions Concerning Storage.

about 10,000 bu. cap.
Shelled Corn
Poured Concrete
No Used Silos!
No Rebuilt Silos!
No Preowned Silos!!

In order to avoid hauling and drying costs, let us build a corn storage unit to preserve your valuable grain at 20%-30% moisture.

To keep your stored corn bright and yellow, you must protect it from oxygen and heat. Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel.

Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement.

BEFORE SPENDING A LOT OF MONEY FOR ENERGY TO DRY YOUR CORN, YOU WILL DO WELL TO CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF OUR POURED CONCRETE SILOS...

To unload your corn, we can install the simple auger system, the Laidig 43 unloader, or the Flying Dutchman. Let's discuss the options, and what is best for your situation.

TIRED OF LEAKING ROOFING? USE

WHEELING Channeldrain®

ROOFING & SIDING

Exclusive drain channel guards against wind, rain and snow...assures dryness.
1. Wide overlap: Increases strength and leak protection at each joint.
2. Wide nailing surface: Makes nailing easier and faster.
3. Drain channel: the exclusive leak-proof system that prevents capillary action; stays weather tight. This Wheeling feature has insured "dry barns" for thousands of farmers over the past 50 years.

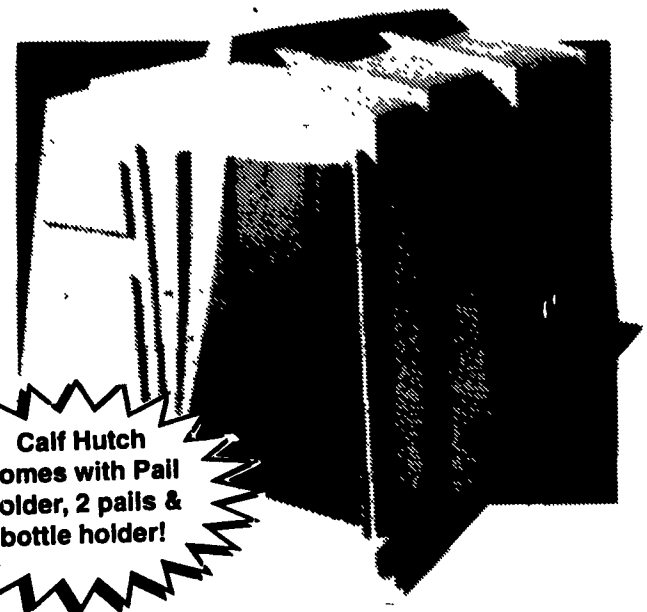
SUPREME CALF HUTCH
J&D MOLDED HIGH DENSITY-POLYETHYLENE CALF HUTCH
J&D Calf Hutches will keep calves drier in the winter, they will stay warmer and start eating at an earlier age. During the warm summer months you can use the standard, adjustable air vent to control the climate in the Calf Hutch. Your calves will be healthier and will grow faster. You may add an out door fence area to the hut.



Calf Hutch comes with Pail holder, 2 pails & bottle holder!

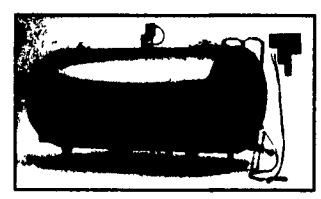
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Offer

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs are not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$41,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$58,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

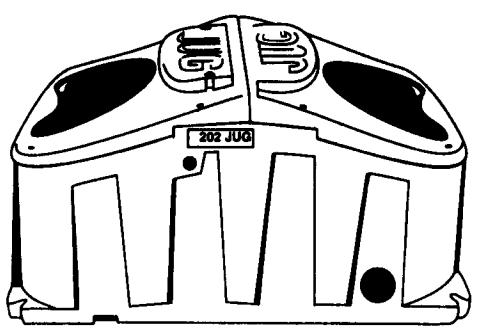
The JUG passes the "winter of '93-'94" test



Remember the c-c-c-c-c-cold winter of '93-'94? Wondering what the next one will bring and how your herd will fair?

Install the energy-efficient JUG to reduce concerns about freezing cattle fountains. Even in the coldest weather, the JUG performed, while the competition's waterers did not.

While the JUG's thick urethane insulation keeps the winter cold out, its patented drawtube recirculates water. Cooler bowl water exchanges with warmer reservoir water to keep bowl water open. The JUG will do its job.

A cold weather test conducted by an Iowa college during the winter of '94 demonstrated its energy efficiency. The JUG used only 108 kilowatts of electricity over four months for a cost of $8.64. A competitor's waterer used 816 kilowatts, costing $65.28, almost eight times as much. The test confirmed the JUG's energy efficiency.

No other waterer equals the Jug for clean, palatable water. Low maintenance, the JUG also meets the requirements for dairy approval.

FOR SALE
20 North County Cheviot ewes
This is one of the best North County flocks in this part of the country. Majority are '89 & '92 births.
The Canadian government has been buying rams from Scotland and keeping them in guarantine for the required period, then selling the offspring so that these sheep are from many generations of the best that Scotland has to offer.
Due to my age, I must sell after 25 years of breeding North Country Cheviot Sheep.

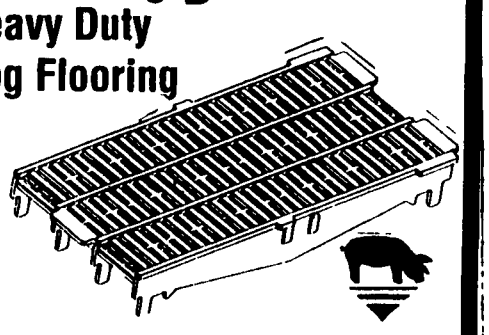
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? ☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™

Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.

- ◆ POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?

- ◆ More piglets survive until weaning
- ◆ Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- ◆ Heavier piglets at weaning
- ◆ Better conditioned sows at weaning

Have you tried toasted grains?

Consider these advantages over traditional roasting methods

- Consistent by-pass proteins and low moisture levels
- Improved energy density of your rations
- Excellent quality control.
- Exchange programs with feed mills
- Economical storage, rolling and grinding available.
- We also buy corn and soybeans

MIRACLE FEEDS . . . HER SOURCE FOR BREWERS WET GRAINS

Have You Considered Making BWG a Part of Your Herd's Program?

Brewers wet grains are a part of many dairy rations in this area because they:

- Are very economical.
- Are concentrated and provide protein, energy and digestible fiber in a very efficient manner.
- Provide a significant quantity of bypass protein.
- Are an effective way to extend your forage when it is in short supply.
- Enhance the nutritional content of poor quality forage.
- Are flexible . . .can be used with McNess vitamin and mineral premixes in either grain mixes or TMR's (total mixed rations).

Brewers wet grains from Miracle/McNess also offer you the bonus of free ration balancing. We can test your forage and balance your feedstuffs to get the most out of your program. Just call toll-free 800-888-0230.

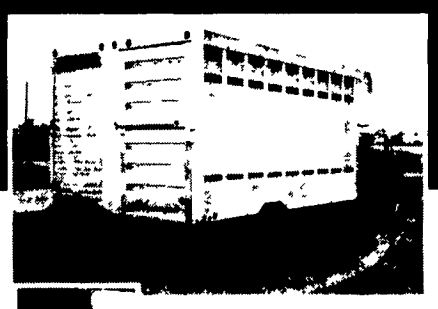
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

Best Values in New Equipment

ANY FAMILY RESEMBLANCE IS PURELY INTENTIONAL.

The legacy of MAGNUM™ and MAXXUM® now enters the mid-range class.

Introducing the Case International 3200 and 4200 Series tractors. Five new tractors ranging from 42 to 85 PTO hp. Powered by tough Case IH diesel engines. And worthy of the reputation for reliability, durability and performance established by MAGNUM and MAXXUM.

These new tractors offer smooth, new synchronized speed and range transmissions with reduced shifting effort in all gears. Heavy-duty clutches, final drives and PTOs are strengthened for long life under the toughest conditions. And super-responsive hydraulics cycle quickly for precise loader control.

Sleek new styling increases visibility, a vital asset for loader work. Large front and side grilles add to engine cooling and performance. And on cab versions, plenty of glass area and a MAGNUM style right-hand console lift operator productivity to new heights.

To find out which 3200/4200 tractor best suits your needs, stop by one of these Case IH dealers. While you're there, ask about Total Product Support—our commitment to the service and parts that add life to your tractor.

The new Case International 3200 and 4200 Series tractors. Proof that good looks and great performance run in the family.

Models Available: Your Choice Of 6, 7, 9, 12 and 15 Ft. All Galvanized Hopper-Bottom Bins

Ground controlled fill caps

Opening and closing of the fill cap is made easy by our spring loaded, Auto-Lok ground control. Offered as a standard tank feature, this factory assembled control has a single chain to operate the entire opening, closing, and latching process. In the open position, the lid lays parallel to the ground to insure ease of filling the tank, along with eliminating the possibility of damage from the fill auger. In the closed position, the lid is automatically and securely locked down by the gravity assisted, positive latching mechanism.

An alternative to this package includes a manual hold-down latch and a sealing gasket for use with a pneumatic fill system.

Schaefer Barn Kooler®

The Barn Kooler® System incorporates a series of fans and controls into an integrated system that is used for both high velocity air cirulation for cooling during the Summer and gentle, draft-free air movement during the Winter months. By utilizing thermostically controlled speed modulators, the speed of the circulating air is constantly adjusted to the temperature. As the temperatures in the building rise and fall, so does the volume of air being circulated.

Farm Bureau's Fall Conference To Focus On Education

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. — New York Farm Bureau's annual Fall Conference sponsored by Farm Bureau Women, will explore how the state's agricultural industry can work together to increase the public's understanding about the industry.

The two-day session will be held September 29-30 at the Holiday Inn Arena in Binghamton. The conference will be held in conjunction with the Ag Teacher's Association and the New York Agriculture in the Classroom Program.

In addition to covering the challenging topic of educating the public about agriculture, conference participants will be treated to an upbeat talk by noted farm humorist Jane Jenkins Herlong. Hailing from South Carolina, it has been said that Herlong "weaves a rich tapestry of self-empowerment through heart-warming examples, humorous anecdotes, homespun truths, and high-flying songs."

Other conference/speakers include the following: "The Power of Motivation and Importance of Critical Thinking," Robin Eubanks, workshop specialist; "ATANY Inservice-networking/-Building Partnerships," Dr. Joyce Winterton, National FFA Partners Team; "State Issues Facing Education/Ag Education," NYFB staff; "Environmental Issues Facing Agriculture," NYFB staff; "Preventing Hearing Loss," Marylee Hill, N.Y. Center of Agricultural Medicine and Health; "Promoting Farm Bureau Women's Programs," Dr. Joyce Winterton; and "Networking-How Can We Work Together?", Patsy Perkins, professional trainer.

There will also be an opportunity to tour area sites, including the Phelps Mansion, a post-Civil War Victorian-style mansion; the Robertson Museum and Science Center; and the famous Boscov's Department Store. In addition, there will be an optional dinner on the second night involving an interactive mystery dinner theater, "Death is a Caberet."

The conference is open to young and old alike. It's a chance to get away for a couple of days of learning, fun, and relaxation. For additional information on attending Farm Bureau's Fall Conference, call Pam Rafferty, NYFB, at (518) 436-8495; Onalie Beckstead, NYFB Women's Chairman, at (315) 322-4085; or Alison Cowen, NYFB Women's Program Coordinator, at (607) 272-4791. Deadline to register is September 8.

Ag Showcase Day

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

FAIR HILL, MD — The Ag Showcase Day at the Cecil County Fair again offered farmers the chance to see some of the displayed farming equipment in action. Even with poor haymaking weather, a good number of farmers attended, and the enthusiasm of the participants was evident.

"The event is always popular," said Amy Russell, Cecil County ag agent. "This is the 13th Ag Showcase Day, and we have a wonderful volunteer group. The event is a success because of all the good people who work with it.

"Rather than just see equipment on display at the fair, it is terrific to see the latest equipment and technology in action. If you have questions, you can find answers in the working examples."

Al Miller, fair vice president in charge of the grounds, said they like to keep things moving in the field at Ag Showcase because that is what the farmers seem to enjoy. At last year's 40th anniversary of the fair, a number of antique tractors and pieces of equipment were worked in the field. This year a few pieces of antique farm machinery were displayed but not worked. But Miller said that because of the popularity of that event last year, he thought they may try to get antique equipment working in the fields again in future years.

The theme of Ag Showcase this year was forage quality. And most of the equipment in action related to forage. Activities included seed selection, planting, harvesting and storing. The event is held at Fair Hill Horse Farm adjacent to the fair grounds.

Dealers involved in showing equipment included: Ag Industrial; C. B. Hoober; Biggs, Inc.; W. N. Cooper, and Ben Haines. DTN showed a satellite link to obtain crop and weather reports. The Cecil County Ag Extension and Soil Conservation Service sponsored the event along with Farm Credit; Agway; Southern States; Hoffman Seeds, and Ethel Murray.

Young Farmers Meet

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The Ephrata Area Young Farmers met at 7 p.m. on July 21 at the Zimmerman farm along Stevens Road. Doris and John Zimmerman served a tasty picnic supper enhanced by fresh corn on the cob and cantaloupe provided by the Clark Stauffer farm.

Jay Hows, manager of agricultural services for the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, presented information on the current situation of water use regulation and fees as proposed by the Susquehanna River Basin Commission.

The commission was formed on January 23, 1971 by the Susquehanna River Basin Compact, an agreement between the States of New York, Pennsylvania, and Maryland, and the U.S government. The commission consists of one representative from each of the entities.

The SRBC extended the comment period until September 1,1994, and directed staff to actively work with the ag community to develop alternatives to a fee structure.

President Philip E. Risser conducted a short business session, and advisor Michael W. Brubaker gave the information that the Cocalico School Board will give the association support.

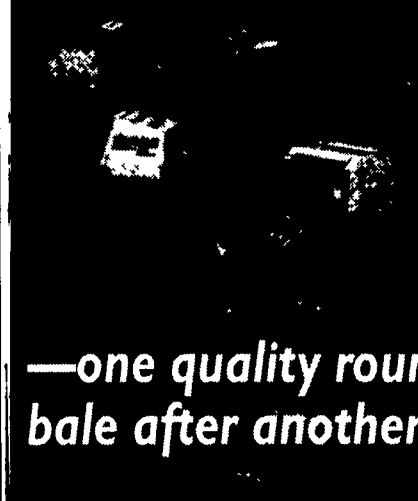
CLAAS® Rollant round balers give you what you want



—one quality round bale after another.

Discover Quality...Discover Value...

Discover CLAAS
THE HARVESTING SPECIALIST

The Rollant 66 makes fast work of 4'x5' bales. Its unique two-stage pick-up and close tines produce a clean, efficient harvest in less time. Rollatex netting wraps a bale in 10 seconds or less, and double-twine wraps it up in just 20.

The Rollant 46 introduced CLAAS's innovative fixed bale chamber to the marketplace. This versatile baler handles all farm operations from dry hay to silage. Nobody produces a better 4'x4' bale.

The Rollant 42 was designed for family livestock operations. This economical investment produces weather-tight 4'x4' bales for the highest nutrient content possible.

CLAAS bales mean nutrient-filled edible hay, low spoilage, and high crude protein retention.

Each Rollant offers the innovative chamber, low-profile pick-up, and world class dependability. And they all share CLAAS's international reputation for low maintenance, durability and long-life

Call now to see how you can improve the round figures on your bottom line.

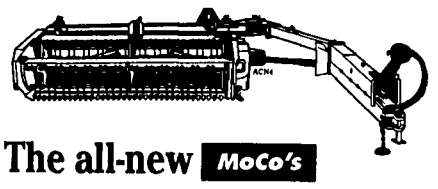
NOBODY DOES HAY BETTER



The all-new MoCo's

- An all new three-point suspension system provides unmatched flotation
- Redesigned guards and a 5-bar reel help the all new sicklebar machine cut better – and six inches wider – than anything in it's class
- Two new rotary disk models feature the all new, John Deere-built modular cutterbar. It's stronger than anything else on the market.
- An exclusive Power-Cushion helps prevent the driveline from bottoming out during tight turns.

- 930 Roll Machine In Stock, Ready For Delivery

CHORES AND MORE

Ask about the versatile AGCO Allis 4650 and 4660 chore tractors in the 40-52 PTO hp range. They provide low maintenance, economical operation, fuel efficiency and are backed by a 4 year/4,000-hour warranty.

- Reliable, air-cooled engines. The 3-cylinder naturally aspirated diesel engine delivers 40 PTO hp in the 4650 and 52 PTO hp in the 4660. It also eliminates components that cause downtime in liquid cooled engines and is among the best in fuel consumption tests.
- Independent PTO. Both models feature a 540 rpm with a 6-spline shaft. The 4650 and 4660 come standard with a Category I 3-point hitch with telescopic stabilizers.
- Efficient drivetrains. The synchropower transmission features 12 forward and 3 reverse speeds. Optional creeper gears provide 16 forward and 4 reverse speeds. Both tractor models come as either 2WD or AWD.
- Quality features. The 4600 series tractors feature hydrostatic power steering and premium Goodyear radial tires. They also feature a rear axle differential lock and mechanically actuated wet disc brakes.

The AGCO Allis 4600 Series tractors are engineered for trouble-free service and long life. They are lightweight, compact tractors with excellent visibility, maneuverability and common sense instrumentation. To see how easy it is to operate the 4650 and 4660 or any of the orange line of AGCO Allis tractors ranging from 40 to 128 PTO hp, stop by or call us soon.

GARRETT IS BIG ON AG TURBOS

PLOW BIG SAVINGS ON GENUINE GARRETT TURBOS

Don't miss this opportunity to plow some big savings on Genuine Garrett Factory Remanufactured turbochargers. Your Authorized Garrett Distributor Penn Diesel Service should have a turbocharger or cartridge that fits your tractor, combine, or other farm equipment. If it's a turbocharged Ag engine, there's most likely a Garrett turbo on it. Look at the following list of OE's. There's a reason why they specify Garrett turbochargers for their engines.

- Allis Chalmers
- Deutz Allis
- Fiat Allis
- Ford
- International Harvester
- J.I. Case
- John Deere
- Massey Ferguson
- Navistar
- Perkins

For those same reasons, when it's time for a replacement trubo, it's time for Genunie Garrett. All Genuine Garrett turbochargers are remanufactured to original equipment specifications at the Garrett factory. It's your assurance of original equipment quality and performance with a warranty that matches the new turbo Genuine Garrett turbochargers are remanufactured with this same high quality parts as new and reengineered for the most recent upgrades and refinements to maintain the exact performance characteristics into the original turbo. For more information on Genuine Garrett Factory Reman Turbos, see your local Garrett Distributor or call or write:

Level your fields without leveling your combine.

The brilliantly simple Dynamic Hillside Compensation System, optional on MF 8400 conventional combines, gives you "flat land" performance on slopes up to 20 degrees. All automatically. And all at a surprisingly low cost. Stop in today for all the details.

Without Hillside System, crops overload the lower side of the sieve, causing high losses and low sample quality.

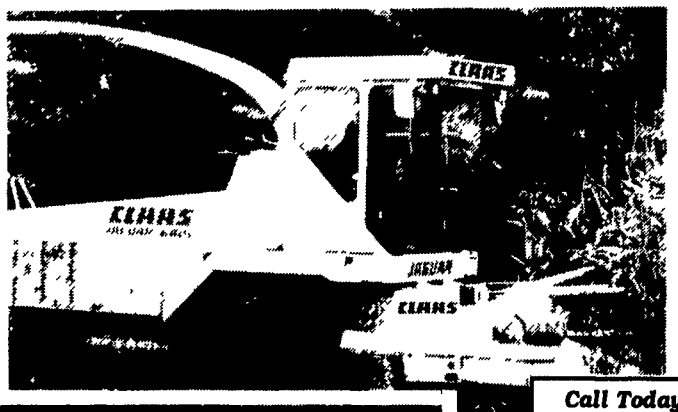
THE CLAAS HARVESTER



MAXIMUM FEED QUALITY

To ensure maximum feed quality from corn it is vital to crack every kernel Digestion of uncracked corn falls as the corn becomes drier Independent trials have shown the Claas corn cracker to be close to 100% effective From the cylinder the corn passes through the two large diameter rollers with saw tooth profiles The rollers run at different speeds to intensify the grinding effect and open up each kernel It is a fairly tough process so the latest generation of corn crackers take account of the wear involved on the rollers Nothing can reduce the wear but Claas have cut the cost of repair by making the outer sleeve replaceable. The shaft, drive pulley and bearings can all be reused which cuts down repair bills dramatically Adjusting the distance between the two rollers is accomplished by turning two handles, easily accessible behind the cab. In no time at all the degree of cracking can be matched to the ripeness of the crop.

RELIABILITY

The CLAAS Cutterbox is a unique balanced design using 2 knives in a V configuration. This forces the cutting action toward the center instead of the outside. This is the secret of their horsepower requirement and good quality of cut.
